

PACKARD'S Great Regenerator for the HUMAN HAIR.

It is now too well known to need any further recommendation from any source. Yet to satisfy the most credulous, I will publish the following testimony.

Harrison Sq., Dorchester, Mar. 30, 1859.
MR. PACKARD—SIR:—I have given your Regenerator a fair trial and find it all you claim for it. My hair was very gray; it is now restored to perfect color. All the humor is removed from the scalp. In short, I have now a perfect head of hair. I am willing to go before any Jury of the Peace and make oath to the above, if you wish it.
E. BIRD.

What it has done for him it will do for every body that will use it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effective alternative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove an immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:—

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BOILS, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, CALD HEAD, SYPHILIS AND SYPHILITIC AFFECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEURALGIA AND INDURATION, ERYSIPELAS, ROSE ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to dispel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Miracles can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcersous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do so by the use of the Sarsaparilla. It is a powerful solvent of the blood, and its use is a sure cure for all the diseases of the blood, and for all the diseases of the skin, and for all the diseases of the system, and for all the diseases of the body, and for all the diseases of the mind, and for all the diseases of the soul, and for all the diseases of the universe.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever.

Hence, bitter and painful disappointment followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flooded the market, until the use of the Sarsaparilla has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still, call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend supply such a remedy as shall rescue the me from the load of obloquy which rests on it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible to the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure the complete eradication from the system, the remedy should judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the virtues of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not more than say the people its quality is kept up to the best there has been, and that it may be relied on for their relief all it has ever been found to do.

FOR THE CURE OF Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, Stomachic, Erysipelas, Headache, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, and Complaints, Dropsy, Tetters, Tumors and Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Purgative, and for the cure of the Female Sex, are highly recommended, so that the most sensible can take them pleasantly, and they are the aperient in the world for all the purposes of a daily physic.

See 25 cents per Box; Five boxes for $1.00.
Large numbers of Clergymen, Physicians, Statesmen, and eminent persons have lent their names to certify the unparalleled usefulness of these pills, but our space here will not permit the recital of them. The Agents below named, for the purpose of gratifying the ALCHEMISTS in which they are given; with also full descriptions of the above pills, and the treatment that should be followed for their cure.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with cheap preparations they make more profit than the real AYER'S, and take no others. The sick at the best aid there is for them, and they should be cured.

Joshua Wheat.
COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE.

Did you ever see a bashful man, reader? If you have, then you have seen one of the most awkward, ungainly creatures among human bipeds. Now there may be something attractive and interesting in the shrinking timidity of a blushing girl, though I confess that I have my doubts in regard to it; but a bashful man, who ever pities him? Though despised by one sex, and laughed at by the other, always doing what he never ought to have done, and saying what he never intended to say, he is one of the most pitiable objects in existence.

To be sure, in these days of brass and assurance, when every body thinks himself as good as his neighbor, and a great deal better, they are very rare. But still they are to be met with occasionally, though they are disappearing rapidly, and probably in a few years there will be no trace of them left.

My friend, Joshua Wheat, was one of this unfortunate class of people. I say was, for he has wonderfully improved of late years. But I will not anticipate.

No one could have seen Joshua enter a room where there was company, and especially ladies, without being aware of this peculiarity of his. He generally either blundered along, looked red and foolish, or shot hurriedly in, with a white, scared face, hiding himself as soon as possible from observation behind a door, or in a corner, if there is a chair or stool anywhere in the room, which was very apt to be the case, he generally managed to tumble over it, which was not at all calculated to increase his self-possession, or add to the grace of his entrance. If a pretty girl spoke to him, he stammered and turned all sorts of colors, looking as frightened and ashamed as if he had been convicted of sheep stealing.

Poor Joshua! there certainly never was a man who had a higher opinion of the better prebials the blessings of matrimony; yet he had reached the age of twenty-eight without being one step nearer towards realizing them than he was eight years before.

He had five brothers; but though none of them had half his good looks or sense, they possessed what he did not, plenty of assurance, and a tact of showing all they did know, and were all married and happily settled in life, while he remained a forlorn, desolate bachelor.

It was not for the want of means to support a wife, for he had a plenty of this world's goods, a well-stocked farm, a nice new house, besides some money in the bank. It certainly was not for the want of girls, for there were scores of them in the town where he lived, all sorts and sizes, black-eyed, blue-eyed, and grey-eyed, and eyes of no color at all. No, Joshua Wheat remained unmarried merely because he had not moral courage sufficient to look any one of the girls in the face and say "I love you—will you marry me?"

These words are very simple, and to the uninitiated, very easily spoken; yet I have known many a man's courage fail him at the thought of saying them, who would have ridden into the front of the fiercest and hottest battle without the shadow of fear.

At last, all the girls of Joshua's acquaintance were married to braver, if not better men—all but one, Mary Dearborn, the prettiest one among them all, and as good and sensible as she was pretty. Mary had plenty of suitors, but she turned a cold shoulder to them all, she would have nobody but Joshua Wheat.

Joshua had taken a great shine to Mary ever since they were children; they used to go to school together, in the little red school-house on the hill, he drawing her to and from school in the winter on his little sled, and bringing her apples as red and shining as her rosy cheeks.

When they grew older he exhibited his preference for her, though in a somewhat different manner. Every Sabbath after meeting was over, he would post himself by the church door to escort her home; and in the evening, arrayed in his "Sunday best," he might have been seen striking a bee-line for Squire Dearborn's. About nine o'clock the old folks would go off to bed, leaving Joshua and Mary together. And there he would sit, looking straight into the fire, and scarcely daring to move or breathe, with the momentous question trembling on the very tip of his tongue, yet never leaving it. No nearer toward the object of his visit when he left the house than when he entered it.

Things went on in this way for a number of months. But at last an event occurred which gave Joshua quite a start. A son of Dr. Hale, the village physician, came from college, where he had graduated, it is said, with considerable distinction. He was a tall, lank, smooth-faced fellow, with more learning than brains, and more brass than either. He saw Mary in Church the first Sabbath afternoon, and took a great fancy to her, and commenced paying her considerable attention.

Young Hale had always been Mary's particular aversion. She had disliked him from his boyhood; but she did not scruple to flirt with him a little, hoping to arouse Joshua's jealousy and bring him to the point.

It seemed to have its effect; for learning that Mr. Lawrence, one of his neighbors, intended to give a party, and having obtained an inkling in some way that the college chap, as he termed his rival, intended to take Mary, he went over to Squire Dearborn's early the next morning, and asked her himself.

Delighted at the success of her manoeuvre, Mary gave a smiling consent, and at the appointed time, much to the chagrin of the young collegian, who had intended to appropriate her to himself, she went, accompanied by Joshua.

Alarmed at the bare possibility of losing her, Joshua appeared like a new man, and instead of moping in some corner, as was his wont, not daring to speak to her or any one else, he remained by her side nearly the whole evening, scarcely quitting her for a moment, and then only when she requested him to bring her some refreshments.

Mr. Hale, who had viewed Joshua's attention to Mary with a jealous eye, heard this request, and being well aware of Joshua's blundering propensities, very maliciously placed a stool directly in his way. Pretty soon Joshua came back, and instead of walking around the stool, as any body else would have done, he stumbled over it, and sprawling full length upon the floor, landed the contents of his hands, which consisted of a cup of coffee and a plate heaped with doughnuts, pumpkin pie, and various other eatables, directly in Mary's lap.

This unexpected feat produced quite a sensation. Mary set up a loud scream, and was the matter; and it was some time before order was restored.

When the tumult had in a measure subsided, Mary looked around for the unlucky cause of it, but he was nowhere to be found. Mortified at the ridiculous figure he cut, and the merriment of those who witnessed it, he had rushed from the house and never stopped or slackened his speed, until he had reached his room and bolted the door, firmly resolving as he did so, that he would never speak or even look at a girl again, so long as he lived.

Poor Mary was more annoyed at Joshua's evident discomfiture than at the loss of her dress, which was nearly ruined, and she conceived a stronger dislike than ever to the young collegian, who, she was quite sure, was at the bottom of it all. She resolutely declined his proffered escort at the close of the entertainment, going home with her brothers; leaving him the alternative of attending some other lady, or going home by himself.

Two Sundays passed, and Joshua never came near her; and on the Monday following, Mary put on her bonnet and shawl, and went over to the house, for the ostensible purpose of having a gossip with old Mr. Wheat, who lived with her son, but in reality to find out what had become of her lover.

Much to her disappointment, Joshua was not at home, though she saw a coat tail quickly disappear through an open door as she entered the room, which she shrewdly suspected to belong to him.

After sitting awhile and chatting with the old lady, with whom she was quite a favorite, Mary arose to go, saying as she did so, that "she guessed she would go across the lots, as it was considerable nearer."

She accordingly passed out the back way; as she was going through the garden, she caught a glimpse of Joshua in an adjoining orchard, walking disconsolately among the trees laden with their luscious fruit, and looking as though he hadn't a friend in the world.

He started and colored as his eyes fell upon Mary.

Why, Mr. Wheat, she exclaimed in a tone of surprise, why I haven't seen you for an age! Have you been sick?

Yes—no—that is, I haven't been very well, lately, stammered poor Joshua, looking as if he had half a mind to run away.

You don't say so! You are looking pale! said Mary, with the appearance of great sympathy, glancing mischievously at his face, which was growing redder every moment, and which certainly showed no signs of ill-health.

What a beautiful situation? she resumed, after a pause, looking admiringly around on the well-cultivated farm. There is only one thing wanted to make you quite comfortable, she added, slightly, and that is a wife. What in the world is the reason you don't get married, Joshua.

The poor fellow colored clear up to the tips of his hair. I—I really don't know, he gasped; there—there won't anybody have me.

Fiddlesticks! end! was the laughing rejoinder; I know better than that! There are plenty that would, if you would only take the trouble to ask them. I know of one, at least, she added, in a lower tone.

No, but really do you; inquired Joshua, earnestly. Who can it be?

This was rather too much; and growing indignant at either his stupidity, or want of courage to take advantage of the opportunity she gave him, she remained silent.

What a singular looking apple that is, that you hold in your hand! she remarked, at last, breaking the embarrassing silence that ensued.

Yes, resumed Joshua. It is a new kind I grafted last year, and the only one that came to perfection. Won't you have it, Miss Mary? he added, looking at her timidly.

Will I have you Joshua? Of course I will, said Mary, with the most innocent air imaginable.

Joshua was thunderstruck, scarcely daring to believe his ears. Are you in earnest, Mary? he inquired, looking anxiously into her face.

To be sure I am, she returned, laughing and coloring. And we will be married next Christmas.

Unable to contain himself, Joshua immediately threw his arms around Mary, and ratified the bargain with a hearty kiss, at which performance Mary manifested not the slightest objection or displeasure.

On the following Christmas there was a merry wedding at Squire Dearborn's, at which our friends, Joshua and Mary, were the chief actors.

And now, the staid, dignified looking man who walks into church with such an important air, with his wife on one side and little boy on the other, would hardly be recognized as that blundering, awkward fellow.

Young Men and Tree Frogs.

The tree frog acquires the color of whatever it adheres to for a short time. If it is found on the oak it is a brown color; on the sycamore or cedar he is of a whitish brown color; but when found on the growing corn he is sure to be green. Just so it is with young men.

Their companions tell us what their characters are; if they associate with the vulgar, the leucitons, and the profane, then their hearts are already stained with their guilt and shame, and they will themselves become alike vicious. The study of bad books, or the love of wicked companions, is the broadest and most certain road to ruin, that a young man can travel, and a few well-directed lessons in either will lead him on, step by step, to the gate of destruction.

Our moral and physical laws show how important it is to have proper associations of every kind, especially in youth. How dangerous it is to gaze on a picture or scene that pollutes the imagination or blunts the moral perceptions, or has a tendency to deaden a sense of our duty to God and man.

The Term, Blue Stocking.

Boswell, in his life of Dr. Johnson, relates that about the year, 1781, it was much the fashion for several ladies to have evening assemblies, where the fair sex might participate in conversation with literary and ingenious men, animated with a mutual desire to please. The societies were denominated "Blue-Stocking Clubs," from the following circumstance: One of the most eminent members was Mr. Stillingfleet, whose dress was remarkably grave, and in particular it was observed that he wore blue stockings. Such was the excellence of his conversation, that his absence was felt as a great loss, and it used to be said, "We can do nothing without the blue stockings;" and thus, by degrees, the title was established.

Failure a Recommendation.

A person walking into the counting room of Mr. C., and by the way, a very wealthy and shrewd merchant, inquired of the clerk the rent of a store which his employer wished to let. The enquirer being satisfied with the terms, said he would hire the store; but the clerk, knowing that he had recently failed for a large amount, declined closing the bargain until he saw Mr. C., who was then absent, and desired the gentleman to call again. Upon Mr. C.'s return, the clerk informed him of what had been related.

How much did he fail for? asked Mr. C.

About one hundred thousand dollars, was the reply.

And how much did he pay?

Only ten per cent., sir.

Let him have the store, Sam: let him have the store; he's got money enough!

For the Patriot. Will You?

It does seem, after having thoroughly viewed the different positions that societies, organizations, and parties assume relative to the detestable system of slavery, that some new society ought to be started, advocating such methods as will effect a more speedy abolition of this great curse, than what has as yet, been proclaimed and adopted. The Republicans, I consider, the resurrection of the old Wing party; nothing more; nothing less. What are the principles advocated by this party? They are as follows: To forbid the extension of slavery into the Territories; as to the States, they have nothing to do with them. It has no advice to give as to its management there. They do not propose to use the power of the National Government to abolish slavery. Such use of that government is not its creed, and never was. It does not contemplate any National scheme of emancipation of the African race. The management of that question—its discussion, its agitation, is no part of its programme. These are their principles. Does any one doubt it? If so, I can produce evidence sufficient to convince them. Are not such principles really a specimen of old-fashionedness? Is there anything in them which will have the least tendency to destroy this great evil—either now or at any future time? It seems to me not. All they claim to do, is to forbid the extension of the said evil into the Territories. Will this destroy it? No, never! never! If the fact were known, I truly believe, not more than one third, or one half of those belonging, or voting, with the Republican party, is acquainted with its creed or principles. Their impression is, that by some means, they will eventually get rid of this great evil. The above creed having been given you; study it and see if you can discover anything that will finally tend to the destruction of this cruel institution. If you find it not, how can you continue to act with this party, if your sympathy is with the slave? Do not longer remain on the old path of progression. How otherwise can you expect this curse ever to be abolished, unless you act with those whose principles are to move onward; gradually destroying the power by which slavery lives. The Abolition party, or the anti-Slavery Society, on the other hand, undertakes too much at once. We ought to commence gradually towards reforming this deep seated evil. They also omit one very important thing, which is necessary to accomplish the end; and that is voting; we must vote. We ought to form a society somewhere between the two (the Republicans and the Abolitionists) (a fitting name for which would be "Progressionists.") Its creed or principles to be as follows:

"We claim we possess the right, and furthermore, it is our duty as citizens of these United States, to interfere and remedy the great National wrong, slavery, which is carried on in the Southern portion of our Union. We are held responsible as a Nation, for allowing this great evil to be practised. We therefore promise the following, as a step towards the total annihilation of this unjust, impolitic, and inhuman institution.

FIRST: "Enact a law protecting the right of every United States citizen in every part of our country, to use free speech and the free press; and any person or persons, attempting to deprive one of this right, either by threats or by violence, be severely punished.

SECOND: "Amend the Constitution; strike out that portion of the third clause, in Section Second, in the first Article, whereby it gives the privilege to three-fifths of the slaves to vote for Representatives. Also, strike out the third clause, in Section Second, in the fourth Article, whereby the 'Fugitive Slave Law' derives its constitutionality.

THIRD: "Repeal the 'Fugitive Slave Law.'"

FOURTH: "Enact a law to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia."

FIFTH: "Enact a law to forbid further extension of slavery into any State or Territory where it is not now carried on."

SIXTH: "Enact a law, whereby no human being, born in these United States after date, can be held as a slave."

The first Article in the above creed, if carried out, would destroy their power, might, and glory. Protect the rights of the people of the South to use free speech, free press; you and I would witness a great change in affairs; slavery would receive its death wound. Let us lose no time in starting this new society; commence now. Wait not for a body of men of high reputation to start it for you. Act yourselves. Many undoubtedly will scorn this movement, as is customary, when anything new springs up. Heed not their sneers. Do your duty, irrespective of public opinion. Though the voices of the whole world should rise against you, vary not from the path of duty. A rich reward must await you.

L. S. R.

The Bright Side.

Look on the bright side. It is the right side. The times may be hard, but it will make them no easier to wear a gloomy and sad countenance. It is the sunshine, and not the cloud that makes the flower. There is always that before or around us which should cheer and fill the heart with warmth. The sky is blue ten times where it is black once. You have troubles; it may be. So have others. None are free from them. Perhaps it is well that none should be free from them. They give sinew and tone to life; fortitude and courage to man. That would be a dull sea, and the sailor would never get skill, were there was nothing to disturb the surface of the ocean. It is the duty of every one to extract all the happiness and enjoyment he can, without and within him; and above all, he should look on the bright side of things. What though things do look a little dark? The lane will turn, and the night will end in broad day. In the long run, the great balance rights itself. What is ill, becomes well; what is wrong, right. Men are not made to hang down either their heads or hips, and those who do only show that they are departing from the paths of true common sense and right. There is more virtue in one sunbeam, than a whole hemisphere of clouds and gloom. Therefore, we repeat, look on the bright side of things. Cultivate what is warm and genial; not the cold and repulsive, the dark and morose.

Dodge the Big Ones.

When the American army was forming line for the battle of Buena Vista, General Lane was riding up and down the line of his Indiana regiment. The Mexicans had stationed some small guns upon a neighboring height, which were blazing away most furiously on General Lane's regiment. But such was the effect of the shot, that the men near as to cause the men, as they heard the peculiar whizz of the balls, to involuntarily "duck" their heads. General Lane happened to notice this, and in his rough, stentorian voice, he bawled out: Indiana regiment! No dodging! In about five minutes after, the tremendous whizz of a twenty-four pound shot passed close by the head of the gallant brigadier, and in an instant involuntarily he bobbed his head. The men saw this, and commenced a tittering all the time, which the old General saw. Turning round with a sort of quizzical expression, he thundered out: Indiana regiment! Dodge the big ones.

Manufacture of Combs.

It is said that the greatest comb manufactory in the world is in Aberdeen, Scotland. There are thirty-six furnaces for preparing horse and tortoise shell, for the combs, and no less than one hundred and twenty iron screw presses are constantly going in stamping them. Steam power is employed to cut

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, April 7th, 1860.

BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE.

QUINCY PATRIOT. Mr. Nathaniel White, who resides on School Street, in this town, was rather unceremoniously awakened from his slumbers, one evening this week, by an unusual noise in his front yard. He sprang from his bed—slipped into his small clothes, and hastened down stairs to the scene of disturbance; flattered himself by the way, that probably it might be a messenger fresh from the fields of Connecticut, with cheering intelligence—(Mr. White is a veteran Democrat, of the Jackson School.) But he was doomed to disappointment. On reaching the open air, a strange face met him—not very prepossessing—with a mischievous and roguish look; the owner of which, was a man of full powers and giant form. So sudden an introduction, to an entire stranger, rather disconcerted Mr. W. at first, but on regaining his self-possession, he demanded the name of the intruder, and the object of his visit? receiving no satisfactory reply, but rather evasive answers, he suspected that all was not right, and, without further ceremony, ordered the fellow to the right-about-face, and to beat tracks; this request, however, was very reluctantly complied with, and not until physical force had been used. Supposing that every thing was now right, that he was again in peaceable possession of his home—stead, he was about entering the house, when another sound reached his ears from the stable. It was unlike the other; but it required investigation—he therefore cautiously entered—groped his way to the main floor—where he found a horse, with harness on, standing beside his wagon, which it was no doubt the intention of the rogue to have appropriated to his own use. The horse was secured, and the next morning placed in the hands of officer French, for safe keeping and identification. The owner, we learn, has since appeared—claimed the property—and states, that two men called on him at Weymouth, the day previous; hired the horse and a buggy, for a short ride, and that was the last he had heard of them. The buggy was found the next morning, at the upper part of the town, in a rather demolished condition, with the axle-tree broke. The pre-bucks, on a good time; that they had imbibed rather too freely of some potent elixir, which had mystified their senses, rendering it difficult to discern objects by moonlight distinctly; and that in turning a sharp corner, they upset, causing the accident. And further: that they were acquainted with Mr. White, and knew that he was an obliging neighbor, and thought it no harm to borrow the loan of his wagon to finish their night's excursion, without troubling him for a permit, at that late hour, as it was past midnight. Pat is full of adventures—and this is one of them.

FIRE. A fire was discovered in a small out-building, in the rear of Messrs. Daniel Baxter & Co's. store, on School Street, at early candle light, on Saturday evening last. It was fortunate that the discovery was made before the fire had made further progress, and that the wind was blowing from a favorable quarter, otherwise, the surrounding property would have been in imminent danger; particularly Mr. Baxter's new house, as there was much combustible matter around for the fire to feed upon.

Every circumstance leads to the conclusion that it was the work of an incendiary.

A BRITISH OFFICER writing from Tehran, Persia, to the London Times, remarks: "A Cathartic Pill, manufactured by an American Chemist, (Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass.) has cured the Shah of a Liver Complaint that threatened his life. The simple fact, as might be expected, renders the Americans immensely popular here, while we English are overlooked. Doubtless our own scholars made the discoveries which he employs, and thus it is in every thing; we do the labor, then the mousing Americans put their mark on it and take the reward. Doctor Ayer is idolized by the Court and its retainers here, which will doubtless be reflected to him on a gold snuff box, or diamond hilted sword, while not the name even of Davy, Christison or Brodie—the great lights by which he shines, is known."—New York Sunday paper.

HEAD QUARTERS OF FASHIONS. Mr. Dinegan, on Hancock Street, has just received a new and fashionable assortment of spring goods, suitable for men or boys. His advertisement in another column, will furnish a description of the articles.

VENUE PRICES. Three hundred pieces of Brussels Tapestry are advertised in our paper, for sale at 95 cents per yard by the New England Carpet Co., of Boston.

PRO BONO PUBLICO. We commend the reader to test the virtue of Redding's Russia Salve, if so unfortunate as to sustain an accident from a cut, burn, scald, or any other similar cause. It will not be found wanting in efficiency. Sold everywhere at 25 cents.

For the Patriot.
Small Pox.

MR. EDITOR: You no doubt are aware, as well as your numerous readers, that that dreadful scourge of the human race, the Small Pox, has been lingering in our midst, claiming its victims, for months past. It has made the rounds of our little community. The time was, on the first appearance of this disorder—the most sanitary and precautionary measures were taken to mitigate its virulence and check its progress. But in this reckless, dare-devil, go-ahead age, but little regard is paid to such examples. It is admitted by all, that the disease is contagious; that the seeds of infection may be conveyed from one to another. Why not then guard against contact, collision, and take the earliest and most effectual means to confine it to the infected localities. Has no one any jurisdiction in such matters? Have not our Selectmen the power to act as a Board of Health? We thought such prerogatives were delegated to them in extreme cases. We have already suffered severely in the loss of a number of our most estimable citizens. If the lives of our people are of any account, is it not time for us to bestir ourselves; to take every precaution—by vaccination, and other preventives, to rid the community of this loathsome and fatal epidemic.

PRUDENTIO.

FAST DAY. There was nothing remarkable in its advent. It was an old-fashioned Fast Day. We don't believe the creature comforts were set aside; that there was anything less eat or drank; or that the flow of social feelings were restrained within unnatural bounds. It was a lovely spring day; which bore on its wings, new life and new hopes; with nothing to mar their full enjoyment, except intelligence from certain quarters, of political revolutions, which came rolling in upon us. One of those calamities, no doubt, mentioned in the Governor's Proclamation, which he says, sometimes overtakes communities, and which it is our particular duty to guard against.

C. GILL & Co. have replenished their stock of all kinds of Women's, Misses, and Children's Cloth and Leather Boots and Shoes, and now offer a large and good assortment, of a quality, equal to any they have ever had; and notwithstanding the rise in the cost of manufacturing, they shall continue to sell for the present, all the various goods, which they have imbibed rather too freely of some potent elixir, which had mystified their senses, rendering it difficult to discern objects by moonlight distinctly; and that in turning a sharp corner, they upset, causing the accident. And further: that they were acquainted with Mr. White, and knew that he was an obliging neighbor, and thought it no harm to borrow the loan of his wagon to finish their night's excursion, without troubling him for a permit, at that late hour, as it was past midnight. Pat is full of adventures—and this is one of them.

AGAIN OUR OLD FRIENDS, Messrs. Chandler & Co., present to our readers strong inducements to visit their store, 6 and 8 Summer street, Boston, where is now opening one of the most beautiful and rich assortments of goods they have ever offered. See their advertisement in to-day's paper.

A most extraordinary cure effected by Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh.

This is to certify that I have been troubled for almost four years with a choking sensation, sometimes so bad as almost to suffocate me; I employed two regular physicians, but to no purpose. I was then persuaded to try a bottle of Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh. I took two teaspoonfuls at one dose. It soon began to operate, when it made thorough work. (I had a regular worm factory within me.) I should judge it wrought away from me some two quarts of worms; they had the appearance of having burst. I took the remainder of the bottle at two doses. The effect was, it brought away about one quart more, all chopped to pieces. I now feel like a different person.

The above is from a widow lady, forty-six years of age, resident of this city. For further particulars the public are referred to Mrs. Hurd, No. 3 Manhattan place, or to E. L. Theall, Druggist corner of Rutgers and Monroe streets.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuge in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

Marriages.

In East Abington, January 29th, by the Rev. Mr. Chaplin, Mr. Edmund H. Davis to Miss Mary Jane Alden, all of East Abington.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 29th ult., Levi F., only child of Mr. Levi and Mrs. Ellen M. Stearns, aged 3 months and 12 days.

On the 2d instant, Mr. Henry Rudderham, aged 24 years.

In Milton, March 31st, very suddenly, Maria W., daughter of Mr. Jessie and Mrs. Orissa Banton, aged 11 years.

'Tis painful task to part with those we love. But when the Saviour whispers from above, "Restore to me the treasure I have given." Our hearts would bow beneath the chastening rod. For, He has taught us in His Holy Word That those who thus die young inherit heaven.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

California would make forty-five States of the size of New Hampshire. The seacoast extends nearly a thousand, and the Territory extends into the interior twelve hundred miles.

A little girl, while at school, in New London, (Ct.) was attacked with bleeding at the nose, which continued despite of the best surgical aid, until the following day, when the child died.

The Boss cabinet makers of New York city, are holding meetings in order to form an organization to protect themselves against the demands of their workmen.

A bill has been introduced into the Assembly of Alabama, for transporting all negroes convicted of capital offences to Massachusetts.

A woman who went about the streets of New York, picking up rags from the ashes, recently died, and several thousand dollars in gold and silver were found among her effects.

There are eight military companies in Berkeley County, (Va.) Before the Brown raid, there was scarcely one.

Richard Taylor, son of the late ex-President Taylor, is one of the delegates to the Charleston Democratic Convention from Louisiana.

The meanest man lives at Cleveland, Ohio; he applied to a justice recently for an execution to levy upon the wooden leg of a man who owed him four dollars.

Commissioned chaplains in the British army are hereafter to wear a uniform—a black coat with a standing collar, and the royal arms in gold thread on either side, the front faced with black silk, and the sleeves fringed.

Ten persons—women and children—lost their lives, and others were severely injured, by the burning, lately, of a tenement house in New York city.

A mechanic of Virginia claims to have invented a gun which will discharge one hundred or five hundred balls consecutively, giving the soldier an opportunity to shelter himself.

In making a lady's dress, ornamented with fifteen flowers, a seamstress must sew to the extent of nine hundred and seventy-seven feet; and adding twenty-three feet for the waist, it would make a thousand feet of sewing, or about a mile for five dresses.

Mason and Dixon's line, is a boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania, surveyed by two able and learned English gentlemen, and which is the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars.

Among the property destroyed at the fire at No. 90 Front street, New York city, last week, were $35,000 worth of nutmegs and $15,000 worth of tea—all fully insured. The smoke from the burning nutmegs perfumed the air for a great distance, spreading quite a fragrant odor over the lower part of the city.

The Charleston Mercury states that the Carolina rice crop is a very large and full one. Indeed, the whole rice crop of the South for the present season has been exceeded by but few, of any former years.

The Canadian Post Office Department has recently adopted the system of stamped envelopes which have been in use in this country for several years. The Canadian envelopes are impressed with a medallion bearing an effigy of Queen Victoria.

The Charleston Democratic Convention will consist of 303 members, and the two-thirds rule will, therefore, make two hundred and two necessary to a choice of Presidential candidate.

There are about eight thousand Justices of the Peace in Commission, in the State of Massachusetts.

The Alabama Legislature has passed a law compelling Northern Insurance Companies to pay five hundred dollars to each town in the State in which they effect insurance; it amounts to a prohibition.

It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is not upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction.

In 1858, ten widows of Massachusetts, under twenty years of age, were married for the second time; half of these took husbands for their husbands, while the remainder took widowers.

Twenty years ago, forty-five stage coaches from Boston passed over the Salem turnpike daily, for the east. At the present time, but one stage coach from Boston passes over the turnpike, and this but once a week,—on Sundays.

There was but one death reported from gout in Massachusetts, during the year 1858; in seventeen years and eight months, ending in 1858, only forty-one persons died of this disorder, while six hundred and fifty-two died of rheumatism.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females

One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the first ladies of New London," who has used them says she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they will tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Mrs. E. Hayden sole agent for Quincy.

Ladies by sending her $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail. WEEKS & POTTER, 151 Washington Street, Boston, wholesale agents.

 CLEANSE THE SYSTEM—PURIFY THE BLOOD.
 The Best Spring & Summer Medicine
 in the World is
DR. LANGLEY'S
Root and Herb Bitters,

Composed of Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Yellow
 Dock, Prickly Ash, Thoroughwort, Rhubarb, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c. all of which, when properly combined, are found to be in concert and act in Nature in eradicating disease.
 These Bitters continue to be the most standard, popular and reliable medicine ever discovered for the cure of Liver Complaints and all their attendant ills; Jaundice in its worst forms; Humors whether of the blood or skin;
 all Bilious diseases and Foul Stomach; Dyspepsia; Costiveness; Female Weakness, and every disease arising from Indigestion, or Scarcity of blood; Rheumatic, Gouty, Dizzy, Piles; Heartburn; Pain in the Side, Bowels, or Back; Flatulency; Loss of Appetite, and every kindred complaint arising from impurities of the Blood, Diseased Liver, or Disordered Stomach, to which every person is more or less subject in this climate.
 The effect of this Medicine is most wonderful—it acts directly upon the bowels and blood, by removing all obstructions from the internal organs, stimulating them into healthy action, removing the fountain of life, purifying the blood, cleansing it from all impurities, and causing it to course anew through every part of the body; restoring the invalid
 to health and usefulness.
 Only 25 and 38 cents per bottle. Sold by Dealers in Medicine everywhere.

Poetry.

Twenty Years Ago

I've wandered to the village Tom;
I've sat beneath the tree,
Upon the school-house playground
Which sheltered you and me;
But none were left to greet me Tom;
And few were left to know,
That played with us upon the green
Some twenty years ago.

The grass is just as green, Tom;
Bare-footed boys at play
Were sporting just as we did then,
With sprays just as gay;
But the "master" sleeps upon the hill,
Which, coated o'er with snow,
Afforded as a sliding place,
Just twenty years ago.

The old school-house is altered now;
The benches are replaced
By new ones, very like the same
Our penknives had defaced;
But the same old bricks are in the wall,
The bell swings to and fro,
It's music just the same, dear Tom
'Twas twenty years ago.

The boys were playing some old game,
Beneath the same old tree;
I have forgot the name just now—
You've played the same with me,
On the same spot; 'twas played with knives
By throwing so and so;
The leader had a task to do
There, twenty years ago.

The river's running just as still;
The willows on its side
Are larger than they were, Tom;
The stream appears less wide—
But the grape-vine swing is ruined now,
Where once we played the beau,
And swung our sweethearts—"pretty girls"
Just twenty years ago.

The spring that bubbled 'neath the hill,
Close by the spreading beech,
Is very low—'twas once so high,
That we could almost reach;
And kneeling down to get a drink,
Dear Tom, I started so,
To see how sadly I am changed
Since twenty years ago.

Near by the spring, upon an elm,
You knew I cut my name,
Your sweetheart's just beneath it, Tom,
And you did mine the same;
Some heartless wretch has peeled the bark,
'Twas dying sure but slow,
Just as that one whose name you cut,
Died twenty years ago.

Some in the churchyard laid—
Some sleep beneath the sent;
But few are left of our old class,
Excepting you and me;
And when our time shall come, Tom,
And we are called to go,
I hope they'll lay us where we played,
Just twenty years ago.

Home's Harmony.

The lark may sing her sweetest song,
As, rising from the waving corn,
On soaring wings, she skims along
To welcome in the rising morn.
Her sweetest song is naught to me,
Compared to home's sweet harmony.

Deep in the woods, the nightingale
At midnight hour, may tune her lay,
May pour upon the listening vale
Her love's strains of melody;
Lovely her midnight lay may be,
But lovelier home's sweet harmony.

Sweet are the songsters of the spring,
And of the summer's sunny days,
And autumn's feathered warblers sing
In rapturous strains of melody;
Lovely the songs of lower and tree,
But lovelier home's sweet harmony.

But oh, what cheers the winter night,
When all around is dark and gloom,
When feathered songsters take their flight,
Or fill the gloomy little tomb?
'Tis at such hours as these that we Prize most our home's sweet harmony.

Oh, when dark clouds above as lower,
And life's dear winter o'er us comes,
'Tis then we feel your magic power,
Ye songsters of our hearts and homes;
For soon the lowering clouds do flee
From our dear home's sweet harmony.

Why does father call mother honey? asked
A boy of his elder brother.

Can't think, except it's 'cause she wears a large comb in her head.

Do you like codfish balls, Mr. Wiggins?
I really don't know, Miss. I never recollect attending one.

Hall's Great
SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease regulating the Bowels, removing all vitiated secretions, giving health and action to the Liver and correcting the Stomach. It overcomes the feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.
In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous
Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,
Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Gonorrhea, Influenza, Rheumatism, Fever,
Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Bala, Badly Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effectual cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constipation and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularity and other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Stagnation, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., No. 8 State Street; Geo. C. Goodwin, No. 99
Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

7. PACKARD'S Great Regenerator for the HUMAN HAIR.

It is now too well known to need any further recommendation from any source. Yet to satisfy the most credulous, I will publish the following testimony.

Harrison Sq., Dorchester, Mar. 30, 1859.
MR. PACKARD—SIR:—I have given your Regenerator a fair trial and find it all you claim for it. My hair was very gray; it is now restored to perfect color. All the humor is removed from the scalp. In short, I have now a perfect head of hair. I am willing to go before any Justice of the Peace and make oath to the above, if you wish it.

Scrofula, or King's Evil,
is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attack, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vice, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."
Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or noxious matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders the blood, deprives the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish from it, which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all people are scrofulous; hence, and from the system, we must renovate the blood by an alternative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedial that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Eczema and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blisters, Boils and Bumps, Tumors, Tetters and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Rheumatism, Syphilis and Mercurial Diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Debility, and, indeed, all Complaints arising from Impure and Impaired Blood. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

AYER'S Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC, are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their penetrating properties search, and cleanse, and invigorate every portion of the human organism, correcting its diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitality. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once so simple and invigorating.
Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases. The agents have been sent to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing certificates of their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Catarrhs, Hemorrhoids, Headache arising from disordered Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbid Action of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Dropsy, and other kindred complaints, arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the disease.
So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons fully-knowledgeable who have been restored to health and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape the afflicted they can never forget, and the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are so common to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

Miscellaneous.

Love and Wolves.

Oh, the glories of a sleigh-ride in the sparkling, bracing air of a Canadian winter! The sky clear and exhilarating; keenly bright; but with a different degree of lucidity from that of a bright summer's day.—Broad expanding plains; the city receding behind us, as the horses, leaping onward to the music of the chiming bells, made for the broad, boundless country. The fir forests are clasped in a shadowy, ghostly slumber. Far away on our right, are those pathless funeral groves, where the wolves aggregate in hundreds. To the left, lies a ridge of hills sloping down to the river, which is locked up in the iron manacles of the Winter King. Ahead, and right before us, whither we are bound, over waste and plain, and clearing, lies a snugly sheltered village, the head-quarters of the lumberer, and the roystering. Our destination is not quite so far.

This said destination is a broadly-spread, low-lying farmstead, with its almost numberless out-houses, consisting of cattle-sheds and dairies, corn-stores, roofings for winter fodder, wood stacks, and other concomitants surrounding the dwelling, all palisaded by zigzag fences, as so many out-works to protect the comfortable citadel. Within it, warm fires blaze and sparkle from the huge and odorous logs crackling on the broad, bounteous hearth. In the great common chamber, raftered and picturesque as an antique gothic hall, are warm hearts and flashing eyes. Bearded men and fair women are there—laughing maidens and strapping young hunters, who had just shaken the snow off their furs at the portals. Despite the stern, yet musical baritone of the singing wind, as it goes by, stinging cheeks, biting noses into purple, and making the blood tingle, shouts of mirth and laughter rise above the boreal blasts; and our leaping sleigh, gliding—flying along rather—to the music of the soft musical bells, is fast, fast approaching its terminus.

In the mean time, asks the reader, who occupies this sleigh? I hasten to answer. First, there was your humble servant, the narrator, Dick Harding, by name, but a few months back from the banks of the Isis, with the "bar" in prospect. I add a few of my personal items. Rather good looking; a fair shot; can hit with wonderful vigour straight out from the shoulder; am five-feet-ten and growing; can play the fiddle, a game of pool, and have the temper of an angel. I had been one of a party of adventurous sportsmen, "going in" for something worthy of Alexander, and, with fishing-tackle, spears, and shooting-irons, had done no inconsiderable execution among the denizens of the Canadian woods and sounding rapids, and hunted the bear in his own bold and picturesque fastnesses.

Enough of myself. Now for my companions. Nestling by my side, wrapped up in rugs and warm furs, is Lota d'Arville; a bright-eyed, rosy-lipped, laughing Canadian, as lovely a girl-woman of seventeen, as a glance of man ever rested complacently upon. The Canadian mother and the French father were expressed in her name. Her playful lambent eyes had exercised their sorcery upon me ere this; and the modulations of a voice unequalled for its low, soft sweetness, completed the young squire's triumph. This by the way; for we had exchanged no confidence as yet on a subject very near my heart.

We were bound to a merry sleighing party at Windy-gap Farm—ostensibly to a hunt upon a vast scale, which accounts for my two rifles and ammunition lying in the sleigh, and for the noble deer hound, the third individual, who had curled up his great body at our feet, and aided to keep them warm. I had known her brother—a young officer in the Canadian rifles—had killed "bar" at the Salt-Licks with him; had met Lota and her family on board a St. Lawrence steamer, and was now a guest at their house, enjoying their frank and bounteous hospitality.

Hurrah! Through the keen, sonorous air, sleigh and horses bound along! Cling—cling! go the chiming bells. Crack—crack! goes the long-throated whip, with a sharp, cheery significance. My Madam's Cariole, a sleigh which is the perfection of locomotion, is not less perfect than the fiery steeds, with their sinews of elastic steel, which I drive.

and with exhilaration I could not repress, I gave a vigorous hurrah! which conveyed itself to Lota, wrapped up in moose and bearskins, and warm as a toast. A sweet, girlish laugh echoed my exulting shout.

You appear to enjoy this, Mr. Harding? she said.
If I don't. Crack—crack! filled up the hiatus. What a pair of beauties. Phœbus Apollo never drove their like down the steep of heaven. The wily Ithacan never raised such cattle when he cleared the stables of Rhesus of his horses. Crack—crack! and the horses neigh and toss their arching necks, and the bells are chiming and tinkling, and the mad, exulting rush uplifts one like wine.

I remark, to myself, that the sky has deepened into an extense, still darkening blue; darkening with a strange, unearthly, tenebrous inkiness, becoming a coming snow storm. No matter—Windy-gap is right ahead, and the welcome lights will blaze out of the casements soon, for the afternoon is wearing.

On we go; but I do not see them yet; and yet; but no—it's all right.
Are you warm; quite snug, dear Lota? said I, half turning to look at the rosy, exquisite face peeping with so much fervent coquetry from its encasement of white cosy furs.

Oh, so comfortable! she answered, with a nestling movement, and a smile which made my heart leap joyously upward.
But my attention was called away to the creeping, erepuscular inkiness of the sky. It was light, yet not day-light, but blue-light—to coin a word; that wintry hue of livid darkening steel always the precursor to a fierce change in the weather. This only made the long level plain of snow gleam with a lustre the more dazzling and intense, I remarked this, but with a momentarily divided and wavering sense.

I had never (familiar as we had grown, and I was honest as the skin between your brows, as she was in fact.) I had never said dear Lota before, and the words were yet in mine ears like a sweet old burling. I loved her with all my heart and soul, but I never told it. I yearned to tell her so now; but I thought it scarcely fair; not up to the mark of my manhood; to take what seemed an unfair advantage of the protection I was supposed to extend over her. I magnanimously resolved to wait; choking down the words; but not for long.

Meantime, Crack—crack! went the long whip, and still cling—clang went the chiming bells, and the horses held on with unabated pace and splendid vigor, but—where had Windy-gap gone to all this time? for time was up, and we should be there by this. Goodness! exclaimed Lota, all at once, how strange the sky looks: we shall have more snow—a heavy fall too.

I fear so, I replied; but n'importe, we'll soon be out of it.
We are very long, I fancy, she continued, reflectively; you have driven there quicker than this before. Oh, Heaven? she cried, with the suddenness of a revelation, can we have lost the track.

The blank question harped with a horrible jar on my most vivid nerves. Now or never was the time to be quite cool.

No, I think not, I replied, with assumed carelessness; we shall come to our land-mark presently.

A clump of firs; an old mill, farther on; yes, she added, I recollect; but we should have passed them long ere this. Oh, I fear we are lost.

A cold chill seized me as I tacitly admitted that she was in the right. I could not account for my error, if such was the case. I looked round the horizon, but beheld no friendly sign; it was only a circle gathering closer, and growing darker the while.

Suddenly, my brave deer-hound lifted up his head, and uttered a low growl. The horses gave a startled swerve just as suddenly. A strange lugubrious, but appalling sound came all at once from the windward, warning like a death-cry; a prolonged, awful, growling discordance, over the white gleaming snow; and then it died away.

The horses halted, trembling; only the shivering tinkle of the bells broke the death silence that fell like an eclipse over all.

What is that? asked Lota, in a shuddering whisper, as she clutched my arm.

I listened. It is the wind sighing, and dying away in the pine forest, I answered.

the shock bore, or since; and I have, in my hunting excursions, faced my danger and played out the game manfully. To have lost the way was terrible enough; but—the wolves—and Lota! An instant I was numb and dumb.

It was true however. The severity of the weather, the migration or scarcity of the animals on whom these unclean creatures preyed, had made their hunger a raging, devouring madness. They were encroaching on civilized territory, and losing their usual characteristic and craven cowardice—were approaching the habits of men, haunting village and settlement. How to lose their path. As the infernal howl rose lingeringly again, the horses darted away with a shrill neigh of fear, and I guided them, beginning to recover myself—in an opposite direction, while Terror, my noble hound, stood up with every fang bared, and every hair on end, waiting for the enemy he had already scented.

If my good horses had gone on so admirably at first, they sped off now like arrows from the bow; for the madness of fear added wings to their speed, as that of hunger did to our panting pursuers. I was growing cold; Lota was pale but calm. I felt proud of her, though it was certain that if we escaped not speedily the brutes would run us down; and then; horror of horrors! what a fate for her!

I had two rifles, a revolver, ammunition, a spear, and a wood-hatchet in my sleigh. I conveyed my intentions to Lota. Can you load these weapons with those cartridges? I asked.
Yes, was the answer; and she loaded a "Fuller" and a "Manton" with true hunter's skill. I took one rifle; looked back—the pack was increasing. I fired, and Lota loaded; and one after another fell to be devoured by their ravenous comrades; and still the horses sped on.

The accused things were, for all this, gaining ground. Doubts, fears, hopes, tremblings were at my heart as I turned to the sweet girl whose life or death were all in all to me, and said:

Lota, I loved you—none but you! I tell it you now if I may never again.

Kill me first, she whispered. I hear your words; I echo them. You have my heart, Richard—

Oh, Lota; best beloved; what a moment to confess; and I know not if I feel a pain or gladness most.

There are now no secrets between us, said Lota, smiling; take this rifle; give me the pistol;—one kiss—so: they come. Save me from them at any cost.

I thought my ears would have split at their dreadful yells, for they were now upon us, opening to surround us: and though the horses held bravely on, I dreaded every instant, that sheer terror would paralyze them. It is scarcely possible to conceive the unutterable horror that was encircling us both: young lovers with beating hearts, forever, from that hour, interchanged with each other.

With lolling tongues, eyes of flame, hoarse deep growls, they had ceased to bay and howl; they were closing in upon us. I remarked one huge monster in advance of the rest: his object evidently being to leap into the sleigh from behind. I fired, and missed him. The next moment his huge bulk came scrambling over the back: his paws were on me; his fiery breath on my cheeks; and I expected, as I murmured a short prayer, to feel the lungs of the abhorrent brute in my flesh. A flash! a crash! a gush of blood—and the creature tumbled backward, shot through the neck, to the spine, by my brave Lota. Then I plied hatchet, and split skull after skull, while the sleigh tore on; but I was giving up all hope, and turning round; Oh, Heaven! to spare my darling a more hideous fate, whet shot and shouts rang around, and troops of dogs and hunters came swiftly to our aid, and we were saved!

Providence had directed the sleigh to Windy-gap; our firing reached the hearing of our friends, and brought them out in hot haste to aid us. We were saved! and as I bore her fainting form into the hospitable hall, and clasped her tenderly to my bosom, you may guess how sincere was the gratitude I breathed in silence to Heaven.

It was the prelude to a wedding which occurred soon afterwards; and you may be sure I never forgot my fight with the wolves; how pluckily my noble Lota backed me, or the somewhat original but apropos mode in which "I told my Love."

The New Bell.

Mr. Error.—This great institution, the new tow bell, seems to have already made a great deal of noise among us; as a precursor, perhaps, of what may be heard when it is hung the tower and its tongue wage in empty air.

Your correspondent, "Machinist," evidently writes with the foregoing conclusion, that the Selectmen will select a bell precisely in accordance with his "fondest anticipations," and of course it is to be of composition, because steel is liable to corrosion. Doubtless a steel bell would corrode if permitted to remain unused, but the jarring to which it would be exposed in ringing would effectually prevent this. And any machinist ought to know that cast steel, with its hard scaly surface, does not corrode with anything like the readiness of iron. And any one may observe that even common iron does not corrode when in use: witness the shining railroad track.

The English machinists have learned the value of steel, and are using it extensively in the manufacture of boilers, steamers, and wherever great strength and durability is required, and they would hardly use it for such purposes if it were found to be liable to corrosion.

If, on the other hand, composition bell-metal is so very durable, why then does it crack? The old bell is cracked and therefore is to be disposed of, and if another of the same sort fills its place, who knows but it will catch the same distemper? I have seen more than one cracked composition bell.

The superior strength and peculiar sonorous quality of steel need hardly be mentioned, but to show what is claimed by the makers of these bells, I will state that the San Francisco bell, weighing 5,800 pounds, is being tested in New York with the City Hall composition bell, weighing 21,000, and it is claimed that the steel one will beat the other "all hollow," if so, the lightest bell is certainly preferable.

"Those who take pride in developing the resources of their native place," will not be disposed to count the cost in so trifling a matter as this experiment, involving a few hundred dollars, when it is altogether likely to result in our obtaining a bell that might almost re-awaken the soul of the patriot, John Adams, when its merry peals resound on the anniversary of the Nation's Birthday.

A "QUINCY PATRIOT."

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, APRIL 5, 1860.
Changes in the Weather—Adjutant General—Dividend Week—Great Excitement at Concord—State Elections paired off—The Great and General Court thought.

We have had a good specimen of New England climate this week. On one day the thermometer indicated seventy-two degrees, and within fifteen hours thirty-eight—a difference of forty-four degrees. As Rufus Choate once said, "Snow in Portsmouth to-day and to-morrow a man and team of oxen killed by lightning in Rhode Island." These vicissitudes make our spring climate very un congenial for invalids, and give rise to inflammatory diseases of the throat and lungs. Several deaths have occurred here within a few days from a brief illness by inflammation of the lungs or pleura.

Our old friend, Adjutant General Stone, has yielded the laurels of his office, to Gen. Wm. Schouler, who entered upon his duties on Monday. Gen. Stone was first appointed by Gov. Boutwell, in 1851, and has held that office since that time. The office of the Adjutant General is kept in the State House.—His salary $1500, and his clerk $1200, per annum.

By the payment of Banks and other dividends, during the week, about three millions of dollars have been let loose in Massachusetts, as "pin money" merely to many stockholders. There is evidently a slight reaction in the retail trade. Money, however, continuing easy, transactions in stock with certain jackasses are exciting and feverish, many of them will come to the end of the rope before summer.

The public was surprised on the 4th inst., by the announcement in the papers of another Concord Fight—The John Brown Invasion in Massachusetts—A Prisoner rescued from the United States officers—Great Excitement on the Old Battle Ground—One Man Killed by over exertion. It turns out that a Mr. F. B. Sanborn, schoolmaster of Concord, Mass., was cited sometime since to appear before a committee of the United States Senate growing out of the Harper's difficulties.

Sanborn would not obey the summons any how. Marshall Freeman's officers were sent to arrest him, which they did in a very rough manner from a necessity of the case; he was rescued by the citizens, brought before the Supreme Court in Boston, on a writ of habeas corpus, and discharged from custody, on the ground that the Sergeant-at-Arms, at Washington, had no authority to delegate his power, but must execute it in person; hence his deputizing Mr. Carlton to make the arrest was an illegal one, and the prisoner must be discharged. There is a general excitement here growing out of the affair. Little else is talked about. The following is Frank B. Sanborn's statement of the Concord affair:—

"I came in from a call about nine o'clock in the evening, and was sitting, in my slippers, at my desk, when a knocking called me to the door. I went down stairs, opened the door, when a small man entered and said, 'Does Mr. Sanborn live here?' 'That is my name, sir,' said I, putting out my hand to welcome him. 'Here is a paper for you,' said he, handing me a folded one, which I took."

"At that moment a grey-haired, tall and stout man entered the opened door and said, 'I arrest you, Mr. Sanborn.' 'By what authority, and what is your name?' said I. He gave no name, but said, 'I am from the U. States Marshal's office; or something of that sort.' 'What is your authority—your warrant,' repeated I. 'We have a warrant,' said some one, for by this time two more men appeared. 'Show it—read it,' said I. A small man, calling himself Freeman, (afterwards, for none would give their names,) began to read a paper, but had got through a few lines, when the grey-haired ruffian took a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and proceeded to put them on my wrists, I standing in my own house, without a hat or boots, only in slippers of cloth."

"A whistle was given; some men rushed in, some of them known to me, and carried me by force to the street, where stood a carriage with two horses. They lifted me from the ground, and tried to put me in the carriage. I resisted with my feet, for my hand were fast in the manacles. They tried two or three times without success, breaking the carriage, but the horses started and they could not get me in. In the meantime, my cries and those of my sister called my neighbors from their houses, who surrounded the ruffians and prevented them from carrying me off."

"I stood in the street in my slippers half an hour, wearing the handcuffs, until Deputy Sheriff Moore took me by force from the ruffian's hands under a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Hoar."

The long agony is over on the State election of Connecticut. The Republican candidate for Governor is elected by some five hundred majority. The Senate and House largely Republican.

On the other hand the Rhode Island State election of yesterday appears to have resulted in the success of the Democratic ticket.

The State Legislature will rise this week, "sartain." Having done neither much good or harm, during the session. X.

For the Patriot.

Improvements at the Cemetery.

We are gratified to know that the Mount Wollaston Cemetery is about to be ornamented with trees and shrubs; this is the right step, in the right direction; as there is no public act more commendable than that which shows a proper respect in making the last abode of all that is human—pleasant, lovely, and attractive to the living. Instead of being gloomy and forbidding as our New England Cemeteries formerly were, when they buried their dead without a prayer, and not a shrub, tree or flower, was seen to adorn the final resting place of a friend, or an acquaintance, as a tribute to their affectionate respect. What is more emblematic and typical of the birth, growth, death, and the resurrection of the human race, than trees and flowers; from which Nature teaches us those important lessons we so much need.

Adornments of this nature, make Cemeteries more frequented; and these often visitations, form pleasant associations with their departed friends; and here too, they listen to the instructing voices, whispering better things than of earth, from the spiritual world, whether this silent people have gone. And ever so may our burying-places, attract the living to familiar communion with the departed. Make real to faith and affection these invisible ones, and point us as angel-messengers to the future world.

"When by a good man's grave I muse alone, Methinks an angel sits upon the stone; Like those of old on that thrice hallowed night, Who sat and watched in raiment heavenly bright, Saying, pointing upward, that he is not here, That he is risen."

There is nothing more appropriate to adorn a Cemetery than trees and flowers. A tree, undoubtedly, is one of the most beautiful objects in Nature. Arty and delicate in its youth; luxuriant and majestic in its prime; venerable and picturesque in its old age; constituting as it does, in its various forms, size and development, the greatest charm and beauty of the earth in all countries.

Among the many varieties, we think the following the most suitable for ornamental purposes:

The dignified and majestic Oak; the graceful and elegant Elm; next we have the Maples, which are held in great and proper esteem. Of all the species, both native and foreign, we consider the Scarlet Maple decidedly the most ornamental—enlivening the scene around with its gay tufts of red blossoms, long before a leaf is seen on other deciduous trees in the spring. The Silver-leaved and Sycamore Maple are entitled to high consideration for the exquisite beauty which their foliage assumes in autumn. At the first approach of cold we can just perceive a bright yellow stealing over the leaves, then a deep golden tint, then a few faint blushes, until at length the whole mass

Poetry.

Lines

Written on the death of a member of the Senior Class at Yale College.

BY N. P. WILLIS.

Ye've gathered to your place of prayer,
With slow and measured tread:
Your ranks are full, your mates all there—
But the soul of one has fled.
He was the proudest in his strength,
The mightiest of ye all;
Why lies he at that fearful length,
And ye around his pall?

Ye reckon it in days, since he Strode up that foot-worn aisle,
With his dark eye flashing gloriously,
And his lip wreathed with a smile.
O, had it but been told you, then,
To mark whose lamp was dim—
From out your rank of fresh lipp'd men,
Would ye have singled him?

Whose was the sinewy arm, that flung Defiance to the ring?
Whose laugh of victory loudest rung,
Yet not for glorying?
Whose heart, in generous deed and thought,
No rivalry might brook,
And yet distinction claiming not?
There lies he—go and look!

On now—his requiem is done,
The last deep prayer is said—
On to his burial, comrades—on,
With a friend and brother dead!
Slow—for it presses heavily—
It is a man ye bear!
Slow, for our thoughts dwell wearily,
On the gallant sleeper there.

Tread lightly, comrades! we have laid
His dark locks on his brow—
Like life—save deeper light and shade,
We'll not disturb them now.
Tread lightly, for 'tis beautiful,
That blue-veined eyelids sleep,
Hiding the eye, death left so dull—
His slumbers we will keep.

Rest now! his journeying is done,
Your feet are on his sod;
Death's blow has fell'd your champion—
He waiteth here his God.
Ay, turn and weep, 'tis manliness
To be heart-broken here;
For the grave of one—the best of us—
Is watered by the tear.

My Times are in Thy Hand.

Father, I know that all my life
Is portioned out for me,
And the changes that will surely come
I do not fear to see;
But I ask Thee for a present mind Intent on pleasing Thee.

I ask Thee for a thoughtful love,
Through constant watching wise,
To meet the glad with cheerful smile,
And to wipe the weeping eyes;
And a heart at leisure from itself
To soothe and sympathize.

I would not have the restless will
That hurries to and fro,
Seeking for some great thing to do,
Or secret thing to know;
I would be treated as a child,
And guided where I go.

Wherever in the world I am,
In whatso'er estate,
I have a fellowship with minds
To keep and cultivate;
And a work of lowly love to do,
For the Lord on whom I wait.

I ask Thee for the daily strength,
To none that ask, denied;
And a mind to blend with outward strife,
While keeping at Thy side;
Content to fill a little space,
If Thou be glorified.

And if some things I do not ask
In my cup of blessing be,
I would have my spirit filled the more
With grateful love to Thee;
And careful less to serve Thee much
Than to please Thee perfectly.

There are bruisers besetting every path,
Which call for patient care;
There is a cross for every lot,
And an earnest need of prayer;
But a lowly heart that leans on Thee
Is happy anywhere.

In a service which Thy love appoints
There are no bonds for me,
For my secret heart is taught the truth
That makes Thy children free;
And a life of self-renouncing love
Is a life of liberty.

Anecdotes.

A Yankee having fallen overboard at sea, plunged about for some time, and was at last holed up, blowing off any quantity of superfluous brine.

Well, old fellow, chuckled an old tar, how did you relish old Neptune's soup?

Well, replied Yank, I ain't got much agin the soup, but whoever put the salt in it was not a bit stingy.

An Hibernian was boasting that he was sprung from a high family.

Yes, (said a bystander,) I knew some of the same family so high, that their feet could not touch the ground.

A boy was asked, one day, what made him so dirty, and his reply was:

I am made, they tell me, of the dust of the earth, and I reckon it's working out.

Hall's Great
SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant
and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of diseases regulates the Bowels, remove all vitiated accretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and restoration to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and removes and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,
Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effectual cure for Liver Complaint,
Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derange-
ment of the Urinary Organs.
It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and
other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

PACKARD'S
Great Regenerator for the HUMAN HAIR,

IS now too well known to need any further recommendation from any source. Yet to satisfy the most credulous, I will publish the following testimony.
Harrison Sq., Dorchester, Mar. 30, 1859.
MR. PACKARD—Sir:—I have given your Regenerator a fair trial and find it all you claim for it. My hair was very gray; it is now restored to perfect color. All the humor is removed from the scalp. In short, I have gained a perfect head of hair. I am willing to do before any Justice of the Peace and make oath to the above, if you wish it.
What I have done for him it will do for everybody that will use it.

Dr. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE
AND LIVER PILLS.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the Trade, and more especially the Physicians of the country, to two of the most popular remedies now before the public.
We refer to

Dr. Chas. M'Lane's Celebrated
Vermifuge and Liver Pills.
We do not recommend them as universal Cure-alls, but simply for what their name purports, viz.:

THE VERMIFUGE,
For expelling Worms from the human system. It has also been administered with the most satisfactory results to various Animals
subject to Worms.

THE LIVER PILLS,
For the cure of LIVER COMPLAINTS,
all BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS, SICK
HEAD-ACHE, &c. In cases of

FEVER and AGUE,
preparatory to or after taking Quinine, they almost invariably make
a speedy and permanent cure.

As specifics for the above mentioned diseases, they are Unrivaled, and never known to fail when administered in accordance with the directions.

Their unprecedented popularity
has induced the proprietors,
FLEMING BROTHERS,

PITTSBURGH, PA.
to dispose of their Drug business,
in which they have been successfully engaged for the last Twenty

Years, and they will now give their undivided time and attention to their manufacture. And being determined that Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills shall continue to occupy the high position they now hold among the great remedies of the day, they will continue to spare neither time
nor expense in procuring the Best and Purest material, and compound them in the most thorough manner. Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS. Pittsburgh, Pa.
P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros. will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros. Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen cent postage stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers in Medicines everywhere.

Scrofula, or King's Evil,
is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it permeates the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, dis-ordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders the blood impure, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system.

Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it.
To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alternative medicine, and invigorize it by healthy food and exercise.
Such a medicine we supply in

AYER'S
Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedies that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences.

Scrofula, or King's Evil,

is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poisonous. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing virus, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous eruptions, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family, has its origin, directly or indirectly, in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alternative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedies that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERYTHEMA and SKIN DISEASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, BOB, or ERYTHRAEMA, PIMPLES, PUSTULES, BLISTERS, BLANKS AND BOTS, TETTER, TETTER, and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, ERIATHMATISM, SPITULACIA and MISTRIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITiated OR IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC,

are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their penetrating properties search, and cleanse, and invigorate every portion of the human organism, correcting its diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitality. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once so simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases. The cabinet below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing certificates of their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Coughs, Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints, arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumption in advanced stages of the disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to require observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefit on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 3, 1860.

MR. EDITOR: Since the election of Printer, and during the past two weeks, our dignified law-givers here have really betaken themselves to business, and have done some really good days' work. But, though this fact is doubtless very gratifying to judicious men, it does not especially tend to render the proceedings, at the Capitol, interesting to the faithful few who still continue to haunt the galleries. Their perseverance, however, was rewarded on Friday last, and again yesterday, by the sudden springing up of spicy debates.

On Friday, the troubling of the waters arose from the protesting Message of Mr. Buchanan. He does not like Mr. Covode's resolutions for a Committee of Inquiry into alleged abuses of public money and patronage, and he has allowed himself to make this absurdly false move.

For a wonder, the House was profoundly still while the Message was read by the Clerk, and then the noise began. The debate was lively and would have gradually drawn in the whole of the Democratic side, to a defence of the Message, had not Mr. Sherman cut it off in the middle, and insisted upon a vote upon his motion to refer it to the Committee on Judiciary.

Upon cold reflection, even the friends of the President will hardly dare to commit their party to the position assumed in the Message. But, although they will probably dodge further discussion when the report of the Committee on the Judiciary comes in, yet, it is hardly probable that the Chairman, Mr. John Hickman, will allow such a famous opportunity to escape him, of paying his respects to Mr. Buchanan.

The Republicans do not love Mr. Buchanan, but they are mild and cool in their dislike, compared to the bitter hatred which the Americans cherish against him. And not less truculent than they are the Douglas Democrats, or some of them, among whom the most suspicious is Mr. Hickman. He is in fact a better Republican, far, than many who profess to rank with them, and his vote, as well as his seat, is on that side.

Now this gentleman delights to contend with our Chief Magistrate, and his speech, when he closes the debate, will probably be a most able and trenchant assault upon the atrocious corruption of the present Administration. In fact, the Republicans may rest upon their oars, if they will, and let their miscellaneous allies do this work. For it is well understood the Mr. Winter Davis, the famous Baltimore American member, will select this opportunity to try his terse, sharp, stinging, and bitter eloquence upon the defenceless protester. Certain it is, that the President has no friends. There never has been a case of more utter desertion and abandonment.

No one is anxious to volunteer in defence of one whose patronage is exhausted and whose sceptre is passing away.

But, I referred early in this letter, to two debates. The second began yesterday, upon a bill to abolish polygamy in the Territories. This may seem simple enough to you, but it shaves too close to the pet dogma of the Southern political creed, to be allowed to pass silently.

This was well known to Mr. Etheridge of Tennessee, a prominent American, and he undertook to worry his Democratic "friends," as he called them, by pointing out the peculiarity of their position. The Douglas men he pronounced incapable of voting for this bill, because to them the squatter was sovereign, and if he wanted ten wives, why ten wives he might and shall have. But, said he, if you extreme Southern men vote for this bill, you endorse the principle that Congress may legislate to suppress crime in the Territories. Now if you have power to punish polygamy, why have you no power to punish fornication, and if this power extends to white what not to free blacks,—why not to enslaved blacks? Now there can be no contract of marriage between slaves—only free men can make the contract. Therefore, their intercourse is by common law criminal, and may be punished by Congress in the Territories if polygamy may be. Then if Congress may intervene indirectly, by means of such unfriendly legislation, it is absurd to say that it has no power to prohibit slavery in the Territories, by direct enactment.

You will see the position is not without ingenuity, and it was amusing to see how it stirred them up. Of course he was well answered by Messrs. Pryor and Milson, and the debate was interesting until Mr. Taylor, of Louisiana, got the floor. He is very good but uninteresting, and the difference in the attention was immediate.

Mr. Etheridge was surrounded as soon as he arose by a dense mass of silent members all leaving their seats and clustering thick about him, and every word he said was audible in the gallery, except when his voice was drowned in roars of laughter; but no sooner was Mr. Taylor on his legs, than members lounged away; some went home, some began to smoke in the space behind the seats, some went to write letters, a few went to talk with their lady friends in the gallery, and all took to general conversation, to such an extent that Mr. Taylor's eloquence was confined to a small knot, who wished to learn what he knew about it.

Mr. Speaker is much too lamblike to control the House, and they do just what seems good in their own eyes, totally indifferent to the efforts of their Presiding Officer to maintain order. Mr. Pennington says, "O, well, I shall get the boys in order presently." And so it goes, the Speaker smiling and patting his capacious stomach, and the arena in front of him, full of a roaring and tumultuous, but good-natured crowd—each speaking on his own hook.

ARLINGTON.

Live Cattle Weighed by Measure.

The only instrument necessary is a measure with feet and inch marks upon it. The girth is the circumference of the animal just behind the shoulder blades. The length is the distance from the shoulder blades. The superficial feet are obtained by multiplying the girth and length. The following table contains the rule to ascertain the weight of the animal.

If less than one foot in girth, multiply superficial feet by eight.

If less than three and more than one, multiply superficial feet by eleven.

If less than five and more than three, multiply superficial feet by sixteen.

If less than seven and more than five, multiply superficial feet by twenty-three.

If less than nine and more than seven, multiply superficial feet by thirty-three.

If less than eleven and more than nine, multiply superficial feet by forty-two.

EXAMPLE. Suppose the girth of a bullock to be six feet three inches; length five feet six inches; the superficial area will then be thirty-four, and in accordance with preceding table, the weight will be seven hundred and eighty-two pounds.

EXAMPLE. Suppose a pig to measure in girth two feet; and length one foot and nine inches. There would then be three and a half feet, which multiplied by eleven gives thirty-eight and a half pounds as the weight of the animal when dressed. In this way, the weight of the four quarters can be substantially ascertained during life.

Look out for the Women.

Young man, keep your eyes open when you go after the women. If you bite at the naked hook you are green. Is a pretty dress or form so attractive? Or a pretty face, even? Flourences, boys are of no sort of consequence. A pretty face will grow old. Paint will wash off. The sweet smile of the flirt will give way to the scowl of the termagant. Another and far different being will take the place of the goddess who smiles and cats your sugar candy. The coquet will take the kitchen corner, and with the once sparkling eye and beaming countenance will look daggers at you. Beware! Keep your eyes open, by, when you're after the women. If the dear is cross, and scolds at her mother in the back room, you may be sure you will get particular tubs all over the house. If she blushes when found at domestic duties, be sure she is of the dishrag aristocracy—little breeding and a great deal less sense. If you marry a girl who knows nothing but to commit women's slaughter on the piano, you have got the poorest piece of music ever got up. Find one whose mind is right, and then pitch. Boy, don't be hanging round like a sheep thief, as though you were ashamed to be seen in the day time, but walk up like a chicken to a dough pile, and ask for the article like a man.

Wouldn't Own Up.

Joe Stetson was a wild, frolicking fellow, who spent most of his time in drinking and swearing, while his wife Polly was left at home to do the chores. Upon a certain occasion Joe left home, to be back, as he said that night. Night came, but Joe did not. The next day passed, but about sunset, Joe came up in the worst condition imaginable; his clothes dirty and torn, one eye in deep mourning, and his face presented more the appearance of a piece of raw beef than anything else. Polly met him at the door, and noticing his appearance, exclaimed:

Why Joe, what in the world is the matter?

Polly, said Joe, do you know long Jim Andrews? Well, him and me had a fight.

Who whipped, Joe? asked Polly?

Polly, we had the hardest fight you ever did see. I hit him and he hit me, and then we clinched—Polly ain't supper most ready? I ain't had nothing to eat since yesterday morning.

But tell me who whipped, Joe, replied Polly.

Polly, replied Joe, I tell you you never did see such a fight as me and him had. When he clinched me I jerked loose from him, and then gin him three or four the most sufficient kicks you ever heard of: Polly ain't supper most ready? I'm nearly starved.

Do tell me who whipped, will you? continued Polly.

Polly, said Joe, you don't know nothing 'bout fighting. I tell you we fought like tigers; we rolled and we tumbled; first him on top, then me on top; and then the boys would pat me on the shoulder, and holler, O, my Stetson! We gooned, and bit and tore up the dirt in Seth Rennell's grocery yard worse than two wild bulls; Polly, ain't supper most ready? I'm monstrous hungry.

Joe Stetson! said Polly, in a tone bristling with anger, will you tell me who whipped?

Polly, said Joe, drawing a long sigh, I hollered.

But tell me who whipped, Joe, replied Polly.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, April 21st, 1860.

CORRESPONDENCE. We publish to-day "Arlington's" interesting communication from Washington. The article is from the pen of a gifted and respected citizen of Quincy, and will be perused with pleasure by our readers. "Arlington" is respectfully solicited to continue his valuable correspondence for the columns of the Patriot.

Quincy Savings Bank.

At the Semi-annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees, held April 3, 1860, the following Report was read, accepted, and ordered to be printed:

In accordance with the By-laws of the Bank, the Treasurer herewith submits to the Board of Trustees his Thirtieth Semi-annual Report.

JOHN C. RANDALL, Treasurer of the Quincy Savings Bank in account with said Institution.

To amount now on deposit from 1,263 depositors, including dividends which have been added to their accounts $245,689.44
To interest already collected 13,557.71

Ca.
By cash loaned on mortgage $185,519.21
" " personal security 11,607.05
" " bank stock 450.00
" " to towns 12,000.00
" " invested in bank stock 10,080.03
" " in Washington Mills 2,300.00
" cash on hand 7,290.23

$259,247.15

From the above statement it appears that the amount of interest already collected is $13,557.71

To which add for interest accrued but not yet collected 4,190.20

Making the sum of $17,747.91

As the earnings of the Bank unappropriated

The sum of $226,075 is this day entitled to a dividend of two and a half per cent. for six months, and $19,651 to one and a fourth per cent. for three months. To make these dividends will require the sum of $5,785.01

The period fixed by the By-laws has arrived for making an extra dividend of the surplus profits of the last five years among the Depositors whose accounts have been open at least one year. The division among the Depositors is effected by adding together the ordinary dividends of the last five years on each account, and assuming them as the capital on which to apportion the extra dividend.

The aggregate amount of the ordinary dividends of a thousand and eighteen accounts, entitled to a share in this dividend, is $38,045.62. It is proposed that the Board declare an extra dividend on this amount of thirty per cent., which will require the sum of $11,407.68.

Should the dividends proposed in this Report be made, there will remain the sum of $555.23, which will constitute the new accumulating fund.

One hundred dollars deposited five years ago, and the dividends withdrawn as they were declared, is now entitled to an extra dividend of $7.50; making the whole amount of interest $32.50, or six and a half per cent. per annum.

One hundred dollars deposited at the same time, no part of the principal or dividends having been withdrawn, will now amount to $136.22; being seven and twenty-four hundredths per cent., simple interest.

Miss Packard's School for instruction in the elementary branches of "Pencil and Crayon Drawings." We would call especial attention to this School, as it is an accomplishment, which all should be anxious to acquire. What faculty, with which we are endowed, if judiciously trained, will so richly reward us for the trouble. An Art, which enables the possessor, to become a true copyist in the great field of Nature; to sketch a landscape, paint a sunbeam, draw in architectural symmetry, a fancy cottage and towering castle, or impress upon the durable canvas, the image of a dear and valued friend. It is a study, also, which improves the mind; awakens a spirit of investigation, and a desire to become better acquainted with ourselves, and the objects by which we are surrounded.

Miss Packard, in our estimation, is eminently qualified for the task which she has undertaken. We visited her studio, a few days since, and were highly pleased with the numerous specimens of her skill. We there observed Portraits, (large as life) of eminent Statesmen; those of friends and relatives—many of whom we recognized; Fancy Sketches, which were beautiful; Floral Offerings; Fruit Baskets—laden with rich clusters of the choicest fruits; and so natural—as to lead to the belief, that they were real, and had been placed there by some invisible hand. There were many others—combining a rare collection of valuable paintings.

Miss Packard's advertisement, which sets forth her designs, may be found in another column.

For the Patriot.
Another Alarm.

MR. EDITOR: We still remain steadfast in our former opinion, as it regards the superiority of bell-metal over steel, for certain purposes; for nothing which your correspondent, "Patriot," has offered, has in the least effected it. His article has not the right ring to carry conviction to our mind; his assumptions are principally borrowed—they have no real foundation in truth.

For instance; he says, that "Machinist" expects that the Selectmen will carry out the designs which he appears to have much at heart. Now nothing can be farther from the truth; we have no favorite design which we desire to have accomplished; we wish merely to see the right thing done; and will here reiterate, our simple statement made before, that when the difficulties, arising from conflicting views and wishes, with which the subject is surrounded, has been removed, we have every assurance, that those who have the duty in trust, will, in all their movements, be guided by a single eye to the best interests of the town.

Again: His assertion that iron—steel if you please—may escape change, or waste, by being kept in constant use by friction, has no proof, either in theory or principle to sustain it. What has railroad tracks to do with the subject? Is there any analogy in the two cases? We know that the surface of railroad iron is kept bright by heavy burdens constantly passing over it; but then, can your correspondent inform us, how many revolutions every twenty-four hours, of a bell weighing three thousand pounds, would be necessary, with no other resistance than the yielding, elastic air, to produce a similar result?

The corroding tendencies of this metal is well known to mineralogists; which is attributed to the strong affinity it has for the oxygen of the atmosphere—displacing the carbon; necessarily producing a rapid change, which in the article of a bell, must certainly be a serious objection.

With the strength and durability of steel for mechanical purposes, as exemplified in English manufactures, according to "Patriot's" affirmation, we have nothing to do. Of one thing we are certain, however, and for which we are not indebted to English authority, and that is, that both iron and steel, are equally affected by the weather, in a great degree by contraction and expansion; rendering them at times, extremely brittle; the inference therefore is, that a steel bell, at a low temperature, would be more likely to be damaged by a sudden blow, than a metal one. Another consideration should not be overlooked; in case of accident, a bell made of steel, is thrown aside as valueless; while one of a composition cast, will command one half of its first cost.

The superior tone, volume, and intensity of power, of the steel over the composition bell, has been harped on—and naturally has misled many. In New York, lately, a trial was made between a steel bell of about six thousand pounds, and one of metal, averaging nearly twenty thousand; the friends of the steel-bell expecting to carry off the palm as victors; but the result did not confirm their expectations; instead of being congratulated as successful competitors, a vote was taken pronouncing their bell a bungling. It was the height of ignorance or presumption to anticipate anything else. As well might you pretend, by the philosophy of sound, that the report of the smallest firearm, which burns but a fraction of powder, would be equal to the heaviest ordnance.

The clear, sharp, and silvery notes of the steel bell, all are ready to admit; but for deep, musical and lasting tones—rich and varying in its modulations, command us to those of a metal bell; of power sufficient for all emergencies—and which would do honor to the memory of the illustrious dead, whose ashes lie entombed beneath the venerable pile.

MULTUM IN PARVO. The greatest discovery of the age is Redding's Russian Salve. It cures all manner of wounds, cuts, burns, scalds, corns, bunions, chapped hands, etc., speedily and effectually. For sale everywhere at only 25 cents a box.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY CANNOT BE CONTRIVED. One of the most startling cases is narrated of Dr. M. Lane's Vermifuge by Dr. John Butler, of Lowell, Trumbull Co., Ohio. The case was that of a young lady who had been very sick for eight years, and had consulted a number of physicians, who had treated it as one of Prolapsus Uteri. Dr. Butler was then called in, and, for a time, believed with his predecessors that it was a case of Prolapsus. He was, however, soon forced to the conclusion that his patient was suffering from worms, and after much persuasion prevailed upon her to take two doses of Dr. M. Lane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. This medicine had the effect of removing from her a countless number of the largest size. After she passed them, her health immediately returned. She is since married, and continues to enjoy excellent health.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M. Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuge in comparison are worthless. Dr. M. Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

Correction.

"Instead of being gloomy and forbidding as our New England Cemeteries formerly were, when they buried their dead without a prayer."

MR. EDITOR: FORMERLY—formerly, was without doubt many years ago; and had the young man who wrote the above sentence, published in the Patriot of the 14th instant, informed himself correctly concerning the true history of formerly, he never would have attempted to stuff down the throats of any of your readers of easy belief, that any person, man, woman or child, ever was buried within the notes and bounds of New England, since its settlement by civilized beings, (unless to conceal crime,) without the benefit of clergy, or the proper performance of funeral rites and ceremonies belonging to the Christian religion; the religion, distinguished of all others, for its foundation of prayer, and in which prayer is deemed the one thing essential and necessary for our well-being in the present life, as we make it, and for our everlasting good in the world without end.

With the young man's views of vegetable life and vegetable matter, as emblematical and typical of the birth, growth, death, and resurrection, it is unnecessary to descend so low in mere matters of religion, as to attempt to controvert them. All that need be said, is, that the Holy Bible informs us, that God made man in his own image; and those who he believes in God, and not in trees, shrubs and flowers, will still cling to him.

"Our fairest hope beyond the grave, And our eternal rest."

OLD GRAMMAR.

GODEY FOR MAY. has made its appearance. Its illustrations are rather in advance of the times; but we set down to it, as to a rich reprint. The frontispiece is a beautiful steel engraving, intended to represent the season. It is called the "May Day Party," typical of an old fashioned English May Day; with flower emmelled earth; green and luxuriant herbage, and shady groves, under whose foliage the merry songsters have sought shelter; and in the foreground, a group of merry urchins, bending the yielding bough, on which rests a bird's nest, to catch a glimpse of the tiny treasures within.

Then follows an exquisite and highly finished Plate of Fashions; in the dress and loveliness of dawning womanhood, radiant with smiles and sunshine, softened by the hues of a summer's evening; a graphic sketch of life before and after marriage—true as the ten commandments; with various designs for Embroidery, architectural and other sketches.

The literary character of the work loses nothing in interest; it is full up to its usual standard; original stories, essays on various subjects, a table of valuable receipts—which no housewife should be without—are some of the good things to be found in its well-filled pages.

There is an article in this number on the manufacture of ice cream, which it would be well for those who are fond of such luxuries to examine.

Poetry.

"The Things that are Unseen."

BY MARY B. LANE.

Flowers, more beautiful and fragrant,
Than the richest gardens boast,
Bloom unheeded in the desert,
Or in forest dells are lost.

Gems of purest lustre sparkle
Where no human foot has trod,
And no eye has ever wandered Save the Omnipotent eye of God.

Hidden 'neath the waves of Ocean,
Radiant pearls and diamonds glow,
Richer far than ever glistened
On the monarch's haughty brow.

And a thousand constellations
Shine beyond our mortal sight,
Whose bright glories they reach us,
Must be lost in endless night.

Like the pearl beneath the billows,
Or the forests flower unseen, Unrevealed, yet passing glorious,
Is the spirit's life within.

Not alone in outward action,
Not in labor's ceaseless strife,
Is the sum of our existence,
Or the charm of human life.

Most of grandeur, power and beauty,
Far within the spirit dwell,
In the heart's deep, secret fountains,
Whence the holiest passions swell.

In the love that never falters,
Through all change enduring still,
In the busy, faithful memory,
And the free and earnest will.

Far beneath all speech or language,
Many a great and noble thought,
Fit to deck the brow of genius,
Lies unheeded and unsought.

There are myriad aspirations
Never breathed by human tongue,
And a thousand dreams of beauty
Which the Poet never sung.

Many a fierce, though bloodless battle,
Ne'er by history enrolled,
Has been fought with strong temptation
In the silence of the soul.

Victories all unrecorded
Have been gained o'er giant wrong,
And, by deeply hidden struggles,
Many a hero has grown strong.

Outward loveliness and grandeur
Vanish like a fleeting dream,
But Eternity is peopled
With "the things that are unseen."

All true excellence and beauty,
Now by earthly mists concealed,
In that world of light celestial,
Evermore shall stand revealed.

Spring.

Who was it that so lately said,
All pulses in their heart were dead—

Old Earth, that now in festal robes Appears, as a bride new wed?

Oh, wrapped so late in winding sheet,
Thy winding-sheet, oh! where is fled?

Lo! 'tis an emerald carpet now,
Where the young monarch, Spring, may tread.

He comes—and, a deflated king,
Old Winter, to the hills is fled.

The warm wind broke his frosty spear,
And loosed the helmet from his head:

And he weak showers of arrows sped
From his strongholds has vainly sped.

All that was sleeping is awake,
And all is living that was dead.

Who listens now can hear the streams
Leap tinkling down their pebbly bed—

Or see them, from their fetters free,
Like silver snakes the meadows thread.

The joy, the life, the hope of earth,
They slept awhile, they were not dead:

O thou, who say'st thy year here ne'er
With verdure can again be spread—

O thou who moanest them that sleep,
Low lying in at earthy bed—

Look out on this reviving world,
And be new hopes within thee bred!

Anecdotes.

Patrick, the widow Maloney tells me that you have stolen one of her finest pigs.

Yes, yer honor?

What have you done with it?

Killed and ate it, yer honor.

Oh, Patrick! Patrick! when you are brought face to face with the widow and her pig on judgment day, what account will you be able to give of yourself when the widow accuses you of stealing?

Did you say the pig would be there, yer Reverence?

To be sure I did.

Well, then, yer Reverence, I'll say, Mrs.
Maloney, there's yer pig.

A Long Island darkey was extolling the cleverness of a neighbor's son.

Jim Johnson's chile, said he, is de smartest little nigger you ever see. Why, wat do you think—he went down to de blacksmith's shop, de other day, and while he was ceh he picked up a piece ob red hot iron and hid it right down again without nobody tellin' him!

They tell me wines gives strength! said
Fox one day, and yet I, who have just drunk three bottles, cannot keep myself on my legs.

O, marry him.

I would see him hanged first!

No, marry him, said his spiteful brother, and he will be sure to hang himself soon enough.

Scrofula, or King's Evil,

is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing virus, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatsoever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumptions which consume the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedies that have been discovered for the cure of this fatal disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERYTHEMA and SKIN DISEASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, ROSA, or ERYTHRODERMA, PRURITUS, PSORIASIS, BLIGHTS, BLANCS, and BOILS, TUMORS, TETTER, and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, RHEUMATISM, SYMPHYLITIC and MERCURIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBRILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITIA- TION OF THE BLOOD. The popular belief in "scrofula of the blood" is founded in truth; for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

as so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their purgative properties search, and cleanse, and invigorate every portion of the human organism, correcting its diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitality. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once so simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases. The agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing certificates of their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Costiveness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disordered Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from ails and even despaired of by every trial, cured by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what is adequate to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 13, 1860.

MR. EDITOR:—Since I wrote my previous letter to you, the course of proceedings at the Capitol has been tolerable smooth and untroubled, by any very strong winds of passion, always excepting the one day which Mr. Lovejoy selected to make his speech. Mr. Lovejoy is personally one of the pleasantest, most kind, sincere, and honest men, I have seen here. There is nothing of the fanatic in his manner, and discursive in his address. He, however, occupies what is termed here the extreme left of the House. This means that his views upon the slavery question are more uncompromising than those of most of his brethren.

Well, Mr. Lovejoy made his speech, with that success, and with such effects, as you have heard, but you probably have not heard that it was a speech of great power, delivered as no other man in the House could deliver it; for his action, his emphasis, his earnestness and enthusiasm, sent every sentence like a shell among the restless and withering ranks of his opponents, and as the missiles burst among them, the chivalry would spring from their seats in wrath and exasperation. They would not and could not leave the Hall, however, for the orator held them, as if they had been charmed by his voice, in spite of the indignant protests of Mr. Miller, of South Carolina, and other Southern leaders, against staying to listen to such insults upon the peculiar institution.

I shall not describe the scene which Mr. Roger A. Pryor brought on. The accounts in the papers give, however, a very faint idea of the hurly-burly which actually occurred. For a few minutes it was very exciting.—Provisionally it blew over and order reigned once more.

A collision in the House at present would be terrible. To give an idea of the tone of men, I can assure you that a most quiet and amiable Republican, whom I walked down the Avenue with after adjournment, said to me in the most simple way:

"By Jove, it was awkward for me, as I, like a fool, had left my pistol at home to-day." Everybody's temper is all reverse now, and both sides are amiably debating the Kansas bill, which will probably pass both Houses. There is little or no excitement in the debate and the Opposition is very strong.

Polygamy, "one of the twins" as the Republicans call it, received a knock upon the head the other day, after a very spicy debate.

But the topic, which, of all, commands unlimited discussion is the momentous question—Who are to be the candidates? Perhaps I can give you the latest odds from reliable sources. The chances of the various competitors vary from day to day, not unlike the perpetual shifting of the odds upon one of the great British horse races. To-day this horse is the favorite and to-morrow it may be an animal never before considered at all in the betting.

Shortly after his great speech Mr. Seward held, by a long distance, the first place for the Republican cap. Late his chances seem to have diminished under some secret and unexplained pressure from without.—Senator Wilson, I hear, thinks he cannot be elected and favors Judge Mc Lane. From whatever cause, this last named gentleman has suddenly taken a vast stride in the odds, and he now ranks next to, or perhaps even with Mr. Seward. Mr. Banks is not much spoken of, and Mr. Bates is rather slighted; while the old standard bearer, Fremont, is dropped without a sign of recognition. The secret talk now is Mc Lane and Wilson, but I hardly think that this will turn out to be the ticket.

Mr. Douglas is very confident, but the most astute president makers say that his chances are simply nil. The South will resist his nomination with the desperation with which they would resist the nomination of Mr. Seward, or Mr. Banks, by the Democratic party, and when was it ever dreamed that the Democratic party could raise a finger in opposition to the united will of the South. The best Southern men here, have told me that they could see little to choose for them between Seward and Douglas. Mr. Buchanan, too, will leave no stone unturned to injure the man whom he hates as few men ever hate.

Mr. Hunter was the Southern candidate until very lately, and, in my opinion, was to be the man. But, yesterday, I heard it whispered, that there is something wrong with him. He is rumored to hold doctrines which not even the long suffering Democracy can be trusted to bear—at the North. What they can be, which exceed the principles of the present Administration, it puzzles me to imagine. But it must be awfully strong if it beats our revered President. Perhaps, Mr. Breckinridge may succeed to Mr. Hunter's place. There is no prospect of Mr. Buchanan being once more a candidate.

As for the old gentlemen of Boston, and their Convention, of course nobody here considers the movement of any possible consequence, if anybody here has taken the trouble to consider it at all, which I have no cause to believe.

Western Correspondence.

WINONA CO., MINNESOTA, APRIL 16, 1860.

FRIEND GREEN: April 16, five years since, I landed on Winona Prairie: and this morning I entertain the same views as to her destiny; as to her future being for years the first commercial city in Minnesota. My prophecy thus far has proven true.—Winona, to-day, is unrivalled by any other town in the State, which you will observe by reading the papers from our State. I based my opinion, not alone on her magnificent location, but on her topographical as well as geographical position. By a look at the map of our County, and knowledge of the fertility of the soil adjacent for miles, which is naturally tributary to her wealth, and exemplified by the past season, will prove to any one, that this judgment did not arise on prejudice or any pecuniary gain for the time being. I have, which further gives strength to my judgment, never wavered in all the adversity, which in common with many others, I have suffered.

While others, who apparently, having no fixed purpose, have either given up to dependency, and in many instances, left for other parts, I have cheerfully submitted to adversity, which all new towns, and newly settled countries have more or less, from time immemorial, experienced.

In sincerity for our love and firmly adhering faith in the pre-eminent advantages, we have engaged in all free enterprises, from common highways and railroads, which are to any city's wealth, like arteries and veins to the pulsations of the heart, down to the encouragement of the poorest in our midst, and domestic happiness. Never being idle to improve and further to the best of our poor ability, her pecuniary, social and political prosperity.

We have given out of our purse freely, as long as it contained anything, for her public buildings; and often times, perhaps, not justly; but innocently, to the advancement of her social wealth; not in the least unmindful of the germ and real strength of a community, the poorest laboring man.

We have never for party purposes, advocated the cause of any individual whom we thought would not make good and faithful officers; that which is most necessary and highly important for a new State. Especially, a State endowed with so many natural advantages; and which has, if commenced right, and properly moulded, and carefully protected, the elements of educational, agricultural and commercial wealth, not surpassed by any other that now compose this great Confederacy.

You, in Quincy, (the place of my nativity) who are the best judges of my sincerity, can well appreciate the respect I bear for you, and can best testify whether I left your ancient and honorable locality, without feelings of the greatest sorrow, and with a purpose, wherever my lot was cast, to shed lustre on her already highly respected name.

I do not speak thus, ostentatiously, but as a pilgrim answering back to an industrious, educated, noble ancestry; whose germ landed on the poorest, most inhospitable part of our continent; who have risen in wealth, and gone on from prosperity to prosperity, to the noblest and highest pinnacle of greatness.

While I have striven for the good of this community, in denouncing in the bitterest terms, wrong, wherever it existed, (which you are well aware is peculiarly characteristic of a true New Englander) and much as you well know always was to my pecuniary interest very injurious, I have the proud satisfaction of having the firm friendship, of the best part of the whole community.

Had I been a strict partizan, doubtless I might have risen to political honors; but detesting and constantly fighting for the better end, these demoralizing party drills, which for success, are more enjoined in new States than old. I am an outsider with no party proclivities. At times, for this independent course I consequently receive from the thoughtless, the bitterest condemnation. Twice in my life have I been the unanimous choice of a grateful public (having deserved well of my people) for distinction of public office under the Federal Government. Twice have I refused to sell my soul for the support of a party.

My sympathies, as you are all well aware, are with the poor, and for the elevation of the races, of whatever color or distinction. Consequently, I am termed a Republican. But my relations with them, is only this; when I see wrong, which in the end dis-

honors and destroys any party or any country, I denounce it without fear of being read out of the party. Washington's ideas of two parties, waged against each other, their demoralizing effects with the Constitution, for me, is all the platform I desire. In motion, or not in motion, there is room enough on it for all people, of all races and kind, for all time to come, to live in the utmost peace and harmony.

With a great desire to meet all my old friends, after three years absence, I continue to be their old affectionate fellow townsman.

JAMES WHITE.

For the Patriot.

Ladies Dress Reform.

There are some human beings existing, (claiming to be men) whose highest ideas of woman, is to see her dressed in the height of fashion; totally regardless of the injuries she sustains from such habits. Abominable as is this idea, woman, (judging only by her actions as regards dress) seems to accept it. I cannot call to mind a period in the past, when there was a greater need of reform in female dress than at present. In our country, as civilization advances, and the nation becomes more enlightened, the fashions for dress adopted, seems to grow worse, rather than better. What is the cause of so much indisposition among the females during the present era? Each generation is becoming weaker, physically, and unless the people arouse themselves, and awake from this unconscious stupidity, and adopt that system which will best promote the health of woman, rather than to follow the ridiculous fashions which now prevail, woman must finally become a sex of invalids. For instance, witness their mode of wearing the bonnet. It covers only a small portion of the head; the top of the head, the most delicate part, is left entirely uncovered; and hence they frequently complain of being troubled with the neuralgia; the aforesaid method of wearing the bonnet, is a sufficient cause for the disease. A man would think it a very uncomfortable position to be placed in, to oblige him to leave his head, uncovered to such an extent; but very recently there has come into vogue, thank Heaven, a larger size bonnet, worn by a few, but this sets up so far from the head, it serves but a little better protection than the former; however, it is an improvement. But I am informed, even so soon, this fashion will not last long; the smaller bonnet being preferred.

Also, for a lady to be in the height of fashion, she must need confine her body in as small a compass as possible around her waist. In doing this, any one who will stop one moment to reflect, will perceive how the ribs must be cramped together, and how it impedes a free circulation of the blood. Of all places of the body where it needs to be free from lacing (so called) that place is the waist, as that is the centre or principal part of the machinery on which our life depends. The result of thus lacing, finally throws them into consumption, and they thus forfeit their lives by practising such an abominable custom.

Also, among other absurdities connected with their habits, is the wearing of such an extra number of skirts, and supported by resting them on their hips. If they would dispense with the crinoline and hoops, and throw off one half their usual number of skirts, their garments would be closer to their person, and would of course be warmer, and they would be obviously relieved of the extra weight which heretofore they have been carrying. And they should, also, in all cases, if they wish to avoid the hip complaint, avoid resting anything thereon; attach suspenders to the garment, and rest them on the shoulder in preference.

Another long established and absurd fashion, is that of wearing long dresses. Is it not disgusting to witness a lady walking out of doors with her dress dragging after her, and perhaps in the wet or mud, and thereby catching cold by getting the ankles or feet wet by the dress flapping around them? and to avoid this, she must be at the trouble of holding it up most of the time. There are other unreasonable customs practised by females, which might be mentioned, but the above are those worthy of the most consideration. Woman! why permit your sex to be classed with the invalids? Why do you not seek to raise them to their proper standard? You possess mental ability equal to man; and are entitled to the same rights, morally. Ought you not see that you possess the same advantages to enjoy health as he, and not be bound down by such miserable fashions. If it does please man to see you adopt such absurd and improper customs, do not listen a moment to him; and adopt only such as your own good common sense dictates. Do not wait for your neighbor or friend to commence the reform; but begin yourself, and show them that you are a woman of sound sense; looking to health, rather than countenance such inconsistent fashions.

Small Pox.

MR. EDITOR: As you have from time to time given place in your columns to articles on this disease, and, in a recent number, a Correspondent has called the attention of our "Board of Health" to the subject, it might be interesting to your readers to notice the way in which the thing is "done up" in other places.

The following is a veritable fact, it being an extract from a private letter, the writer of which, (sixty years of age) is a native of this town, and was, for forty years, a well-known resident here. Although not intended for publication, we give it in the writer's own words. Yours,

APRIL 15TH, 1860.

"MY DEAR —: Many thanks for your letter which I received yesterday, together with the Quincy Patriot of the week previous. You 'Still live.' So do I. But—O horrors! In prison! Yes, both myself and wife in close confinement!! Charged with no crime, yet shut up on suspicion. You would like to know why? Well, then I will tell you.

I returned here from my last visit to Massachusetts, on Friday, March 24, and on Sunday, (11th) felt as though I had taken a little cold. Not feeling any better on Monday, at night I took a copious sweat, and felt much better Tuesday morning. A day or two afterwards, had some half dozen little cold sores, as I supposed, come out on my face; in a day or two, they got well, and I suffered no inconvenience from them at all, and nobody noticed them at all. I continued my usual avocations through the week, and was round every day as usual, thinking myself perfectly well, or rather not thinking anything about it; and have continued to do so till last Sunday morning.

About two weeks since, a daughter of the lady with whom we boarded, was taken sick, and continued to grow worse, until last Friday week, when the Doctor thought she had the Small Pox. My wife (who intended to visit her father at W. the following Monday) started right off Friday, (P. M.) and Board of Health, came to me on the street, and said the child had the Small Pox, and that I had better get another boarding place for a few days, till she got over it. So I went to a friend of mine, a Mr. P., and told him just how I was situated, and asked him if he could board me for a few days. He said he would do so, so I went that night.

"The next morning, (last Sunday) two of the Board of Health called on him and told him he must not keep me. He asked them what he should do with me; he could not turn me out of doors, and they did not seem to know.

"Finally, they concluded that if he would shut me up in a room by myself till next morning, they would provide a place for me. So he did. Monday forenoon, none of the Board of Health came near us. After dinner I suggested to Mr. P. to go and see the Mayor, which he did, and the Mayor told him something should be done that afternoon. About 4 o'clock a doctor came in and subjected me to the action of disinfecting agents, filling the room with the most intolerable stench, in which I must remain until morning, when I could go just where I pleased, without danger to others; and they thought I had better go to W., where my wife was, until the excitement had somewhat subsided. Tuesday morning I called on the Doctor and he gave me a clean bill of health—and I arrived at W., about 3 o'clock the same afternoon.

"Wednesday, (A. M.) letters came to W., stating that we had been exposed to the Small Pox and warning persons to be on their guard. 'Twas like throwing a brand of fire into an open magazine of gunpowder. In the afternoon we were notified if we did not leave town the next morning, measures would be taken to remove us. So, Thursday morning we started for D. (first train) getting here about 11 o'clock. I left S. at the Depot, while I went to find a place for us; but nobody could take us in. It getting to be past dinner time, and night coming on, I returned to the Depot, and X and I held a consultation, whether it was best to climb the highest tree we could find and roost in the branches, or make our bed in the bed of the river, or try to hunt up the Board of Health. We finally concluded upon the latter alternative, and after some delay, got them together. At 4 1/2 P. M. they took us to a small tenement, in the same house in which we had been boarding, and in which the child is now sick. In about half an hour they brought us a basket of provisions, an old antiquated cook stove, and a small load of wood, and fairly set us up in housekeeping at their own expense; forbidding us to leave the house at all, during their pleasure, and further saying, 'So here we are now, and probably shall be kept here a week or two longer at least. The worst of it all, is, they seem to think, and the impression has gone abroad amongst the community, that I brought the disease here when I returned from Massachusetts, and that I had it at the time I was dosing for a cold.

"I don't know but it might have been so, but if it was I did not know it. I had been round the city perfectly free and unrestrained for more than five weeks since my return, in and out of various houses and stores; was not confined to the house a day in all that time; and furthermore, not a single individual, as I can learn, (and I enquire every day) has got it—had it—or got the symptoms of it, except this little girl. And I had my wife's were never better in our life than at present, and yet after allowing me more than five weeks free range of the city, they suddenly think I am a dangerous man to be around amongst folks, and shut us up on suspicion!! Most astute and sagacious Board of Health!!

"Query: If 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' how much discount is made to those who take the article by the quantity?"

Tea and Coffee.

Taking into account the habits of the people, tea and coffee for supper and breakfast add to human health and life, if a single cup be taken at either meal, and is never increased in strength, frequency or quantity. If they were more stimulants, and were thus taken in moderation and uniformity, they would in time become inert, or the system would become so habituated to their employment, as to remain in the same relative position to them as if they had never been used; and consequently as to themselves, they had better never have been used, as they are so liable to abuse. But science and ficti unite in declaring them to be nutritious as well as the stimulant, hence they will do a new good to the system every day, to the end of life, just as bread and fruits do; hence we never get tired of either. But the use of bread and fruits is daily abused by the multitudes, and dyspepsia and cholera morbus result; yet we ought not to forego their employment on that account, nor should we forego the use of tea and coffee because their inordinate use gives neuralgia and other ailments.

But the habitual use of tea and coffee at the first and last meals of the day, has another high advantage, is productive of incalculable good in the way of averting evils.

We will drink at our meals, and if we don't drink these, we drink what is worse—cold water, milk or alcoholic mixtures. The regular use of these last leads the young to drunkenness; the considerable employment of simple milk which are often scarcely visible, are always exposed to such complaints.

Warm clothing and proper muscular exercise should be combined, for the full development of the blood vessels in the extremities. If, while the vessels are rendered continually smaller in the extremities by exposure to cold, we have much muscular exercise, especially if taken but occasionally, the muscular exertion only aggravates the trouble, and will be almost certain to produce a rupture of some of the over distended vessels in some internal organ. We are satisfied, from observation for more than twenty years, that these apparently unimportant matters have more to do in producing consumption and several other diseases, than any peculiarity of the constitution or formation of the body entailed from parents to children.—Homoeopathist.

* BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE *

SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT. The Report of the School Committee, of this town, for the current year, gives a flattering prospect of the condition of our Public Schools. There is no fault to find; but few improvements are suggested. The Teachers, one and all, are highly commended for their faithfulness and zeal in the discharge of their onerous duties.

There have been but few changes made during the past year; and none, except by the implied wish of the teacher. Miss Baxter, who had the management of the School at the Neck, asked to be released from her responsibilities, which was granted. The Washington School, at the Point, has had many drawbacks from withdrawal of its instructors; but it is now in charge of Mr. Daniel S. Baxter, of this place, in whom the Committee appear to have full confidence. They say, that during the short time he has had it under his management, there is an evident improvement in its affairs; that he appears "to be rapidly making up for lost time."

The Report closes, with the remark, that if the same fostering care, and liberal means are continued, the citizens will have just cause to be proud of their schools.

A SOCIAL TIME. We would call the attention of our readers to the invitation of the Hancock Light Guards to its friends to meet at their Armory this evening. This Company has always borne a high character for its discipline, while its correct bearing and soldierly deportment have won for it the good will of our citizens. For five years it has stood second to none in these respects, and in common with many others, we wish it success for years to come. We are glad to learn that it is proposed to procure a new uniform, immediately, or, at least, in season for the Company to appear in at its next anniversary parade.

The Quincy Brass Band will be present and enliven the occasion by their music, while those who wish can partake of chowder at their leisure. It is hoped that every person, who has any interest in the Company, will be present—fine members in particular.

MALICIOUS VILLAINY. We understand that the Barn and Carriage House of R. B. Leuchars, Esq., of this town, was entered on the night of Sunday last, and two carriages with other articles, considerably injured, being cut with a sharp instrument. A number of valuable pear and ornamental trees were also destroyed at the same time. We hope the cowardly perpetrators will be detected; and, it behoves every good citizen to be on the alert, in order to bring to merited punishment all such malicious persons—as none are free from their evil designs, and all are liable to injury in an unguarded moment. Mr. L. has offered a reward in our advertising columns.

STEEL BELLS. A large steel bell, manufactured in Sheffield, England, for the city of San Francisco, has been tested, lately, in the city of New York, before a large concourse of people. The editor of the "Brother Jonathan," who was present, says, that every method of sounding the bell, from the slow measured stroke to the quick alarm rattle, was resorted to, but showed no superiority over the bells commonly used in this country. The sound as exhibited, was sharp and quick, but by no means strong, loud or lasting.

RAILROAD STOCK. We notice with pleasure the upward tendency of the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad stock; the lowest price asked a few days since, was one hundred and eight dollars per share. Three years ago, it was much below par; and its healthy increase is, in a great degree, attributable to the efficient and judicious course pursued by the President, aided by his associate Directors.

STATE VALUATION. Hon. J. H. D. Blake of Braintree, of the Senate, and Messrs Fuller of Wrentham and Powers of Brookline, of the House, are members of the Valuation Committee from Norfolk County.

NEW AMBROTYPE AND PHOTOGRAPH SALOON. We would call the attention of the public to the new Ambrotype and Photograph Saloon, recently opened by Mr. Jones, in the Town Hall. We visited this Artist's place of business, a few days since, and saw much to admire and to commend. Mr. Jones' stay, so we have been informed, will be short. We therefore recommend to those who may be desirous of securing a good likeness, of either themselves or friends, to make an early application. Read the advertisement in another column.

DEATH FROM INJURIES. William Doubler, of this town, a stone cutter, about forty-seven years of age, who had an ankle crushed between two stones, a short time since, died at the Hospital in Boston, on Monday last—mortification having taken place. He leaves a family.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS. Our thanks are tendered to Hon. Messrs. Wilson and Sumner of the Senate for their kind attentions in forwarding Congressional Documents; also, to Hon. Mr. Adams, of the House, for the reception of several interesting speeches.

CENSUS APPOINTMENT. We learn that Albion Dearborn of this town, has been appointed Assistant United States Marshal for the purpose of taking the census in the District composed of the towns of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth.

The work of taking the Census will commence on the first of June, and the whole American people should feel a laudable pride in promoting it, by prompt and correct answers to the various questions the Deputy Marshal will propound.

BIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES. Among the laws passed by the Massachusetts Legislature at the recent Session was one imposing a fine of one hundred dollars on any person who shall wilfully send to the publishers of any newspaper, for the purpose of publication, a fraudulent notice of the birth of a child, or of the marriage of any parties, or of the death of any person.

HARPER'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for May, is already before the public. It is the closing number of the Twentieth Volume; and with the next, it enters the first year of its manhood. No Magazine, either in this or any other country, during its minority, has gained so rapidly on public favor, secured so many warm and ardent admirers, or such hosts of devoted friends, who feel an interest in its future welfare. In the one before us, the illustrations appear to be even more rich and numerous, than those of its predecessors.

"Loudings in the Footprints of the Pioneers," "Ancient Monuments in the United States," "The Growth and Culture of the Silk Worm," etc., (excellent papers, by the way) are highly embellished; green spots in the landscape, to refresh the understanding, and assist the imagination.

The publishers, have fully redeemed their pledge to the public; to render it, by the co-operation of the best literary talent of the times, a first class Family Magazine; where the young may glean lessons of wisdom; the mature, subjects for contemplation, in Nature and Art, and those who soar in the regions of fancy, exquisitely wove tales of romance and fiction, to beguile the tedious of the hour. Furnished by C. Gill & Co.

ANNUAL CHOICE OF OFFICERS. The following is a list of the officers of the Norfolk County Total Abstinence Society for the ensuing year:

President: Rev. Edwin Thompson of Walpole.
Vice Presidents: Rev. Jacob Ide, D. D., of Medway, Rev. Isaac Smith of Foxboro', Rev. Mr. Phillips of Sharon, Nathan C. Martin of Milton, James Dorr of Dorchester.

Secretary: Alfred B. Ellis of South Dedham.
Treasurer: E. F. Gay of South Dedham.
Executive Committee: Otis Cary of Foxboro', V. R. Coombs of West Medway, Rev. Mr. Wilson of Stoughton, Jacob R. Cushman of Medfield, Rev. Henry Jewell of Canton.

SEWING MACHINE. An Act, exempting from attachment one sewing machine of a value not exceeding one hundred dollars in actual use by the debtor or the family of the debtor, passed both branches of the Legislature, and received the approval of the Governor of this State.

THE CATTLE DISEASE. The Massachusetts Commissioners, after killing one hundred and fifty head of cattle, and expending about five thousand dollars, half the State appropriation, and finding the remainder entirely inadequate to pay for all the diseased cattle, have ceased their exterminating work. The disease is found to prevail to a much larger extent than was at first supposed. Some cattle which were effected a year ago and were supposed to have recovered, on sounding the lungs were adjudged to death, and on dissection, were found fatally diseased, the lungs having the appearance of rotten cheese. It is really an alarming matter, and should be promptly and thoroughly examined. The value of the neat stock of the State is estimated at $10,000,000.

LONDON PICTORIALS. Messrs. Redding & Co., of State Street, Boston, the oldest established Periodical firm in the city, receive regularly, by each arrival, full supplies of the London Pictorials, and the choicest Weeklies. Give them a call.

THE LATE B. V. FRENCH. Hon. Benjamin Vinton French, who died at his residence in Dorchester, on the 11th inst., in the sixty-ninth year of his age, was a native of Braintree, where his remains were deposited. He commenced business in Boston, in the year 1812, opposite the old Lamb Tavern, where he remained, a successful merchant, till the grocery trade, having accumulated a handsome property—retired to his farm in the town of his birth, and devoted his time and talents to agriculture. A few years since, he became involved in debt, and was reluctantly obliged to suffer his fine homestead to be sold, with stock farm implements, &c., at a great sacrifice.

He soon after removed from this once beloved sphere of duty to the place where he died; and in the meantime, opened an office in Boston—as an agent or Commissioner for buying and selling farms, farm stock, and the transaction of such other business as came in their line.

He took a leading part in the formation of societies designed for the improvement of horticulture and agriculture in this state, and was one of the first members of the Norfolk Agricultural Society, and one of its Vice Presidents until his death.

In 1813, he was a member of the Executive Council, under the administration of Governor Morton.

Few men could boast of so large a circle of friends. The hospitality which he dispensed in such liberal measure; the kind word and cordial greeting which came so naturally from his lips; his exuberance of spirits and inexhaustible fund of humor, which made him one of the most agreeable of companions—all united to draw around him a host of warm and steadfast friends.

PLANT PEAS DEEP. The theory recently advocated of planting peas very deep in the earth, in order to prolong the bearing capacity of the vines, has been well tested and found to be correct. They have pushed their way through earth, eight to ten inches in depth, in a short time; and instead of turning yellow at the bottom and dying after the first gathering, they blossomed and bore for several weeks, increasing the crop, two thirds more than by the old process.

NOTICE. At a meeting of the Niagara Engine Company, held April 7, 1860, the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas, God in his overruling Providence has seen fit to remove by death, one of our Members, Henry Rudderham, Resolved, That though circumstances beyond our control forbid our attending the obsequies of his remains, we do mutually sympathize with his afflicted relatives in the loss of a true brother and devoted friend.

Resolved, In the death of Henry Rudderham, the Department has lost an efficient Member, and we a much esteemed companion.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Quincy Patriot and Freeman's Advocate.

CHARLES N. HUNT, Foreman.
F. EDWARD BENT, Clerk.

WORMS. Worms. A great many learned treatises have been written, explaining the origin of, and classifying the worms generated in the human system. Scarcely any topic of medical science has elicited more acute observation and profound research; and yet physicians are very much divided in opinion on the subject. It must be admitted, however, that, after all, a mode of expelling them and purifying the body from their presence, is of more value than the wisest disquisitions as to their origin.

Such an expelling agent has at last been found. Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge proves to be the much sought after specific—its efficacy being universally acknowledged by the entire medical faculty. As further proof, read the following from a lady—one of our own citizens:

New York, Oct. 15 1852.
This is to certify that I was troubled with worms for more than a year. I was advised to use M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. I took one bottle which brought away about fifty worms; I commenced improving at once, and am now perfectly well. The public can learn my name, and further particulars, by applying to Mrs. Hardie, No. 3 Mahalan place, or to E. L. Theall, Druggist, corner of Rutgers and Monroe streets.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuge in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

The Plowman.

Tearing up the stubborn soil—
Treading, dragging, toiling, mowing,
Hands and feet and garments soiling—
Who would grudge the plowman's toil?
Yet there's lustre in his eye,
Borrowed from yon glowing sky;
And there's meaning in his glance,
Which bespeak no dreamer's fancies—
For his mind has precious lore,
Gleaned from Nature's sacred store.

Telling up yon weary hill,
He has worked since early morning,
Ease and rest and pleasure scoring,
And he's at his labor still—
Though the slanting western beam,
Quivering on the glossy stream,
And yon old elm's lengthened shadow
Flung athwart the verdant meadow,
Tell that shadowy twilight gray
Cannot now be far away.

See! his steps and wipes his brow—
Marks his rapid sun descending—Marks the shadow far extending—Deems it time to quit the plow.
Weary man and weary steed,
Welcome food and respite need;
'Tis the hour when bird and bee
Seek repose—and why not he?
Nature loves the twilight best—
Let the plowman rest!

Ye, who pursued upon the breast
Of ease and pleasure envying, Ever new delights creating,
Which not long retain their zest—
Tie upon your taste they pull,
Which avail your pleasures all?
In his hard but pleasant labor,
He, your useful, healthful neighbor,
Finds enjoyment, real, true,
Vainly sought by such as you.

Nature's open volume lies,
Richly tinted, brightly beaming,
With its varied lessons teeming,
All outspread before your eyes,
Dewy glades and opening flowers,
Emerald meadows, vernal bowers,
Sun and shade, and bird and bee,
Forest and hill and lea,
All things beautiful and fair,
His benignant teachers are.

Treading up the stubborn soil—
Treading, dragging, toiling, mowing,
Hands and feet and garments soiling—
Who would grudge the plowman's toil?
Yet there's lustre in his eye,
Borrowed from yon glowing sky;
And there's meaning in his glance,
Which bespeak no dreamer's fancies—
For his mind has precious lore,
Gleaned from Nature's sacred store.

Our Baby.

BY MRS. F. D. GAGE.

Did you ever see our baby?
Little tot,
With her eyes so sparkling bright,
And her skin so tiny white,
Lips and cheeks of rosy light—
"Tell me what,"
She is just the sweetest baby
In the lot.

Then she is our only darling,
And to me,
All her ways are witty;
And when she sings her little ditty,
Every word is just as pretty
As can be—
Not another in the city
Sweet as she.

You don't think so—never saw her;
Wish you could See her with her playthings clattering, Hear her tongue a chattering—
Little dancing feet come pattering—Think you would Love her just as well as I do—
If you could!

Every grandma's only darling,
I suppose,
Is as sweet and bright a blossom,
Is a treasure to her bosom,
Is as cherishing and endearing
As my rose—
Heavenly Father! spare them to us
Till life's close!

To March.

The year's departing beauty hides
Of winter storms the sullen threat;
But in thy sweetest from abides
A look of kindly promise yet.

Thou bring'st the hope of those calm skies,
And that soft tone of sunny showers,
When the wide bloom, on earth that lies,
Seems of a brighter world than ours.

Anecdotes.

An exquisitely dressed young gentleman, after buying another suit to dangle about his delicate person, said to the jeweler:
"I would like to have a something engraved on it to denote what he was." Certainly, certainly. I will put a cipher on it, said the tradesman.

Sir, said a burly fellow of no enviable character, I have the largest neck of any man in the city.

Very likely, said his neighbor; and I saw yesterday the largest rope in the city—put that and that together.

What a fine head your boy has, said an admirer friend.
Yes, said the fond father; he's a chip of the old block; ain't you sonny?
I guess so, daddy, cause, the teacher said yesterday I was a young blockhead.

A father, who was one day wearied with the childish talk of his son, about eight years old, told him in angry tone to hold his tongue.
Why father, said the child, crying, my hands are so dirty I don't want to.

Ma, if you will give me an apple, I will be good.
No, my child, you must not be good for pay—you ought to be good for nothing.

Harrison Sq., Dorchester, Mar. 30, 1859.

Mr. PACKARD—Sir, I have given your

Regenerator a fair trial and find it all you claim

for it. My hair was very gray; it is now restored to perfect color. All the humor is removed from the scalp. In short, I have now a perfect head of hair. I am willing to go before any Justice of the Peace and make oath to the above, if you wish it.

What it has done for him it will do for everybody that will use it.

JOSEPH DIX & Co.,

Parson.

The Parson.

When I was young and fond of noise,
And wore my first gray homespun jacket,
And fought stout battles with the boys,
And bled my father's house with racket;
Our well beloved pastor died,
And left behind him scores of weepers—
Stout pillars of the church long tried,
As well as lesser props and sleepers.

He was a patriarch, wise and gray,
One of the old time Christian scholars;
Who cheered affliction's weary way,
And gave the oppressed advice and dollars.
The nation's love for him, at last,
Sublimed almost to veneration,
For he'd bapized one-half the past,
And all the present generation.

Outside the church the good man held
A comprehensive supervision,
And village quidnuncs were compelled,
To bow before his calm decision.
Though party strife might rage and swell,
Or scorpions raise some knotty question,
There came no storm he could not quell,
No doubt too grave for his digestion.

I do remember well the scene,
When all the congregation, seated,
He closed the book with reverent mien,
And twice the pregnant text repeated;
And then, as influenced from above,
His heart with holy themes expanding,
Appointed to Faith and Christian Love,
As well as human understanding.

His looks, his tone, his earnest ways,
Form one of memory's pleasing pictures,
As he in strong, but lonely phrase,
Inspired hope, or uttered strictures.
The velvet cap he always wore,
Whence'er he thumped the pulpit cushion,
Loomed like a beacon from the shore,
To warn us sinners from perdition.

The best of men a cross must bear—
So Providence or Fate contrive it;
Of private grief he had his share,
And some that were not quite so private.
He might conceal the moulting fire
Of mental or domestic trial,
But troubles with the wrangling choir
Were patent as their own bass-viol.

Of course, there was among his charge,
One lady, meddling, ancient maiden,
Whom, like a fire-drake, roused at large,
With furious stories of scandal laden.
She scattered brands of discord free,
She slandered and annoyed the parson,
Till all agreed she ought to be Indicted for constructive arson.

On Wednesday night he always made
To us a quiet pastoral visit;
So, when the bell his touch betrayed,
My mother never asked, "Who is it?"
But wheeled out the easy chair,
With its inviting arms of leather,
And sent the parson, with thoughtful care,
And sweet tobacco box together.

Those genial times were mellow ripe,
When fables were not inclined to bicker,
If managers espoused a pipe,
And sipped a social glass of liquor;
So while his cheerful features glowed,
And smoke-wreaths circled to the ceiling,
His talk in streams of wit flowed,
Like waters from a fountain of healing.

We loved the man, revered him too—
As who did not at once know him?
His play and his sadness drew,
With words of love, all close to him.
His praise by men need not be flippant,
To make our sorrowing hearts beat faster,
For memory holds a sacred crypt,
Wherein is shrouded our sainted pastor.

The Life Guano.

They err who measure life by years,
With false or thoughtless tongue;
Some hearts grow old before their time;
Others are always young.

'Tis not the number of the lines
On Life's fast filling page;
'Tis not the pulse's added throbs
Which constitute their age.

Some souls are serene from the free,
While others are dark from the free;
They stand just where their fathers stood;
Dead, even while they live!

Others, all spirit, heart, and sense—
Their's the mysterious power
To live in thrills of joy or woe,
A twelvemonth in an hour!

Scize then, the minutes as they pass—
The wolf of Life is Thought!
Warm up the colors—let them glow,
With fire or fancy fraught.

Live to some purpose—make thy Life
A gift of use to thee!
A joy, a good, a golden hour,
A heavenly agony!

Anecdotes.

Persuance, said a lady, very earnestly,
to a servant, is the only way to accomplish great things.

One day eight dumplings were sent down stairs, and they all disappeared.
Sally, where are those dumplings?
I managed to get through them, ma'am.
Why, how on earth did you contrive to eat
so many dumplings?

By perseverance, ma'am, said Sally.
Lewis, what did you do with your new trousers? said an anxious papa.
I trooped them off.
For what?
A slung-shot, Hoyle's Games, and the Pirate's Own Book.

Charles, said a young lady to her beau,
what is the cause of the Church bell ringing so?
Well, said the beau, solemnly, if I were to express an opinion, I should give it as my deliberate conviction that somebody is pulling the rope!

When Jennie went to school she was asked why the young bachelor was singular?
Because, she replied, it is so very singular that they don't get married.

Hall's Great
SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant
and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting nor purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of disease, regulates the Bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and correct tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renovates and restores the vital energy and Physical Health.
In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofu-
lous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bores, Eczema, Asthma, Gout, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Blisters, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eruptions, or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.
It is also an efficient remedy for Liver Complaint,
Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derange-
ment of the Urinary Organs.
It is an infallible remedy for irregularity and
other diseases peculiar to Females, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,
Dizziness and Headache.
It can be given with perfect safety and most

CLEANSE THE SYSTEM—PURIFY THE BLOOD.
The Best Spring & Summer Medicine
in the World is
DR. LANGLEY'S
Root and Herb Bitters,
Composed of Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Yellow Dock, Prickly Ash, Thoroughwort, Rhu-sarb, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c. all of which are so compounded as to act in concert and assist Nature in eradicating disease.

These Bitters continue to be the most
standard, popular and reliable medicine ever discovered for the cure of Liver Complaints and all their attendant jaundice in its worst forms; Humors whether of the blood or skin;
all Bilious diseases and Foul Stomach; Dyspepsia; Costiveness; Female Weakness, and every disease arising from Indigestion, or Sedentary habits of life; Headache; Dizziness; Piles; Heartburn; Pains in the Side, Bowels, or Back; Flatulency; Loss of Appetite, and every kindred complaint arising from Impurities of the Blood, Diseased Liver, or Disordered Stomach, to which every person is more or less subject in this climate.

The effect of this Medicine is most wonderful—it acts directly upon the bowels and blood, by removing all obstructions from the internal organs, stimulating them into healthful action, renovating the foundations of life, purifying the blood, cleansing it from all humors, and causing it to course anew through every part of the body; restoring the invalid
to health and usefulness.

DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE
LIVER PILLS.
WE beg leave to call the attention of the Trade, and more especially the Physicians of the country, to two of the most popular remedies now before the public.
We refer to
Dr. Chas. M'Lane's Celebrated
Vermifuge and Liver Pills.

We do not recommend them as universal Cure-alls, but simply for what their name purports, viz.:
THE VERMIFUGE,
For expelling Worms from the human system. It has also been administered with the most satisfactory results to various Animals
subject to Worms.

THE LIVER PILLS,
For the cure of LIVER COMPLAINTS,
all BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS, SICK
HEAD-ACHE, &c. In cases of FEVER AND AGUE,
preparatory to or after taking Quinine, they almost invariably make
a speedy and permanent cure.

As specifics for the above mentioned diseases, they are Unrivalled,
and never known to fail when administered in accordance with the directions.

Their unprecedented popularity
has induced the proprietors,
FLEMING BROTHERS,
PITTSBURGH, PA.,
to dispose of their Drug business,
in which they have been successfully engaged for the last Twenty Years, and they will now give their
undivided time and attention to their manufacture. And being determined that Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills
shall continue to occupy the high position they now hold among the great remedies of the day, they will continue to spare neither time
nor expense in procuring the Best
and Purest material, and compound them in the most thorough manner. Address all orders to FLEMING BROS. Pittsburgh, Pa.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others
than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros. Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve thousand, postage stamps, or one via Express for five thousand three hundred stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers in Medicines

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alternative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alternative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:—

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS,
Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, SPITILIS AND SPITILLITIS, AF-FECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEU-RALGIA OR TO DOUGLOREUX, DEBRILIT, DYS-PERSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, RAS-
ON ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF
THE BLOOD.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, and taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many ranking disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alternative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and it is well; but with a corrupted and vitiated blood, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it,
contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quantity of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative principle whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointments has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.

NORFOLK, ss. At a meeting of the County Commissioners held at Dedham, on and for said County, on the Second day of May, A. D. 1860, by adjournment of the April meeting, next preceding.

UPON the petition of William S. Patton and another citizen of Quincy, requesting the Commissioners to lay out and widen Hancock Street, in Quincy, from a point where the Quincy Patriot Office now is, on said Hancock Street, to the junction with School Street; also to lay out and widen School Street, from said junction of Hancock St. to Summer St., and make such other alterations as may be deemed expedient, (not having been first given to all persons and corporations interested,) the County Commissioners met at the Town Hall, in Quincy, on the 21st day of Nov. last, at 10 A. M., and there proceeded and viewed the route and heard all persons and corporations interested, and said case was continued and adjourned to the 29th day of December, and hence to the April meeting and to this meeting, and said Commissioners adjudge that the public necessity and convenience require that alterations be made in said highway by widening on lands of Rogers and Mitchell and near the junction of Hancock and School Streets only.

NATHANIEL P. SAFFORD, Chairman.

On the Adjudication aforesaid, Ordered, that the County Commissioners will meet at the Town Hall, in Quincy, in said County, on THURSDAY, the Twenty-first day of JUNE next, at ten o'clock A. M., and proceed to locate said road,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Miscellaneous.

The Family Plate.

A family party was gathered round a fire-a leaping, roaring, jovial coal fire—and indulging in the orthodox amusement of story telling. We had an ancient housekeeper among us, who had known some of us ever since we were born, and the papas and mammas of many others of us a long time before we were born.

Ah! remarked this ancient dame, when one of our stories—I think it was a ghost story—had come to a conclusion; it's all very easy to talk, but I suppose there are other persons who have seen strange things, aye, and can tell strange things about 'em, too, Oh, yes, indeed! It wasn't for nothing, perfid and flippant as you are, that I lived seven years and three months in the service of my Lord Millamant.

I knew his lordship well, I observed, gravely; that is, I have seen his portrait in the print shops, and read of his achievements in the newspapers when I was a boy. He ran away with and married Miss Jaghire, the great Indian heiress, didn't he?

Yes, sir, he did.
He killed Sir Hargreaves Grimwood, the west country Baronet, in a duel about Lady Grimwood, didn't he? I remember his trial and acquittal, as though they had occurred yesterday.

Yes, sir, he did; but he was badly provoked. Sir Hargreaves was a bad man; lived at the Brimstone Coffee House, and always drank a pint of Scheidam before breakfast. He wasn't the first tall gentleman who had been shot about Lady Grim-wood.

And he died ambassador at Madrid, didn't he?

Yes, sir; but that was long ago after I left his service. It is full forty years ago that I was housekeeper to the Right Honorable the Earl of Millamant, Lord Lieutenant of Dar-shire, and Colonel of the Berkshire Yeomanry Cavalry, at Cartfool House, Hay Hill, Berkley Square.

The housekeeper nodded significantly.

Ah, well, continued she, I see you're all dying of curiosity to know about it, and I won't keep you any longer in suspense. Besides, the story's a very short one. It was hushed up at the time, and it would have been much more to my place was worth to breathe a word of it to a living soul. But the chief people concerned in it are all dead.
The very dog was poisoned with two ounces of poisoned meat by the butcher the day afterwards, as if—poor dumb creature!— he could have wagged a tail to compromise anybody. Just draw your chairs closer around me, for I am not very long of breath.

We did as the old lady desired, and she went on thus:

In the year eighteen hundred and nineteen, I was, as I have told you, housekeeper to my Lord Millamant. The story I am telling you has to do with the winter of that same year. A bitter winter it was. Frosts three weeks long, and a deluge of mud whenever there was a thaw. Coals, bread and meat frightfully dear. The poor crying out fit to make your heart bleed, and the taxes as heavy as hard dumplings. Our taxes were paid for us, thank goodness, even to that on the hair-powder with which the footmen plastered their heads. We were all well fed and cared for; for my Lord Millamant was far too proud and rich a nobleman to put us on board wages when he went out of the town, and always said that he liked to see his servants plump and rosy. It didn't matter to him how much the butcher and baker's bill came to. He had immense estates in Darshire, and two or three comfortable things they used to call sinecures in those days; besides, wasn't there his wife—
the late Miss Jaghire's rich Indian fortune.

My Lord Millamant had been away from London during the hunting season. He had a pack of hounds at Cartfool Hall, (the family name was Cartfool) Darshire, and had been entertaining all the gentry of the county side, with many of the nobility from London, in the true style of old English hospitality. All the grand furniture in the mansion on Hay Hill had been covered up since September, when his Lordship and her Lady-ship went out of town. The carpets in the grand saloons were rolled up, the chan-delliers wrapped in yellow gauze; the picture of the same—dreadful grim old pictures they were, of noblemen in curly wigs, and ladies in hoop petticoats and shockingly low dresses; and the rich silver and parcel gilt plate of which my Lord Millamant, being so great a nobleman, had a vast quantity, was safe and sound in four oak chests, clamped with iron, at Messrs Doubton & Moydore's, the bankers, in Fleet street. It was a good plan to send one's silver to the bankers, for there were plenty of housebreakers about in those days, and no police except the wheezy old constables, and the Bow street red waistcoats.

It was on the 21st of December, 1819, that your humble servant received a post letter, franked by Mr. Tubwell, one of the county members for Darshire, for my Lord Millamant was always too generous with his franks, and never had any to spare for himself. The letter was from his Lordship, in his usual kind style, though to my very great surprise, he told me that he and the Countess were coming up to spend Christmas in London. All the time I had been in their service, then four years come that Christmas day, they had kept it at Cartfool Hall. However, there was no mistaking my Lord's directions. He always gave them himself; her Ladyship, saving her memory, was one of the laziest creatures living, and never did anything much beyond lying on a sofa, and talking to her green and her grey parrots. I was to have the carpets laid down, the furniture thoroughly dusted, all the beds well aired—for my Lord was to bring company with him from Darshire; and I was to get the plate from the bankers and have it all well cleaned for a grand banquet my Lord intended to give on Christmas day. Enclosed in the letter was a slip of paper, containing an order to the bankers to deliver the plate to me, or to Mr. Boeswing, the butler; and which, as far as I can recollect ran thus:

"CARTFOOL HALL, Dec. 19, 1819.
Messrs. Doubton & Moydore.—Please deliver the four boxes marked A, B, C, D, containing the plate left in your charge, to Mrs. ———, or Samuel Boeswing, my servants, bearers of this."

There was his Lordship's signature, certainly; but somehow the name seemed written in a larger and more tremulous hand than usual. The 's' weren't dotted, nor the 't's crossed in his Lordship's general style, but still the remainder of the letter was like enough to him, and the cover bore the Cart-fool post mark. I showed it to Mr. Boes-wing, who laughed at my doubts, could swear the handwriting was my Lord's throughout, and said it was very likely that there had been a mistake in the delivery of the plate, and that the boxes were at Cartfool Hall rather shaky the next morning.

And you may be sure, added Boeswing, that his Lordship punished the small beer, if he did have 'trotter bottle. The quality drank small beer then, the morning after.
Soda water was invented, but was thought bad for the stomach, and wasn't at all the fashion.

However, notwithstanding Boeswing's confidence in the letter, I wasn't quite satisfied.
I daren't it's very nervous and silly of me.
Boeswing, I said, but it behooves us all to be careful. I shall take this letter to Wild Mr.
Will. He knows my Lord's hand well enough, and I shall see what he says to it.

Now, Wild Mr. Will, as we servants, many of whom had known him since he was a baby in long clothes, called him, was to the world in general, no other than the Honorable William Cartfool, my Lord's younger brother. He was a dreadfully wild young man, Mr. Will. He was fond of wine and women, and dice, and all sorts of wickedness. He had been a captain in the Horse Guards, but had sold out. He had fought scores of duels, and killed two or three people; rest their souls, and be merciful to his;
but he was one of the merriest, best tempered fellows you ever knew or saw. My Lord was very fond of him, and had paid his debts and set him up again, times out of number;
but you could do nothing with wild Mr.
Will. He was always getting into scrapes;
and when his Lordship had got him out again, getting into new ones. People said he lived mostly now by playing at cards and dice, and that his carrying on with the actresses at the play house—the wicked, painted hussies!—were dreadful. I knew he had borrowed money of Boeswing more than once, and had, at least, two-thirds of his sister-in-law's pin money, every quarter; but still no one could help liking him, and he was almost adored by the servants.

I took the letter to Wild Mr. Will at his lodgings in Great Ryder street, St. James's.
He was drinking hock with a captain of dragons and a low wretch of a fellow, that got his living by prize fighting, but he came out on the landing to speak to me. I showed him the letter, and hinted at my doubts.

Stuff and nonsense, he cried, when he had read the letter twice through, and held it to the light. It's Jack Cartfool's list for five hundred guineas. (My Lord's name was John) Newmarket to the knocker of Newgate that it's my brother's hand. No body makes blots like these except the Earl of Millamant. Besides, don't you see that he spells swept, sweep, without the t. Jack never could spell. Trot you away to the banker's, my worthy soul, and get the plate, and polish it up all nice and bright, for you know how parlar my Lord Millamant is, and what a vor there will be if the coronet doesn't go well out on the spoons and forks. Trot, get along with you, and there's a guinea drink my health. Stop—mind you lock plate up in my lady's boudoir.

Of cos, after the Honorable William Cartfool'd given his opinion, hesitation was no ger to be thought of. Boeswing and I took a hackney coach to Fleet Street, at the head cashier, when he ordered one on porters to carry the four plate chests to the carriage, said, My Lord's hand writing is as plain as a pikestaff, and he should be to cash a cheque for ten thousand with such a "Millamant" signed to it. He gave mesuch a nice gentleman as he was too—a gna to drink the health of the firm Ah! the liberal people were forty years ago.

We locked over the plate that evening, counted everything, found all in accordance with the chests, and with the assistance of the three housemaids, I had everything cleaned and polished up by supper time. But still I felt uneasy; I could not repress a dreadful feeling of terror at something; I knew not what. The plate was all locked up again, and deposited, according to Mr. Will's directions, in my Lady's boudoir, which was at the end of a grand suite of apartments on the first floor. There was no door to this room, only heavy hangings to the doorway; but every window in the house was bolted and barred up.

Still, felt uneasy, and, towards ten o'clock,
I slipped out, and going to our butcher, Mr.
Clubb, Chop, in Mount Street, Grosvenor Square, I borrowed his well-known and fierce bull dog, Cowler, from him, to keep guard in the house all night. One of the butcher's boys brought the dog muzzled to our house, for he was dreadfully savage, and just before we went to bed, Boeswing unmuzzled him, and let him loose in the hall.

I had dreadful dreams that night. I dreamed of a procession of men carrying coffins, one after the other in a long procession that never ended. The morning came at last;
the young Mr. Boeswing, trembling all down the stairs with a face as white as chalk.

For the Lord Almighty's sake, come this way, he said.

He led, or rather dragged me to the bouoir on the first floor, and there I saw a sight I shall never to my dying day forget. The rich carpet was dabbled in blood, and on it there lay his length along the body of a man, stark, stiff, and dead. His throat had been literally torn out by the dog, which crouched by his side, uttering a low growl now and then, and licking his lips.

In one of the dead man's hands was a bunch of skeleton keys. One of the plate chests had been opened, and a portion of the contents were on the floor. The men-servants bent over the body to raise it, but there was a cry of horror and astonishment.

God forgive him, and us all! we recognized the body of Honorable William Cart-fool.

It was discovered afterwards that the letter from the country was a forgery, executed, probably, by the unfortunate and guilty man, who had died in this miserable manner. It was found that he had made his entry by a back door leading into the Mews, of which he must have had a key, and creeping up a side door he knew well, had been heard by the dog, and so perished.

The story was hushed up, and it was reported and believed that young Mr. Will had gone abroad and died there. The Millamant title is extinct.

Deaf all Round.

In olden times, before the Maine Laws were invented, Wing kept a hotel at Middle Granville, and from his well-stocked bar furnished "accommodations to man and beast." He was a good old landlord, but was terribly deaf. Fish, the village painter, was afflicted in the same way. One day they were sitting by themselves in the bar room.

Wing was behind the counter, waiting for the next customer, while Fish was lounging before the fire with a thirsty look, casting sheep's eyes occasionally at Wing's decanters, and wishing most devoutly that some one would come in and treat. A traveller from the South, on his way to Brandon, stepped in to inquire the distance. Going up to the counter, he said: Can you tell me, sir, how far it is to Brandon? Brandy, said the ready landlord, jumping up; yes, sir, I have some, at the same time handing down a decanner of the precious liquid. You misunderstand me, says the stranger; I asked how far it was to Brandon. They call it pretty good brandy, says Wing. Will you take sugar with it? reaching as he spoke, for the bowl and toddy stick. The despairing traveller turned to Fish. The landlord, said he, seems to be deaf; will you tell me how far it is to Brandon? Thank you, said Fish; I don't care if I do take a drink with you! The stranger treated and fled.

Superstition of "Ye Older Time"

1. Whoever reads epitaphs, loses his memory.

2. Yarn spun by a girl under the age of seven years, possesses extraordinary virtues.
Linen made of it furnishes the best bandages for gouty patients, and when wrought into garments, forms a complete coat of mail, not only against bullet and dagger, but even against the more formidable operations of witchcraft. Nay the very yarn itself can be wound into unerring musket balls.

3. When a mouse gnaws a gown some misfortune may be apprehended.

4. When a stranger enters the room, he should be obliged to seat himself, were it only for a moment, as he otherwise takes away the children's sleep with him.

5. The crowing of a hen indicates some approaching disaster.

6. Whoever sneezes at an early hour, either hears some news, or receives some present the same day.

7. Women who sow flax-seed, should, during the process, tell some confounded lies;
otherwise the yarn will never bleach white.
(Q. Is this the origin of the phrase WHITE LIES?)

8. Beggars' bread should be given to children who are slow in learning to speak.

9. When women are stuffing beds, the men should not remain in the house; otherwise the feathers will come through the ticks.

10. To rock a cradle when empty is injurious to the child.

11. If a child less than twelve months old

Brandy and Health.

A glass of brandy can't hurt anybody.—
Why I know a person, yonder he is now, on high exchange, a specimen of manly beauty, a portly six-footer. He has the bearing of a prince, for he is one of our merchant princes. His face wears the hue of health, and, at the age of forty, he has the quick, elastic step of our young man of twenty-five

The newspaper has become an established and independent institution, and a man or woman who would attempt in this age to get along without it, would be deemed a fit subject for an asylum or the penitentiary.—The Monthly Printer.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, May 12th, 1860.

Town Meetings.

At the meetings on Monday last the attendance was small. For the following report of the doings we are indebted to our prompt and obliging Town Clerk, George L. Galt, Esq.

The vote on the Constitutional Amendments was as follows:

First Amendment, Yes, 23—No, 17.
Second Amendment, Yes, 22—No, 17.

At the second meeting Wm. S. Morton, Esq., was chosen Moderator.

Referred the subject of the Crossway at Squantum to the Selectmen.

The subject of the road from Hough's Neck to Great Hill was indefinitely postponed. Also the matter of a new School House in the East District.

Voted—That the Selectmen be a Committee to furnish a good well for the use of the School in the East District.

Voted—To adopt the following By Law, and the Selectmen be instructed to present the same to the Superior Court for approval:

By Law. No cattle or other animals shall be pastured upon any street or way in the Town of Quincy, either with or without a keeper, under a penalty of Five Dollars for each violation thereof, provided this By Law shall not affect the right of any person or persons to the use of land within the limits of such way adjoining his own premises.

Daniel Baxter, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, informed the Town that an action had been commenced against the Town by Mrs. Hannah K. French, for damages in the matter of land bought for the present location of the Town House, but as said action would not be brought to trial before the September term of Court, there would be time for the Town to take measures concerning it.

Meeting was dissolved.

APPOINTMENT. We learn that Dr. J. A. Stearns, of this town, has been appointed by the Massachusetts Medical Society, a Delegate to the meeting of the American Medical Association to be held in New Haven, Conn., Tuesday, June 5th, 1860.

COURT MATTERS. The April term of the Superior Court, Chief Justice Allen presiding, commenced its regular Session at Dedham, on the 24th ult. The several Jurors were empaneled, Jacob F. Eaton of this town, being Foreman of the Grand Jury. Bartholomew Bryant and Samuel E. Johnson are members of the Petit Jury from this town.

The trial of civil actions commenced with the case of Isaiah P. White of Quincy, vs. the Inhabitants of Dorchester. This suit it will be remembered was tried at the December Term, resulting, after a three days trial, in the disagreement of the jury; it being understood that they were equally divided.

The plaintiff sued to recover damages of the town of Dorchester, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, for injuries sustained by him on the 7th of October, 1857, in consequence of alleged defects in or upon the bridge on Commercial Street, near Commercial Point in that town. The plaintiff in returning from Boston to his home in Quincy, alleged that in crossing the bridge, his cart struck against a plank presenting a square edge of several inches, and then dropped suddenly into a hole that had been worn between the end of the bridge and the gravelled road, by which he was partly thrown from his seat, and his foot slipping between the foot-board and the horse, he received a kick, causing a compound fracture of the leg, thereby rendering him permanently lame, and unable to pursue his business as before the accident.

On this second hearing, witnesses were examined from this town, Weymouth, Hingham, and Dorchester, the case occupying several days, and the jury, after being out many hours, were unable to agree upon a verdict. They are understood to have divided four for the plaintiff to eight for the town.

Among the many new advertisements which we place before our lady readers, there is none which we take more pleasure in recommending to their notice than Wether's Bonnet Establishment, 20 Hanover Street, Boston. As its stock of Millinery is complete, and as some of our lady readers say, it is the best place in the City to trade, if good stock, low prices, lady-like treatment, and an obliging disposition on the part of the tenders, have any thing to do with it. Therefore, we say, read the notice, and then go.

Boston Correspondence.

Boston, May 10, 1860.

Any number of Presidential Conventions.—The Candidates.—Judge Douglas—Boston Herald—Congress—Hon. C. F. Adams. Home Matters.—Business apathetic.

The present is a great advent for National Conventions, and the public mind is fully awakened on the matter. Prominent politicians are figuring nicely. First came off the Charleston Convention, whose finale at least in the Palmetto State we are familiar. Next, the Union Constitutional Convention, now in session at Baltimore, and very buoyant in action. On Wednesday next, the Republican Convention at Chicago; besides the adjourned Conventions made at Charleston to Richmond and Baltimore in June; even another is contemplated in September, to start if possible a new ticket, that will outstrip all others in the field. Thus is President making going on with a vengeance. To what are we as voters coming, and how shall we know our identity at the ballot boxes in November next?

Certainly the great fountains of political party are broken up, and every voter will be at liberty to go where he pleases. From present appearances Mr. Douglas will be nominated on the 18th of June. The seconds at Richmond is thought will take Jefferson Davis. Mr. Seward's chance at Chicago is the best; and the Union Convention bids fair to take up Sam Houston, of Texas; thus bringing four candidates in the field. In this event, there will probably be no choice by the people—the election will go to the House of Representatives, and then comes the "tug of war." General Houston if nominated will be sustained by the American party; who, if they turn to their first love in Massachusetts will give him a respectable vote, and we shall see strange comers here at the next election. Even our present State Government is in danger of losing its ascendancy. Mr. Seward, if selected, is sure of most of the New England States and New York. Further than this, his friends cannot reckon with any degree of certainty. Mr. Douglas, whose ultimate nomination is conceded, will sweep all the Western and most of the Southern States, and perhaps most of the middle States, and his chances are the best by all odds. His friends, whose number is legion, are not discouraged, believing the "Second sober thought" of the people will make all things right.

THE PARKER HOUSE, BOSTON. The extension of this deservedly popular house, will be completed within a few months, thus rendering it one of the most desirable hotels in the city. The long experience of Mr. Parker, and in particular his personal attention to guests, have given him a fame which secures hosts of patrons to enjoy his comforts and luxuries.

NOTICE TO THE SICK. Dr. Ado Wiedemann informs us that he shall soon visit this town, and tarry for a period as the nature of applications may require his presence. The Dr. was highly recommended to us several years ago, when he contemplated leaving here. Special notice will be given of the day of his arrival. Consultations free of charge.

TO THE GENTLEMEN. It is prevalent at this season of the year for our ladies to want money, so as to go to the city and purchase goods. Now, Gentlemen, we propose to you a way to save money, please you, and be happy yourselves—and truly these are very important items. Call on our much respected merchant, Caleb Packard, and select from his unusually large, rich, and well-assorted stock of Spring and Summer Goods, a beautiful dress pattern, or other useful articles, and make your wives a present. It will save money, make them happy and you too.

SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME. If we can judge from the many notices we have seen of this fertilizer, we would invite the farmers and horticulturists to make extensive use of it, believing it will return them two-fold. In answer to many inquiries respecting the value of Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime as a manure, Henry Grey, Esq., of Dorchester, makes the following reply:—

I have made use of it in various ways, for several years, and have reason to think it a profitable manure. I have applied it broadcast on soil prepared for rye and grass seed, harrowing it in before sowing the seed. I have also used it as a top dressing for grass land, and have put it in the hills with corn, without any other manure, and have raised good crops.

This excellent article can be purchased of John A. Wood, the only agent for the sale of it in this town.

It may interest those who have purchases to make in Dry Goods this spring, to know where the best selection may be made, and at the same time most advantageous to their pockets. To such, we would refer to the advertisement in another column of our paper, of Messrs. Noy & McClure, No. 9 Tremont Row, Boston.

LIVER COMPLAINT. A lady of our acquaintance, Mrs. Powell, No. 18 Stanton street, New York, was troubled with liver complaint for a long time, and after trying many remedies, was advised to try Dr. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. She did so, and says that with one box she was effectually cured.

Indigestion, stoppage of the bowels, costiveness, and general irregularity of the bowels, are all diseases originating in the same prolific cause, as is also that dreadful scourge, DYSPEPSIA. Those that are afflicted with any of the above enumerated diseases, may rest assured that the source of all their maladies is in the liver, and for its correction the best remedy ever offered to the public is Dr. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. Try them. The money refunded if not satisfactory.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. McLane's celebrated Liver Pills, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Liver Pills in comparison are worthless. Dr. McLane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

NORFOLK COUNTY COURT.

The Dedham Gazette says that the Co. Commissioners have finally concluded to enlarge the present Court House in town, instead of erecting a new building on the site of land recently purchased for that purpose.

It is proposed to carry the present front of the Court House twenty-five feet further towards the street, and near the end of the building to construct two wings of about forty feet square, the material to be of stone, quarried from the same place from which the stone was obtained for the present building, the whole edifice to be surmounted by a dome.

Gridley J. P. Bryant of Boston, he architect of the enlargement, and plans for making the alterations in accordance with his plans have already been given.

Massachusetts pays more postage than any state on a same size in the Union.

TRAVEL TO NEW YORK CITY. V. S. notice that the magnificent steamer Morrell, of the Fall River Line, which has been thoroughly overhauled during the past winter, has resumed her place on that route, its boat is a perfect model in all its arrangements, and moreover, is commanded by an experienced and courteous gentleman, William Brown, Esq., a veteran in nautical skill. For safety, pleasure and expedition, this route enjoys great popularity, and all who partake of its scenes and comforts, speak always in pre-eminence praise.

THE PARKER HOUSE, BOSTON. The extension of this deservedly popular house, will be completed within a few months, thus rendering it one of the most desirable hotels in the city. The long experience of Mr. Parker, and in particular his personal attention to guests, have given him a fame which secures hosts of patrons to enjoy his comforts and luxuries.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A child recently born in Vermont is the son of seven fathers and six mothers, all living—to wit: one father, two grandfathers, and four great grandfathers; one mother, two grandmothers, and three great grandmothers.

England and Wales produce twenty-six millions of sheep, while in the whole territory of the United States we have but twenty-one millions.

The sheriff of Lafayette, Indiana, recently took a young fellow to the lunatic asylum, from that place, who is remarkably handsome, and whose insanity is believed to have been produced by a morbid development of his intellect.

There is in England an excess of eight hundred thousand females over males. The disparity is caused by the wars and standing armies, by the drain of men for the merchant and naval marine, and by the greater number of males who emigrate to the Colonies and to the United States.

New York has voted alternately for the Democratic and Opposition candidates for the Presidency, for the past twenty years, viz: Van Buren in 1836, Gen. Harrison in 1840, Polk in 1844, Taylor in 1848, Pierce in 1852, Fremont in 1856; and if consistent in her inconsistency, will vote for the Democratic candidate in 1860.

In Saxony, not larger than Connecticut and Rhode Island, there are three million six hundred thousand sheep.

The Gothamites have become such inveterate frog-eaters that an enterprising citizen of New Jersey has prepared ponds for propagating frogs for the table. The epicures of New York city appreciate good living.

One fifth of the entire sum raised by taxation for public schools in the United States is paid by Massachusetts.

The New York papers state that the value of the street dirt produced annually in the city, is over one hundred thousand dollars.

The whole value of buildings now erecting in New York city, is estimated at four million four hundred sixty-four thousand three hundred dollars, which is a falling off of one million six thousand seven hundred dollars, in comparison with the corresponding period of last year.

The Albany, (N. Y.) Journal says that a young man who is about eighteen years of age, and now confined in the Penitentiary, makes daily forty-three pairs of breeches with apparent ease. The person who saw him on the bench at work, says that he appeared to blow the pegs from his mouth into the shoe, and never made a miss while he was looking at him. (H.) has sold, on an average, three thousand tons of hay a year, besides keeping enough to support a very large stock.

Hayti, the only colored nation known to the civilized world, has subscribed nearly twenty-five thousand dollars in specie, for the family of "Old John Brown."

James K. Paulding, well known in the earlier American literature of the century as a novelist, and later as a politician, died recently at his residence at Hyde Park, on the Hudson River (N. Y.) Paulding was associated with Irving in writing "Satanstoe," and as a satirical and humorous delineator of American life and character was once very popular.

A CARD TO THE LADIES. Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females. One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the first ladies of New London," who has used them says, she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Mrs. E. Hayden, sole agent for Quincy.

Ladies by sending her $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail. WEEKS & POTTER, 154 Washington Street, Boston, wholesale agents. S. D. HOWE, Proprietor, N. Y. Quincy, Nov. 19th, 1859.

Itch, Syphilis and Syphilitic Affections, Mercurial Disease, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Toothache, Dermatitis, Dyspepsia and Indigestion, Erysipelas, Rose and Anthrax, and indeed the whole of complaints arising from IMPURITY of blood.

Compound will be found a great producer of health, when taken in the spring, to the food humors which fester in the blood that season of the year. By the time of them many rankling disorders are in the blood. Multitudes can, by of this remedy, spare themselves the expense of foul eruptions and ulcersous sores which the system will strive to get rid of, if not assisted to do through the natural channels of the body through the skin in eruptions, which cleanse it when you find it is obscured in the blood, cleanse it if it is foul, and your feelings will tell you. Even where no particular disorder people enjoy better health, and live longer for cleansing the blood. Keep the system healthy, and all is well with this of life disorders, there can be no health. Sooner or later something will go wrong, and the great machinery of suffered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But it has been egregiously deceived by the use of it, partly because the drug is not all the virtues which are claimed and partly because many preparations are made to be concentrated extracts of it, but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, being lost.

For many years the public have been misled by late years, pretending to give a quart of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most have been frauds upon the sick, for they only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, and often no curative properties whatsoever, but are merely a bitter and painful disappointment. The use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the sick is justly disappointed, and has become suspicious with imposture and cheat. Still this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend such a remedy as shall rescue the suffering from the load of obloquy which rests on it. And we think we have ground for it in its virtues, which are irreproachable in the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete cure from the system, the remedy should be taken according to directions on the bottle.

Dr. Sarsaparilla is itself such a renowned for the cure of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is unnecessary for us to recount the virtues of its virtues, wherever it has been employed it has long been in constant use.
In this season, we need not do more than people its quality is kept up to the best level, and that it may be relied on for relief all it has ever been found to do.

Poetry.

The Music of Nature.

There's music in the rivulet,
And music in the flood;
Ac music in the waterfall
That echoes from the wood.

There's music in the sunny grove,
And music in the rain;
Quick pattering on the forest boughs,
And all is bright again.

There's music on the upland slope,
And music down the dell;
The lowing herds, the bleating fold,
Its pretty tinkling bell.

There's music in the joy of birds,
And in the hum of bees;
And music in the waving corn
Danced over by the breeze.

There's music in the ocean-stream,
When foamy billows roar;
And music when the ripples peacefully
It seems to trip the shore.

There's music in the stillly eve,
And in the hush of night;
And music in the rising morn,
And when the noon is bright.

There's music in the voice of love,
And joy that others share;
And in the voice of gratitude,
And in the voice of prayer.

On me, oh God! thy grace impart;
To prize what thou hast given;
Teach me to ponder what thou art,
At early dawn and even.

The music of a grateful heart,
The music heard in heaven.

Love, Honor and Obey.

Promise to love! Why woman thinks
To love a privilege, not a task;
If thou wilt truly take my heart
And keep it, this is all I ask.

Honor thee! Yes, if thou wilt live
A life of truth and purity,
When I have seen thy worthiness,
I cannot choose but honor thee.

Obedy! When I have fully learned
Each want and wish to understand,
I'll learn the wisdom to obey,
If thou hast wisdom to command.

So, if I fail to live with thee
In duty, love and loveliness,
The Nature's fault, or time or both;
The greater must control the less.

The Life Paths.

Two paths lie open at our feet,
Two ways to walk are given;
The one path is the downward road,
The other leads to heaven.

In one, false flowers conceal the thorns,
By sowing feet 'tis trod;
The other is the narrow way,
And leads the soul to God.

Earth's many joys allure the soul,
But are as fleeting breaths,
And ever o'er the downward road,
There falls the shade of death.

The other path is always bright,
Cheered by a Saviour's love,
It wins the soul from earthly cares,
And leads to joys above.

'Tis ours to choose the way to walk,
The narrow or the broad,
We either go the downward road,
Or learn the way to God.

O may we seek the better way,
By God so freely given;
And leave the broad, the downward path,
And take the road to heaven.

Baby Sixty.

Baby sixty claps its hands,
Laughing baby sixty.
Who will lead it through the lands?
Joyous baby sixty.

Innocent the look he wears,
Child-like, baby sixty!
Little dreams of coming cares,
Gleeful baby sixty.

Tiny feet, white hands so small,
Winsome baby sixty.
God will keep him safe through all,
This wee baby sixty.

Anecdotes.

Which is the heaviest, asked one man of another, a quart of gin or a quart of water?
Gin, most assuredly, for I saw a man who weighed two hundred pounds staggering under a quart of gin, when he would have carried a gallon of water with ease.

My dear, said an affectionate mother to her son, who resided at a distance, and expected in a short time to be married, you are getting thin. Yes, mother, he replied, I am—when I come next I think you may see my rib.

I wish I could be cured of lying in bed so late in the morning, said a lazy husband, lounging upon his pillow.
Well, I'll try the water cure, said his wife, pouring a bucket full on him.

You sat, exclaimed a poor woman to her husband, you are always late, while I am at home with nothing to drink but cold water.
Cold! you silly jade! why don't you warm it?

Bob, is that dog of your'n a pointer?
No, he's half hunter and half setter; he hunts for bones when he's hungry, and sets by the stove when he's satisfied.

A person who was afflicted with a very bad humor, told another that he had begun to turn to a fish.

Well, said the other, I always knew you to be a plucky scaly fellow, and now you acknowledge it.

Hall's Great SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It acts directly upon the primary cause of diseases, regulating the Bowels, removing all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and correcting tone to the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of Lassitude which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renovates and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Indurated Rheumatism, Liver Sores, White Swelling, Dropsy, Bony, Bather's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and other diseases peculiar to Females, such as Weakness and Pain in the Back, Strangury, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

Made and sold by WM. SMITH HALL, Sole Proprietor, Quincy, Mass., to whom all orders must be addressed. Sold also by Redding & Co., 8 State Street, Geo. C. Johnson, No. 29 Union Street, Boston, and all Druggists and Medicine Dealers throughout the United States.

PACKARD'S
Great Regenerator for the HUMAN HAIR.

It is now too well known to need any further recommendation from any source. It is so entirely of hair, and creolines, I will publish the following testimony.

Harrison Sq., Dorchester, Mar. 30, 1859.
MR. PACKARD—SIR—I have given your Regenerator a fair trial and find it all you claim for it. My hair was very gray; it is now restored to perfect color. All the humor is removed from the scalp. In short, I have now a perfect head of hair. I am willing to go before any Justice of the Peace and make oath to the above, if you wish it.

What it has done for him it will do for every body that will use it.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, May 26th, 1860.

BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SET ARE WE.

SAD ACCIDENT. An interesting daughter of Mr. Lemuel Phillips, about thirteen years of age, residing at Quincy Neck, was instantly killed on Tuesday last. It appears that she went into the barn to search for pigeons, and had ascended the hay loft when she was precipitated a distance of ten feet upon her head, probably breaking the neck.

ROGUES AMONG OFFICERS. Some of the Boston police have been detected in robberies, and one made a confession implicating others. Several policemen have been discharged, three suspended, and others held for further examination.

PRESENTATION. Russ. B. Walker, Professor of dancing, was made the recipient of a massive gold-headed cane, a few evenings since, by a class under his tuition in this town, as an appreciation of his talents and courtesy during the course. Few instructors excel Professor W. in this pleasant and healthful branch of recreation, and his ease and urbanity makes him extremely popular with pupils and the public.

THE SAILOR'S SING HARBOR. We see it stated, that in view of the desirability of placing the Sailor's Sing Harbor, at Germantown, in this place, upon a sure and lasting foundation, and to enable the Trustees to receive the full number of persons for whom there are now ample accommodations, it has been thought advisable to have a fair in the Music Hall, in Boston, sometime the ensuing Autumn for the purpose of raising the required funds.

CHICAGO CONVENTION. The Republican Convention at Chicago, last week, was presided over by Hon. George Ashmun of this State. Twenty-four States and Territories were represented, and also the District of Columbia. Hon. Abraham Lincoln, of Illinois, was nominated on the third ballot as a candidate for President, and Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, now a Senator in Congress, received on the second ballot the nomination for Vice President. Both selections were then declared the unanimous choice of the Convention.

DISTINGUISHED FOREIGN VISITORS. The Japanese Embassy, consisting of twenty officials and fifty-one servants, have reached this country and are now at Washington city. They have brought "fifteen boxes" of valuable presents to the President, and a number of dollars in specie to expend in the purchase of "Yankee notions," and copy of a treaty with Uncle Sam, to be signed by the President. Some of their names are nearly a yard long, and dangerous to pronounce. It is said that the whole company look as though they had been cast in one mould, and are beautiful after their fashion. They will visit New York city, probably Boston, and other places before they leave for home.

DEATH OF "PETER PARLEY." Samuel Goodrich, known everywhere by his assumed name "Peter Parley," died suddenly in New York city, on the 9th inst., in the sixty-seventh year of his age. The world is indebted to the genius of Mr. Goodrich for a series of the most gracefully written, interesting and attractive juvenile books in the English language. As he has passed away, and friendship drops a tear to his memory. But Peter Parley will live forever. He is immortal, and children will continue to gather around the chair of the smiling old man as he tells stories of his travels and adventures.

Mr. G. was a member of the Senate of this State from Norfolk County, and under President Fillmore, was Consul at Paris. We enjoyed his acquaintance for a quarter of a century and highly prized his society. He has been a valued contributor to the columns of the Patriot.

A VETERAN CORONER. One of the Reporters of the Boston Traveller alludes to an old friend in the following merited terms:

"Coroner Silas Binney, who has charge of the investigation in the Weymouth poisoning case, was appointed in 1828, and has therefore held the office thirty-two years. During that time he has had about fifteen cases, or a little less than one in two years. He is a model specimen of a 'fine old country gentleman,' and though apparently in the 'prime of life,' can still be ranked as one of the 'olden school.'"

IMPORTANT DECISION. The Supreme Court of this State has decided that, in the highway, the right of passage belongs to the public; but the title to the soil, stones, wood and grass continue to the owner of the land. A person has no more right to pasture his cattle on the highway than he has to pasture them in the field of farmers, and is equally liable in an action for damages.

Boston Correspondence

BOSTON, MAY 24, 1860.

The Season.—Trade.—European Finances.—California.—Amusements of next week.—Extra Session of the Legislature.—The Pleuro Pneumonia.—Public Alarm.

The vernal weather is beautiful, and the refreshing rains of the week have made dame Nature put on her robe of most gorgeous hues, as exhibited in the floral world. Our city is lively and pleasant; but to lovers of Nature, the suburbs now present a more charming appearance. The old adage still holds true, that "God made the country, but man the city." In the business community there is no reaction; and the present year bids fair to be chronicled as one of remarkable dulness in most kinds of enterprise.

There is one redeeming feature in the general category of trade; no failures have occurred in our business circles for two months past, of any consequence. Money on good paper continues easy of access, and bank accommodations are all that the mercantile circles could wish. There is but little present danger of a drain of specie by exportation, as money is very plenty in Europe, and the rates of discount there on a descending scale. Large quantities of gold are continually pouring into England from Australia. Specie is abundant there.

Our latest California advices are not very encouraging for trade. By reason of the great influx of population, business is overdone there, producing disastrous competition in prices and for labor.

The next week promises to be very animated in Boston, by reason of the anniversary, and probably the Extra Session of the Legislature, which Governor Banks is constrained to call in consequence of the alarming progress in our Commonwealth of the cattle disease, called pleuro pneumonia, or inflammation of the pleura and lungs of horned cattle. Its supposed ravages are spreading consternation among the farmers. The cattle market is becoming a drag, every body being willing to sell, but no buyers. It is now thought there is a depreciation of fifty per cent. on the prices of cattle compared with the past year. With many, the luxury of beef is shunned as an article of food, by fear of the contaminating influence of this disease, and by some fastidious persons, the universally used article of milk, is in part dispensed with. If this panic continues, and the disease spreads, butchers and dealers in milk will be serious sufferers. Further investigation will give more light on this highly infectious disease, and it may lead to the discovery of some remedial agent. As yet, however, it is known to be dangerous, and keeping those that are healthy, isolated, are the only measures used to stay the progress of this malady.

The evening papers state that the Commissioners are slaughtering cattle effected with this disease at Pelham and Hubbardston, and are investigating cases supposed to be effected as near to us as Malden. Thus, it is too evident that the epidemic is approaching us.

THE WEYMOUTH TRAGEDY. The Coroner's Jury in the case of Miss Betsey Corners Tirrell, the last daughter who died, concluded their investigations last Monday, in a verdict:

"That the deceased came to her death from the effects of strychnine administered by some party or parties to the jury unknown."

The body of Miss Mary Tirrell, the first daughter deceased, in January last, has been exhumed, and the jury have the cause of her death still under consideration. They will probably render a verdict this day, at their adjourned session.

The examination of George C. Hersey, who is supposed to be concerned in their deaths, has been postponed to the 31st inst., and will take place at Weymouth.

DEATH OF AN EX-CONGRESSMAN. Hon. Wm. S. Darnell, member of Congress for four years from the Third District in this State, died at Dedham, on the 17th inst., after a long and painful illness. He was by trade a printer, was one of the pioneer publishers of the Boston Journal, and afterwards a member of the firm of Darnell & Moore, book and job printers of that city. He was about fifty years of age.

THE CATTLE SICKNESS. This disease continues to alarm the Massachusetts farmers, and keep the State Commissioners very busy. The State Board of Agriculture are also moving in the matter, and it is thought advisable by all parties acquainted with the facts, that an extra session of the Legislature should be called by the Governor. A petition is already in circulation to that effect.

ANIMAL INTemperance. Thomas Arey of Yarmouth, (Mass.) lost a valuable cow, recently, in consequence of her obtaining access to a barrel of meal and eating a large portion of it. She was literally "corned beef."

MILITARY. The Hancock Light Guards, will parade on Wednesday afternoon next, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band. A collection will be provided at the Hancock House. "May they have a good time."

DEDICATION AND INSTALLATION. A new edifice erected by the Trinity (Orthodox) Church and Society, at Neponset Village, (Dorchester,) was dedicated last Wednesday afternoon; the sermon on the occasion was delivered by the venerable Rev. Dr. Storrs of Braintree. The building is of wood, in imitation of red sandstone, in the Gothic style. It is neatly finished and furnished, and cost over five thousand dollars. It has an organ, costing eight hundred dollars, the gift of the ladies of the church. This chapel is lighted with gas, and will seat over three hundred persons.

In the evening, Rev. M. B. Angier, recently of Hingham, (N. H.) was installed as pastor of the Church and Society. The dedicatory sermon was by Rev. J. H. Means of Dorchester; and among the other clergymen who assisted we noticed Rev. Oliver Brown of this town.

MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE. The Governor and Executive Council of this State held a special session, Thursday afternoon last, to take into consideration the expediency of calling an extra session of the Legislature to adopt some measures to stay the ravages of the cattle disease. It was unanimously decided to convene the General Court, and accordingly a proclamation has been issued for the re-assembling of the Legislature on Wednesday, May 30th, at twelve o'clock, noon.

EXCURSION AND EXHIBITION. The annual exhibition of splendid Paintings and beautiful Statuary, consisting of over three hundred and fifty Paintings, many of them for the first time on exhibition, and a large gallery of antique and modern Statuary, is now open to visitors, at the Boston Athenaeum, on Beacon street. A special train will leave Plymouth at 10 1/2 A. M., stopping at all the principal stations between there and here, leaving Quincy 11:58 for Boston, and returning, leaving Boston at 6:15 P. M., on Tuesday next, the 29th inst. The fare to Boston and back, including a free ticket to the exhibition, is only thirty-five cents from this town. Such an opportunity is seldom offered, and undoubtedly it will be well improved.

CAKE AND BREAD. Messrs. Vinal & White, who have recently assumed the baking business in this town, have taken hold in earnest and appear determined to meet the wants of the public. Their cake and bread, especially their brown loaves, we have heard much praised, and from our own observations we think it much better than what the country have had, and moreover an abundance so that none will be turned away without the "staff of life."

FROST. Low lands in this section were visited by frost last Sunday and Tuesday nights.

DR. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS—FLEMING BROS. PROPRIETORS. This great medicine has supplanted all others for the cure of diseases of the Liver. Its effects are so salutary and speedy and at the same time so perfectly safe, that it is not surprising it should supersede all others. Invented by a very distinguished physician of Virginia who practised in a region of country in which Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint, is peculiarly formidable and common, and who had spent years in discovering the ingredients and proportioning their quantities, these Pills are peculiarly adapted to every form of the disease and never fail to alleviate the most obstinate cases of that terrible complaint. They have justly become celebrated, and the researches of Dr. M'Lane have placed his name among the benefactors of mankind. No one having symptoms of this formidable complaint should be without these invaluable Pills. Have you a pain in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, which increases on pressure—unable to lie with ease on the left side—with occasional, sometimes constant pain under the shoulder-blade, frequently extending to the top of the shoulder? Rely upon it, that although the latter pains are sometimes taken for rheumatism, they all arise from diseases of the Liver; and if you would have relief go instantly and buy a box of Dr. M'Lane's Liver Pills, prepared only by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Liver Pills, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. Pa. All other Liver Pills in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

The word ANODYNE, associated with the Tola Anodyne. With this word Anodyne all the horrors of Opium are associated, and with many the word might be objectionable. All applications whether lotions or poultices, whether plaster or liniment, that allay pain, are Anodynes. Still Opium takes a prominent place, and when it does, the experience of many is so opposed to the use of Opium, that the word Anodyne brings Opium to the mind. Let this one fact sustain the word Anodyne, when associated with that of the Celebrated Tola Anodyne, that it not only contains not a particle of Opium, but that it is an inward application. In ninety and nine of every hundred cases where an Anodyne is used, it is for outward applications, while Opium forms a part of such Anodyne, while with the Tola Anodyne it is always an inward application.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT. We are under obligations to Hon. Jefferson Davis, United States Senator from Mississippi, for a pamphlet copy of his recent able speech on the relation of States, delivered in that body on the 7th of May inst.

GODBY'S LADY'S BOOK. This great American Magazine for June, richly and abundantly freighted with its usual variety of choice literary matter, and illustrated with twenty-seven pages of excellent engravings, (eighty-nine in number), came promptly "to time," and was gladly welcomed by our "better-half" as it is by the ladies throughout the Union.

Rev. Mr. Giles of Quincy will preach in the Stone Temple to-morrow.

Ladies are invited to examine the new style of Cloth Boot, at C. Gill & Co., called the Union Boot, combining in one, all the advantages and beauty of both the Button and the Congress Boot.

RETURNED. Mr. D. D. Ring, after a short absence, has again taken up his abode with us, at the corner of Hancock and School sts. where he intends to carry on the tailoring business in all its various branches, and would be happy to receive the calls of his former friends and customers.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

Dr. Dupon's Golden Pills for Females. One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the first ladies of New London," who has used them says, she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Mrs. E. Hayden sole agent for Quincy.

Ladies by sending her $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail. WELLS & POTTER, 154 Washington Street, Boston, wholesale agents. S. D. HOWE, Proprietor, N. Y. Quincy, Nov. 10th 1850.

To Let,

A LARGE and commodious dwelling house, situated in Quincy, being the late residence of William Torrey, Esq., deceased, with a large stable, and about three acres of land, on which there are about three hundred choice apple and pear trees, a number of cherry, plum and peach trees, a large lot of grape vines, currant and raspberry bushes.

The house has recently been put in neat repair by painting and papering. The yard in front of the house is tastefully arranged with forest trees and flowers, and the land is in a high state of cultivation. The premises are in the immediate neighborhood of churches, schools, market, stores and post office, and within two minutes' walk of the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad station, affording an opportunity of going to and returning from the city at almost any hour daily, making it a desirable residence for any gentleman doing business in the city.

The whole will be let together, or the house and land separately.

Poetry.

Going Home.

"Suffer little children to come unto me; and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

They are going—only going—
Jesus called them long ago;
All the wintry time they're passing Softly as the falling snow;
When the violets in the spring-time
Catch the dews of the sky,
They are carried out to slumber,
Sweetly where the violets lie.

They are going—only going—
When with summer earth is dressed,
In their cold hands holding roses
Folded to each silent breast;
When the autumn hangs red banners
Out above the harvest sheaves,
They are going—ever going—
Thick and fast, like falling leaves.

All along the mighty ages,
All down the solemn time,
They have taken up their homeward
March to that serene climate,
Where the watching, waiting angels
Lead them from the shadow dim,
To the brightness of His presence
Who has called them unto him.

They are going—only going—
Out of pain and unto bliss—
Out of sad and sinful weakness
Into perfect holiness.
Snowy brows—no care shall shade them;
Bright eyes—tears shall never dim;
Roses lips—no time shall fade them;
Jesus called them unto him.

Little hearts forever stainless—Little hands as pure as they—Little feet as angel-guided Never a forbidden way!
They are going—ever going!
Looking down a lonely spot;
But the Jesus who has called them—
Suffer and forbid them not!

Never Say Fail

Keep pushing—'tis wiser
Than sitting aside,
And dreaming and sighing,
And waiting the tide.
In life's earnest battle,
They only prevail
Who daily march onward
And never say fail!

With an eye ever open,
A tongue that's not dumb,
And a heart that will never
To sorrow succumb;
You'll battle and conquer,
Though thousands assail;
How strong and how mighty
Who never say fail!

The spirit of angels
Are active I know,
As higher and higher
In glory they go!
In the night of bright pinions
From heaven they sail,
To cheer and encourage
Who never say fail!

Ahead, then, keep pushing,
And follow your way,
Unheeding the envious
All eyes that stray;
All obstacles that vanish,
All enemies that quail,
In the night of their wisdom
Who never say fail!

In life's rocky morning,
In midnight's full pride,
Let this be the motto
Your footsteps to guide;
In storm and in sunshine,
Whatever assail,
We'll onward and conquer,
And never say fail!

God Speed the Plow

God speed the plow-share! I tell me not Disgrace attends the toil
Of those who plow the dark green sod,
Or till the fruitful soil.
Why should the honest ploughman shrink
From mingling in the van
Of learning and of wisdom, since
'Tis mind that makes the man?

God speed the plow-share, and the hands
That till the fruitful earth,
For there is in this world so wide
No gem like honest work.
And though the hands are dark with toil,
And flushed the manly brow,
It matters not, for God will bless
The labors of the plow.

Anecdotes.

An old man once said: For a long period
I puzzled myself about the difficulties of Scripture, until at last I came to the resolution that reading the Bible was like eating fish! When I find a difficulty, I lay it aside and call it a bone! Why should I choke on the bone, when there is so much nutritious meat?

A young lady being addressed by a gentleman much older than herself, observed to him that the only objection she had to a union with him was the probability of his dying before her and leaving her to the sorrows of widowhood. To which he made the apt and delicately complimentary reply:

Blessed is the man who hath a virtuous wife, for the number of his days shall be doubled.

Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day, said an advising mother to her child.

Well, then, mamma, let us eat the mince-pie that's in the cupboard, was the child's precocious reply.

Stop that abominable noise, said a commanding officer to a horrid trumpeter in the midst of a battle; we can stand fire, but we can't stand that air!

Among all my boys, said an old man, I had but one who took after me, and that was my son Aaron who took after me with a club.

CLEANSE THE SYSTEM—PURIFY THE BLOOD.

The Best Spring & Summer Medicine

DR. L. L. LANGLEY'S

Root and Herb Bitters,

Compound of Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Yellow

Dock, Prickly Ash, Thoroughwort, Blueberry, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., all of which are so recommended as to act in concert and as sist Nature in eradicating disease.

These Bitters continue to be the most

standard, popular and reliable medicine ever discovered for the cure of Liver Complaints and all their attendants; Januaries in its worst

forms; Humors whether of the blood or skin;
all Bilious diseases and Piles; Dyspepsia; Constipation; Female Weakness, and every disease arising from Indigestion, or Sedentary habits of life; Headache; Dizziness; Piles; Heartburn; Pains in the Side, Bowels, or Back; Flatulency; Loss of Appetite, and every kindred complaint arising from Impurities of the Blood, Disordered Liver, or Disordered Stomach, to which every person is more or less subject in this climate.

The effect of this Medicine is most wonderful—it acts directly upon the bowels and

blood, by removing all obstructions from the internal organs, stimulating them into healthy action, renovating the fountains of life, purifying the blood, cleansing it from all humors, and causing it to course anew through every part of the body; restoring the invalid to health and usefulness.

DR. M'LANE'S

CELEBRATED

VERMIFUGE

AND

LIVER PILLS.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the Trade, and more especially the Physicians of the country, to two of the most popular remedies now before the public.

We refer to

Dr. Chas. M'Lane's celebrated

Vermifuge and Liver Pills.

We do not recommend them as universal Cure-alls, but simply for

what their name purports, viz.:

THE VERMIFUGE.

For expelling Worms from the human system. It has also been administered with the most satisfactory results to various Animals

subject to Worms.

THE LIVER PILLS.

For the cure of LIVER COMPLAINTS,

all BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS, SICK

HEAD-ACHE, &c. In cases of

FEVER AND AGUE,

preparatory to or after taking Quinine, they almost invariably make

a speedy and permanent cure.

As specifics for the above mentioned diseases, they are Unrivaled, and never known to fail when administered in accordance with the directions.

Their unprecedented popularity

has induced the proprietors,

FLEMING BROTHERS,

PITTSBURGH, PA.

to dispose of their Drug business,

in which they have been successfully engaged for the last Twenty

Years, and they will now give their

undivided time and attention to their manufacture. And being determined that Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills

shall continue to occupy the high

position they now hold among the

great remedies of the day, they

will continue to spare neither time

nor expense in procuring the Best

and Purest material, and compound them in the most thorough

manner. Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., Pittsburgh, Pa.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from them should state the name of the medicine they desire, and the quantity, and the name of the person to whom they are to be sent, and the name of the place to which they are to be sent, and the name of the person to whom they are to be

BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE.

ACCIDENT. Loring W., second son of Mr. Gilbert Blaisdell of this town, about eighteen years of age, had his thigh bone badly broken in South Braintree, on Saturday last. In attempting to get on to a cart, driven by his brother, loaded with stone, he placed his foot on the handle of the "brake" which slipped and he fell, the wheel pressing upon his leg with power sufficient to break the bone, but did not pass over it.

PURCHASED. Galloupe's Island, situated in Boston harbor, and belonging to Charles Newcomb, 24, of this town, has been purchased by that city for the sum of six thousand five hundred dollars. The object of the purchase is the protection of the harbor; and it is expected that the United States government will erect a sea wall.

STATISTICS. Our thanks are due Daniel Baxter, Esq., for the following interesting statistics, recently taken by the Assessors:

Number of horses in Quincy,	1104
" " cows " "	498
" " hogs " "	688
" " oxen " "	630
" " " "	68

DEATH OF AN EMINENT DIVINE. The last arrival from Europe brings the sad intelligence of the death at Florence, on the 10th of May, of Rev. Theodore Parker, of Boston, of consumption, after an illness of several years' duration. At the time of his death he was surrounded by a number of American friends. He leaves a wife, who was with him at the time of his death, but no children. He was about fifty years of age.

SENATORIAL RESOLUTIONS ON SLAVERY. The United States Senate has passed some resolutions affirming that slave property is entitled to the same protection in the Territories as other property,—that if experience should prove that the judiciary does not possess power to insure adequate protection, it will become the duty of Congress to supply such deficiency,—and that the time for the people of a Territory to decide whether they will have slavery, is when they form a State constitution.

THE CATTLE DISTEMPER. The Board of Agriculture of this State, in consequence of a State Fair this year, in consequence of the fact that the County Fairs were held at the same time, and that this report remains to be substantiated.

A DRY SEASON. The register kept at the Observatory of Harvard College shows that while in the first four months of 1859 there was a fall of 25 1/2 inches of rain, in 1860 there was only 6 1/4 inches.

FINALE TO THE PROSECUTION. In the Superior Court, in Boston, Judge Ames presiding, the indictment pending against the Ex-State Liquor Agent, George P. Barnham, was not pro'd by the District Attorney, and he is accordingly discharged from any prosecution which has been instituted against him in connection with the State Liquor Agency.

MR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE IN TEXAS. Hear what the Proprietors of the Star Hotel has to say of the wonderful effects of M'Lane's Vermifuge:

Centerville, Texas, Aug. 22, 1854.
Messrs. Fleming Bros.—I feel it my duty to make the following statement: Several of my children have been unwell for the last week or two. I called at the "Big Mortar" to get some Oil of Wormseed and other truck, to give them for worms. The Druggist recommended the Vermifuge prepared by you, but having heretofore, tried every Vermifuge, in my knowledge, without advantage, I told him it was not worth while, as my children appeared proof against them all. He said, take a bottle, and offered, if it did no good, to refund the money. To satisfy him I did so, and the effect was so much better than he expected that I got another bottle, and the result was astonishing. Three of my children discharged a great number of the largest worms I ever saw. To a young man, my Mail Carrier, who was weak, pale and poor, as a snake, for a month or so, I gave two doses, which brought from him at least a pint of what is called stomach worms! Strange as it may appear, yet it is as "true as preaching." How the boy stood it, as long as he did, with ten thousand "How's" gnawing at his stomach, is the greatest wonder to me. All these cases are now doing well. No doubt the lives of thousands of children have been saved by the timely use of this extraordinary medicine. Don't fail to give it a trial. THOS. R. THURMAN.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

ACCEPTANCE. Hon. Edward Everett, in a letter addressed to Washington Hunt, has accepted the nomination for the office of Vice President, tendered to him by the Baltimore Convention.

GREAT ROBBERY. On Sunday last, the jewelry store of Josiah Gooding, 91 Washington Street, Boston, was entered by false keys and goods to the amount of about eight thousand dollars carried off. No clue to the robbers has been discovered.

DIAGRAM OF THE ECLIPSE. We have received from Asa Smith, author of Smith's "Illustrated Astronomy for the use of Academies and Schools," a colored representation of the eclipse of the sun, which will take place on the 18th of July next, as it will appear at the time of its greatest observation. A copy will be sent to any address by enclosing one dime and a three cent piece to Asa Smith, Post Office, Station E, 8th Avenue, New York City.

The examination of George C. Hersey, the alleged poisoner, before Justice Humphrey, was concluded, yesterday, by his commitment to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

MAY TRAINING. The Hancock Light Guards had a grand parade on Wednesday afternoon last, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band. Shortly after leaving their armory they marched for the Point, there upon a beautiful plat they had an excellent drill under Scott's tactics, and then returned and partook of a rich and bountiful collation at the Hancock House, provided by Col. Webb in his always acceptable manner. The Company, after doing ample justice to the collation, marched through our principal streets till the dew began to fall, when they retired to the armory, feeling much pleased with the enjoyment of the afternoon, particularly the music furnished by the band.

New York, Sept. 3d, 1858.

I have analyzed a sample of Chestnut Grove Whiskey, received from Mr. Charles Wharton, Jr., of Philadelphia, and having carefully tested it, I am pleased to state that it is entirely free from poisonous or deleterious substances. It is an unusually pure and fine flavored quality of whiskey.

JAS. R. CHILTON, Analytical Chemist.

Boston, March 7th, 1859.

I have made a chemical analysis of commercial samples of Chestnut Grove Whiskey, which proves to be free from the heavy Fusil Oil, and perfectly pure and unadulterated. The fine flavor of this Whiskey is derived from the Grain used in manufacturing it. Respectfully,

Poetry.

Mrs. Grammar's Ball.

Mrs. Grammar, she gave a ball
To the Nine different parts of speech,—
To the big and the small,
The short and the tall,
There were pies, puddings and each.
And first, little Articles came.
In a hurry to make themselves known,— Fat A, An and The
But none of the three
Could stand for a minute alone.

Then Adjectives came to announce That their dear friends, the Nouns, were at hand—
Bough, Rougher and Boughest, Tough, Tougher and Toughest,
Fat, Merry, Good-natured and Grand,
The Nouns were, indeed, on their way,—
Ten thousand and more, I should think;
For each name that we utter,— Noun, Adjective and Noun,
Is a Noun, Lady, Lyon and Link.

The Pronouns were following fast
To push the Nouns out of their places,—
I, Thou, You and Me,
We, They, He and She,
With their merry, good-humored old faces.
Some cried out—Make way for the Verbs!
A great crowd is coming in view,—
To Bate and to Smite,
And to Light and to Fight,
To Be, and to Have, and to Do.

The Adverbs attend on the Verbs,
Behind them as footmen they run;
As thus—To fight Badly,
They run away Gladly,
Shows how fighting and running were done.

Prepositions came—In, By and Near,
With Conjunctions, a poor little band,
As—Either you Or me,
But neither they Nor he—
They held their great friends by the hand.

Then, with a Hip, Hip, Hurra!
Rushed Interjections uproarious,— Oh, dear! Well-a-day!
When they saw the display,
Ha! ha! they all shouted out: Glorious!

But, alas! what misfortunes were nigh!
While the fun and feasting pleased each,
There pounced in at once
A monster—a DUNCE,
And confounded the Nine parts of Speech!

Help, friends! to the rescue! on you
For aid, Noun and Article call,— Oh, give your protection
To Verb, Adverb, Conjunction and all!

I wish He would make up His Mind
I wish he would make up his mind, ma,
For I don't care much longer to wait,
I'm sure I have hunted quite strongly
For a sweetheart he's really so backward,
I can't bring him out though I try;
I wish he's very good tempered,
But then he's so dreadful shy!

When I speak about love and a cottage,
He gives me a glance of surprise;
And if I but hint of a marriage,
He blushes quite up to his eyes!
I can't make him jealous—I've tried it—
And 'tis no use my being unkind,
For that's not the way, I'm certain,
To get him to make up his mind.

I've sung him love sonnets by dozens,
I've worked him with ball suppers and hose;
And we've walked it by moonlight together,
Yet he never attempts to propose!
You really must ask his intention,
Or some other bean I must find;
For indeed I can't tarry much longer,
For one who can't make up his mind.

Eyes.

Black eyes most dazzle at a ball,
Black eyes most please at evening fall;
Black a conquest soonest gain,
The blue a conquest most retains;
The black bespeaks a lively life,
Where soft emotions soon depart;
The blue a staidier flame betrays,
That burns and lives beyond a day;
The black may features best disclose,
In blue may feelings best repose;
Then let each reign without control,
The black all mind—the blue all soul.

Anecdotes.

A venerable old gentleman, on whose locks more than eighty winters had shed their snows, being asked what were his religious sentiments, now that he was approaching the world of spirits, replied—
I was at first a Baptist; then a kind of New Light; afterwards a Congregationalist; now my only creed is God be merciful to me
a sinner!

In a town near Boston, a bright little girl of five years was recently standing by a window, busily examining a hair which she had just pulled from her head, when her mother, whose curiosity was excited by her eager gaze, asked—
What are you doing, my daughter?
I'm looking for the number, mamma; the Bible says that the hairs of our heads are all numbered, and I want to see what the number is on this.

A "foine" young gentleman, turning swiftly on his heel, ran his head against a young lady. He instantly put himself in a position to apologize.

Not a word, said the quick-witted maiden;
It's hard enough to hurt anybody,
The cockcomb frowned and sloped.

A fellow was told at a tailor's shop that three yards of cloth by being wet would shrink one quarter of a yard.

Well, then, he inquired, if you should wet
a quarter of a yard, would there be any left?

I'm all heart, said a military officer to his comrades.
Fifty you're not part pluck, responded a superior in command.

DR. McLANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE
AND LIVER PILLS.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the Trade, and more especially the Physicians of the country, to two of the most popular remedies now before the public.

We refer to

Dr. Chas. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills.

We do not recommend them as universal Cure-alls, but simply for what their name purports, viz.:

THE VERMIFUGE,
For expelling Worms from the human system. It has also been administered with the most satisfactory results to various Animals subject to Worms.

THE LIVER PILLS,
For the cure of LIVER COMPLAINTS, all Bilious Derangements, SICK HEAD-ACHE, &c. In cases of preparatory to or after taking Quinine, they almost invariably make a speedy and permanent cure.

FEVER AND AGUE,

As specifics for the above mentioned diseases, they are Unrivalled, and never known to fail when administered in accordance with the directions.

Their unprecedented popularity has induced the proprietors,

FLEMING BROTHERS,
PITTSBURGH, PA.

to dispose of their Drug business, in which they have been successfully engaged for the last Twenty Years, and they will now give their undivided time and attention to their manufacture. And being determined that Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills shall continue to occupy the high position they now hold among the great remedies of the day, they will continue to spare neither time nor expense in procuring the Best and Purest material, and compound them in the most thorough manner. Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., Pittsburgh, Pa.

P.S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take note that Dr. McLane's Vermifuge and Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. The only ones which will forward per mail, post paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve months' treatment, and one box of Vermifuge for three months' treatment. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers in Medicine everywhere.

Hall's Great
SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It is purely vegetable, and contains no mercury, and it is the only remedy of the kind which regulates the bowels, removes all vitiated secretions, giving a healthy action to the liver and corrects the tone to the stomach. It overcomes that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and renovates and restores the vital energy and Physical Strength.

In thousands of cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sore, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying success, after every other known remedy has been tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an effective cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Constipation and Derangement of the Urinary Organs.

It is equally efficacious for irregularities and Weakness and Paralysis in FEMALES, such as Leucorrhoea, Pains, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness and Headache.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

HUNNEWELL'S

Universal Cough Remedy

For all Throat and Lung Complaints, from Common Coughs to Actual Consumption.

HUNNEWELL'S TUSTLY

CELEBRATED

Ton Anodyne!

The Natural and Sure Remedy for all NERVOUS COMPLAINTS,

FROM Neuralgia through all cases where Opium was ever used to that of Delirium Tremens, the common chief cause of Disease.

LOSS OF SLEEP.

The Ton Anodyne, though containing not a particle of Opium, produces all the requirements of, and may be used in all cases where Opium was used without producing anything but ease and leaving the patient in a perfectly natural state.

The Universal Cough Remedy, (freed from all the common objections of Cough Remedies, which produce nausea of prostration,) may be considered the common enemy to all Throat and Lung Complaints, and need with perfect impunity. Asking all to come from proprietors or friends the most severe investigation of both Remedies of the shop, a Frenchman with a long moustache, came rushing into the room.

What you do, are? What do you want in here, you old rascal? By gar, you shall give me satisfaction.

Tom, not in the least daunted, but very much exasperated, tipped out, "You infernal old hairy-mouthed scoundrel, I believe you wish to steal my twenty dollars! I came in here, bought a saddle, paid the money down for it, and now, when I want to be going with it, your son, there, has refused to let me have it, and has kicked up a fuss about it!"

Tom, however, got his saddle, and returned the next morning in the boat going up the river; but he has been heard to swear it was the last thing he ever intended to purchase of that shopkeeper.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, June 9th, 1860.

THE WETMOUTH POISONING CASE. The coroner's jury in the case of Miss Mary Tirrell, after a lengthy investigation, have returned the following verdict:

"That the said Mary Tirrell came to her death on the second day of January, 1860, by means of a certain poison called corrosive sublimate, administered by some person or persons to the jury unknown."

No complaint will be made against George C. Hersey in this case, at present.

MILITARY. Col. A. B. Packard, of the Fourth Regiment of Infantry, has sent in his application for a discharge. He has been some five years in the service, and about two and a half has held his present commission to the credit of himself and the advancement of his Regiment, which ranks foremost in the military of the State.

APPOINTMENT. We are informed that Mr. Abner Willett has been appointed by the Selectmen of this town, Agent for the sale of Spirituous Liquors under the Maine Law requirement. The Appointee has removed the "stock and fixtures" to his residence on Cottage Avenue, where "the article" can be obtained, and we hope without being "extended." The late Agent retires with honor, having discharged his onerous duties to general satisfaction.

TEMPLE STREET, has a prime lot of new made butter, which for sweetness of taste and fine appearance, will be admitted as a No. 1, and lovers should give him a call. His stock of groceries are selected with care, and are indeed excellent in quality.

TIMELY RAIN. We have had, during the past week, a real, old fashioned, soaking rain, of three day's continuance—which the dry and parched earth drank in freely. It was much needed. The farmers were complaining bitterly; giving vent to many sage predictions, that unless Providence soon interposed, the hay-crop would be ruined. But these timely and refreshing showers have dispelled these doubts. Nature never looked more fresh and blooming, or gave greater promise of rich reward to the husbandman. This also is the language from all parts of the country.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.—The following is the official return of the vote, on the 7th of May last, on the question of adopting the Constitutional Amendments relative to filling vacancies in the Senate and in the Council:

First Amendment—Yes 4422; No 1263. Second Amendment—Yes 4103; No 1531.

FOR NABANT. The fine steamer "Nelly Baker," which has been thoroughly overhauled, will commence her regular trips from Boston to Nahant, about the 15th instant, under her experienced commander, A. W. Cadden, Esq., who has rendered himself extremely popular with all by his courteous demeanor during the last season. Marshal P. Wild, who is now Business Agent of Gilmore's Band, Boston, will be connected with the boat in his usual capacity, the duties of which will be admirably performed. His ready and pleasing deportment, fine and tasty appearance, with all the other essentials of a polished gentleman, makes him a favorite wherever he goes, and secures hosts of friends to enjoy his smiling countenance and genial treatment.

A PLEASANT TIME ANTICIPATED. It will be noticed, on reference to our advertising columns, that Professor Russ, B. Walker's "Juvenile Dancing School," which he has lately taught in this town, give an exhibition on Monday evening ensuing. His class will be visited by two Misses from West Cambridge, which will greatly add to the interest of the occasion. We think the entertainment will be one of the most pleasant and delightful witnessed for some time, and bespeak for the accomplished Professor, a multitude of visitors to see the progress his pupils have made under his tuition. After the exhibition, an opportunity will be given to parents and patrons to enjoy a social dance.

Mr. Henry Wescott of Cambridge, will preach in the Stone Temple to-morrow.

Boston Correspondence

Boston, June 7, 1860.

Speech in Congress of Hon. Charles F. Adams—His favorable reception.—Comments of the press.—Washington Correspondents of the Boston Atlas, Evening Journal and New York Commercial Advertiser.

The maiden speech of Hon. Charles F. Adams in the National House of Representatives on Thursday last, attracted marked attention, and has been most favorably commented by the Washington correspondents of the public press. It must be flattering to his constituents, that they are represented in Congress by one whose abilities are acknowledged of a high order, and whose course as a National legislator has commanded so general evidence of respect from independent men of all parties. In our humble way, we have endeavored long since to fore-shadow the belief, that Mr. Adams would take a high position as a statesman, not so much by party machinery, as for honesty of purpose, and a fearlessness to stand by the right and condemn the wrong, let its application be to political friend or foe. In these partisan times it requires great moral courage to pursue an independent course, but Mr. Adams is adequate to it, and will be triumphantly sustained. His speech on the slavery question, was made in a Committee of the Whole, and without any previous formal announcement. The correspondence of the Boston Atlas, gives the following graphic description of Mr. Adams' speech:

After the passage of this (the Printing Bill), the Hon. Charles Francis Adams got the floor to speak. He was immediately surrounded by the entire House. He stood near the imaginary Mason and Dixon's line on the floor, and the seats on either side of him were at once densely packed. There was not an inattentive person in the Hall even down to the piers. A dead silence prevailed over that usually noisy arena. Mr. Adams' voice is very weak, and his friends had feared he could not be heard, but every syllable of his able, polished, scholarly but scathing speech was distinctly heard in every part of the Hall and galleries from beginning to close. Indeed, one could almost fancy the "Old Man eloquent" was again holding this tumultuous body spell-bound and entranced. As he went on and warmed with his subject, the silence and attention became intense; a pin dropped could almost have been heard. Sentence after sentence, glowing with eloquence and lofty patriotism, rang through the Hall. The Republicans scarcely breathed, while the Southern side sat as if entranced. He told the South that the Republican organization was composed of freemen who would not menace others. It was one of the boldest speeches of the Session; terribly scathing upon the institution of slavery, and those who uphold it, and yet conceived in the most eloquent and scholarly phrase; his classical allusions and eloquent and beautiful phraseology, were a treat not often had in a political speech.

It was a proud moment for the son of the "Old Man eloquent." The Southern members did themselves infinite honor in this respectfully listening to Mr. Adams. Whether it was the recollection of the father, whose voice of warning and patriotism, so often still the storms that rose tumultuously in the old Hall, or whether it was purely the effect of the eloquence and eloquence of the speaker himself that produced this result, I will not pretend to say. But it is true that such a scene has not been witnessed in this Congress at least.

"Perley" the Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal, and one of the best letter writers there, pays a high compliment to Mr. Adams' speech. After speaking of the remarkable similarity of the style of Mr. Adams' speaking to his father's, he says:

"The speech was a plain, logical, unanswerable argument. He disavowed any desire on the part of the anti-slavery men of the North to interfere with the Constitutional rights of the South; but he asserted their right to organize against the aggressions of the slave power even as citizens have organized in years past against the United States Bank or against the manufactures of the country. Yet while unhesitatingly defining his position as a politician, Mr. Adams used no language unbecoming a gentleman."

The columns of the New York Commercial Advertiser speak in high terms of Mr. Adams, as one "Possessing no small degree of personal as well as inherited reputation." Speaking of the resemblance of Mr. Adams to his father, it says:

"Like the 'Old Man eloquent,' he has been constant in his attendance, sitting with untiring patience through the delivery of the driest harangues as if wrapped in his reveries. When he arose, yesterday, for the first time, to address the House, the resemblance (to his father) was yet more forcible. His bald head, his keen glances, the swaying of his body, the quick gesticulations, the earnestness of manner and of tone—his voice frequently breaking as he raised it above its wonted pitch,—all recalled his venerated sire, of whom it was justly said that he stood amid the tempest of Congressional debate, and like an oak that knew his girdled and knotted strength, stretched his arm forth and defied the blast."

The public will soon have an opportunity to read the speech in question and form an opinion accordingly. We have extended this letter beyond our usual limits and must close.

Fair. The ladies of Christ Church here are to hold a Fair sometime in the present month, and we would bespeak for them the hearty sympathy and assistance of our whole community.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Glass hermetically sealed coffin, Cannon's patent, the first of that material in the world, have been successfully made in Louisville, Kentucky, at the Louisville Glass-works.

There is in Gilmanton, New Hampshire, a married lady, who, having been herself born on the 24th January, has three children born on the 24th January of three successive years, and one on the 23d January of the fourth, or next succeeding year.

A man and wife have been arrested at Louisville, Kentucky, who have been making a good thing out of the insurance companies, by insuring their furniture and then burning down the houses they occupied, after secretly taking the furniture to another place.

One of the Philadelphia horse railroad companies have placed on their line a number of new cars, with seats on top and a stairway or ladder to ascend and descend. These cars are very popular with smokers.

A big dance came off, lately, at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, for the benefit of the churches of that city; among the features of the entertainment was a regular set-to between the brethren, which ended the evening's amusement in a general row.

The dogs at New London (Conn.) are being poisoned by wholesale, and in nearly every dooryard in the city has been found a quantity of gingerbread and crackers soaked in strychnine.

The Legislature of Tennessee has passed a very stringent law against the adulteration of liquors. Using poisonous ingredients is declared a felony.

The city of Worcester, (Mass.) has set the example—the first, we believe, heretofore—of drawing colored men upon the jury.

There were fewer warm days in April than there were in March.

Diphtheria, the new throat disease, we see stated in the papers, has been unusually fatal in Lancaster county, (Pa.) for several months. Whole families have frequently taken the disease and have died in a few hours.

The people of Cape Cod are busily employed in cranberry planting; the largest meadow devoted to the culture of cranberries is near Hyannis Port, and contains nearly fifty acres.

The English Parliament has removed the penny stamp tax on newspapers. This measure puts thirty-seven thousand dollars per year in the pockets of the publishers of the London Times, and proportionate sums to the papers of less circulation.

A student, New Hampshire, who weighs about seven hundred pounds, and it takes about twenty yards of calico for a dress.

Virginia is safe from all future invasion.—There are now in commission in that State sixty-eight troops of cavalry, eighty-one companies of light infantry, eighty-two companies of riflemen, and twenty-one companies of artillery.

A robber's cave, fitted up with shelves, and containing a book case, Bible, burglar's tools, and a pair of boots with the heels where the toes should be, has been found in Watoga, (Ill.)

It is computed that two millions of dollars are locked up in steamers on the northern lakes, that are thrown out of employment by the completion of railroads.

The papers in all parts of the country report that the crops promise well, that the late rains, which have extended over the districts suffering from drought, have been of incalculable advantage.

The Japanese thought that the ladies whom they saw at the Sandwich Islands wearing crinolines, actually filled the immense skirts. One of the men who happened to touch a dress in passing, was much surprised to find it caving in, and burst out into roars of laughter at his astonishing discovery.

A New York Alderman, at a meeting of the board, presented resolutions to have the sidewalks widened, on account of the extent of the ladies' hoops.

One of the most singular evidences of the rapidity of time's flight is the fact that even the fastest of our American women never keep up with their own age beyond the twentieth year-stone.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin says the largest bell in the United States is that upon the City Hall in New York; weight 22,000 pounds.

The State Legislature of Tennessee, entering into the spirit of the Southern seaboard States, has recently appointed a Commissioner to visit Europe for the purpose of conferring with the Governments there on the subject of direct trade with the South.

Strawberries are abundant in Philadelphia, at fifteen cents per quart.

It is stated that the Government has received information, that the fishermen off the coast of Florida and South Carolina, are in the habit of running over to Cuba, on the pretence of disposing of their fish, and returning with two or three native Africans, brought there at a low figure, which they dispose of at a great advantage.

The South Boston people have obtained from the Board of Aldermen the right to run horse cars through Summer and Winter streets, the Board having passed an order to that effect over the veto of Mayor Lincoln.

Marriages.

In Middleboro, Mr. Abner Ewell, of this town, to Miss Batsheba L. Wilder. On the 6th inst. by the Rev. C. N. Smith. Mr. Henry T. Bucknell, of Weymouth, to Miss Margaret B. Phillips of this town.

THE GREAT RUSSIAN REMEDY. We do not mean by this, the "Gunpowder and ball pills," and the "Sword and bayonet" external application, which the late Czar prescribed for the "Sick man," Turkey, but a really beneficial healing agent. It is to Redding's Russia Salve that we would call the attention of our readers. For upwards of half a century this invaluable preparation has been before the American public, and Time, which is the great test, has confirmed its merits. Compounded from purely vegetable materials, it contains no poisonous particles, and suits the tenderest skin. It immediately subdues inflammation, and eases pain, and by its penetrative qualities in skin eruptions, and joint complaints, goes at once to the seat of disease.

Burns, scalds, flesh-wounds, bruises, ulcers, &c., are speedily cured by it; indeed, there is scarcely an accident in the house, on the farm, or in the workshop, where it is not applicable. As a cosmetic, it banishes freckles, sun blisters, tan and chafing. No house is completely furnished without a box of the Russia Salve.

Scorbutic diseases are the parent stock from which arises a large proportion of the fatal maladies that afflict mankind.—They are as it were a species of potato rot in the human constitution, which undermines and corrupts all the sources of its vitality and hastens its decay. They are the germ from which springs Consumption, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Liver Complaints, and Eruptive Diseases which will be recognized as among those most fatal and destructive to the races of men. So dreadful are its consequences to human life, that it is hardly possible to over estimate the importance of an actual, reliable remedy, that can sweep out this scrofulous contamination. We know then we shall proclaim welcome news to our readers, of one from such a quarter as will leave little doubt of its efficacy and still more welcome, when we tell them that it surely does accomplish the end desired. We mean ARNOLD'S SARSAPARILLA, and it is certainly worthy the attention of those who are afflicted with Scrofula or Scrofulous complaints.—Register, Albany, N. Y.

TAPE WORM. Another instance of a Tape Worm cured by the use of Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros. New York, October 15, 1852.

This is to certify that I was troubled with a tape worm for more than six months. I tried all the known remedies for this dreadful affliction, without being able to destroy it. I got one of Dr. M'Lane's Almanacs, which contained notices of several wonderful cures that had been performed by his celebrated Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros. I resolved to try it; and I took a box of the same, and the result was, I discharged one large tape worm, measuring more than a yard, besides a number of small ones. Mrs. M. SCOTT, 70 Cannon street.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

There are about 360,000 workmen in the city of Paris, the greatest number of which are tailors and those engaged in the clothing business.

Special Notices.

SPIRITUAL ASSOCIATION. TOWN HALL, QUINCY.

Services on Sunday, at 2 1/2 & 6 o'clock P.M. William Lloyd Garrison will speak to-morrow. Collection after services. Quincy, June 9.

PARADE—REST. The Members of the Hancock Light Guards are hereby notified to meet at the Armory, this, SATURDAY EVENING, June 9th, at 7 1/2 o'clock, to bring their regular Monthly Meeting. All Members wishing for their discharge from the Company, to apply for the same at this meeting at 7 o'clock. Also, to return all property belonging to the State and Company.

Per order, E. A. SPEAR, Clerk. Quincy, June 9.

A CARD TO THE LADIES. Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females. One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the 'first ladies' of New London," who has used them says, she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they will tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Dr. H. E. HAYDEN sole agent for Quincy.

Ladies by sending me $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail. WEEKS & POTTER, 154 Washington Street, Boston, wholesale agents.

S. D. HOWE, Proprietor, N. Y. Quincy, Nov. 19th, 1850.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 3d inst., Mary F., daughter of the late Mr. Ezra and Mrs. Arabella Damon, aged 3 years and 11 months.

On the 4th inst., very suddenly of croup, Emily L., only child of Mr. Asaph T. and Mrs. Rebecca Faxon, aged 2 years.

On the 5th inst., Mrs. Savannah Hobart, formerly of Hingham, aged 65 years and 2 months.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL UNION PARTY.—The nomination of Bell and Everett by the Union party, seems to have been received with much enthusiasm throughout the whole country. The ratification meeting at Faneuil Hall, Boston, last week, was such as could have been gathered under none but true-honored and well known names. In this State, one hundred and forty-six "Bell and Everett clubs" have been already organized. It is understood that one is soon to be formed in this town, and many of our influential citizens have signified their intention of joining.

A CARD. The Tiger Engine Company, No. 2, would return their sincere thanks to Messrs. Martin B. Merritt and C. Connor, of San Francisco, Cal., and to William Davenport of this town, for some beautiful pictures. Also, lastly but not least, to Geo. L. Miller, of this town, for some valuable curiosities. These tokens were gratefully received, kind gentlemen, and may the love we feel towards you, be as lasting as the gifts presented us.

Per order, FREDERICK HARDWICK, Clerk. Quincy, June 9.

Clothes Dryer.

THE subscribers have bought the sole right to sell, in the Town of Quincy, the Portable Folding Clothes Dryer, which is the nearest, cheapest, and most convenient article that is now in use. Being very light it can be taken from the house and opened for use by any person, in half the time it usually takes to hang on a line. The socket in which the Dryer is placed comes only an inch out of ground, therefore it can be placed in any drive-way without inconvenience, making it almost indispensable to many families.

The subscribers will, with pleasure, place one of the beautiful Dryers, in any citizen's yard, for one or two months for trial, without cost. This pretty and valuable article can be examined by any person, by calling at Lombard's Clothing Establishment, or the residences of the subscribers.

JOS. W. LOMBARD, GEO. W. PRESCOTT. Quincy, June 9.

Poetry.

The Days We wore no Crinoline.

Oh, the days we wore no crinoline,
A long time ago;
When we along the streets could walk
In comfort with each breeze;
Ere hoops and springs, and such like things,
On ladies forms were seen;
Ere fathers raved and husbands stormed
About the crinoline.
Ere wicked wags with cruel jokes,
Could cause us care and woe;
In the days we wore no crinoline,
A long time ago.

Our hearts were light, we felt no fright,
Through crowds to wend our way;
But now we're jaded and knocked about,
Where'er we chance to stay.
With friends we then could stroll in boats,
On streams and bays so fair,
But now our dresses are so large
There is no room to spare.
And then we hear the rascals say,
It was not always so;
In the days we wore no crinoline,
A long time ago.

We then could pass each country lass
Without a single sneer,
But now by fashion we're compelled
These horrid hoops to wear.
Then lovers came with jingling hearts
Our cavaliers to be;
To lead us up and down the town,
The things and sights to see.
But now they laugh and run away;
It was not always so—
In the days we wore no crinoline,
A long time ago.

If ever common sense should reign
Over fashion's changing scene,
We then may dress as once we did,
And initiate a queen.
The men, also, they must adopt
A more becoming mien;
And if they will not lead the way,
Farewell to crinoline.
Then we no more shall weep and say
It was not always so;
In the days we wore no crinoline,
A long time ago.

Daily Work.

Who lags for dread of daily work
And his appointed task would shrink,
Commits a folly and a crime;
A soulless slave—
A pity know—
A clog upon the wheels of Time;
With work to do and store of love in,
The man's unworthy to be free
Who will not give,
That he may live,
His daily toil for daily fee.

No! Let us work! We only ask Reward proportioned to our task;
We have no quarrel with the great;
No feud with rank—
With toil and rank—
We seek a sufficient wage
To satisfy our daily need,
And can we rest,
For age and pain
A fraction, we are rich indeed.

No dread of toil have we or ours;
We know our work, and weigh our powers;
The more we work the more we win;
Success to Trade!
Success to Spade!
And so the corn that's coming in!
And joy to him, who o'er his task,
Remembered that God's own plan,
Who, working kindly—
And never sick—
Has independence as a man.

Who asks for humblest wealth,
Enough for competence and health;
And leisure when his work is done,
To read his books,
By chimney nook,
Or stroll at setting sun,
Who toils as every man should toil
For fair reward, erect and free—
These are the men—
The best of men—
These are the men we mean to be!

Whistle for a Husband.

"O" whistle, daughter, whistle,
And you shall have a cow."
"I never whistled in my life, You're talking nonsense."
"O" whistle, daughter, whistle,
And you shall have a man."
"I never whistled in my life,
But I'll whistle if I can!"

Anecdotes.

An inveterate old "soaker" was telling a party of his friends of an adventure in which he was implicated.
Well, were you cornered? inquired one of the bystanders.
Cornered? replied the toper, with indignation, cornered! No sir-ee; not by a jug full!

A fellow returned a pair of trousers to his tailor, because they were too small for his legs.
But you told me to make them as tight as your skin, said the tailor.
True, said he, for I can sit down in my skin, but I'll be split if I can in the breeches!

A runaway thief, having applied to a blacksmith for work, the latter showed him some hand cuffs, and asked if he understood such kind of work.
Why, yes, sir, said the rogue, I guess I've had a hand in 'em afore.

Will you give me three pennies now, said a beggar to a little one, after having given him a severe thumping.
No, I won't.
Then I'll give you another thumping.
Pound away, you fool, Dr. Franklin and I agree. He says, take care of the penny, and the pounds will take care of themselves.

Sally, said a fellow to a girl who had red hair, keep away from me or you'll set me on fire.
No danger of that, you are too green to burn.

SCROFULA REMEDY.

THIS Purely Vegetable Preparation is pleasant

and agreeable to the taste, and simple in its

action, causing neither vomiting or purging. It

acts directly upon the primary cause of diseases

regarding the bowels, removing acrid and morbid secretions, giving a healthy action to the Liver and correcting the action of the Stomach. It overcomes that feeling of languor which is often experienced in the Spring and Summer, and restores and restores the vitality and Physical Strength.

A thousand cases of Scrofula and Scrofulous

Humors, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas,

Scald Head, Tumors, Ulcers, Bronchitis, Asthma,

Croup, Inflammatory Rheumatism, Fever, Sore

Throat, White Swelling, Dropsy, Boils, Barber's

Itch, Piles, Old Sores, and all diseases which manifest themselves by Eczema or Eruptions on the Skin, it has been used with the most gratifying

success, after every other known remedy has been

tried and failed to afford relief.

It is also an efficient cure for Liver Complaint,

Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Costiveness and Deangu-

ment of the Liver, and all the various diseases connected with the Liver and Gallbladder.

It is an infallible remedy for irregularities and

other diseases peculiar to FEMALES, such as

Weakness and Pain in the Back, Stagnation, Af-

fections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart,

Dizziness and Headaches.

It can be given with perfect safety and most desirable results in all cases, to any person from infancy to old age.

BORN TO NO MATTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE.

FIRE IN QUINCY. About 11 o'clock, on Tuesday forenoon last, the fine dwelling house, occupied by Mr. Graves, and owned, we believe, by the heirs of Asaph Churchill, Esq., deceased, situated at North Quincy, took fire in the second story, from friction matches, playfully used by a very small child, and notwithstanding the noble efforts of the firemen, who worked like bees, was reduced to ashes in about two hours. The building was a comfortable and genteel tenement, valued at about seventeen hundred dollars. Insured by the Worcester Mutual for eleven hundred and fifty dollars. A large part of the furniture of Mr. Graves was saved. The dwelling house of Mr. John Lucas, standing but a few feet east of the burnt premises, in consequence of the high westerly winds blowing directly on his house, was in imminent danger during the raging of the fire. The premises of Mr. Lucas were scorched and somewhat injured, and were saved from destruction by the gallant efforts of the firemen.

The Niagara, Hook and Ladder and Tiger boys from Quincy Centre, were promptly on hand at the scene of conflagration, and did good service as they generally do, at fires. The Neponset Engine and Hydrant from Milton, were also present and worked well.

The distance which our engines had to be hauled, was nearly three miles, over a dusty road and through a scorching sun; still it was accomplished in good time. It was the first trial of the Niagara since its new organization, under the command of Capt. Richard Newcomb, ex-Foreman of the Hook and Ladder. The Captain was warmly supported by nearly a full complement of "Old Boys," whose athletic frames appeared to have caught the fire of youth, from the energetic directorship of their Foreman.

The rescue of Mr. Lucas' house from destruction is a triumph in favor of Engine companies, as without their presence it would have been speedily burnt to the ground. In country villages the value of good fire engine companies, cannot be too highly appreciated. Honor to whom honor is due.

AS WE EXPECTED. The exhibition of the pupils of Professor Walker's late school in this place, was highly gratifying to parents and children, and reflected additional lustre on the well earned fame of the Professor, as a teacher. About forty couple were present, besides invited guests, who occupied the floor from eight till half past ten, with all the vivacity and exuberance of spirit natural to youth. It was a beautiful, happy and delightful exhibition. Their sylvan like motions, flitting in their gossamer robes, through the mazes of the dance, lent to it an enchantment, like some fairy scene. So young, yet so ready were they to the changes of the figure, and nupialistic to the variations of the music, that the most perfect order and harmony was preserved throughout. An "Old Folks" entertainment followed, in which a large and respectable audience participated. Cotillions, waltzes and other dances were introduced in quick succession, which under the skillful magic of Mr. Walker, and the sweet melody of his choir, was kept up until a late hour. It was an evening well spent; of social conviviality and rational amusement; grateful to parental feelings, and which all appeared fully to appreciate and enjoy.

It is the intention, we learn, of Mr. W. to open a school in the fall for those farther advanced in years and scholarship, and in the spring, to take up what he has here so happily closed, another class, for the tender in age and experience.

SUMMER. We have fairly entered it. The weather for a few days past has been truly summer-like—giving a fresh start to vegetation. The young fruit—apple, pear, peach and cherry, are well formed, and with the exception of the latter, promise an abundant yield. Peas are casting their blossoms, leaving clusters of pods on the vines; potatoes are nearly half grown, and corn is several inches in height; grass is topping out, and will soon be ripe for harvest; strawberries are taking a crimson hue, and look most temptingly in their lowly beds. Who will say, with such evidences around us, that we are not in the midst of the season of fruits and flowers.

AN APPEAL. An appeal is made through our columns to the religious munificence of the community, in behalf of the Society of Christ Church, for such assistance as will enable them to suitably furnish the interior of their new church, now hastening to completion, on the corner of Elm street. This Society has been indefatigable in their exertions to secure a place of worship since their late misfortune by fire. This last call upon sympathizing friends, to crown their most ardent desires, we feel confident, will not be made in vain. See their card in to-day's paper.

Aspect of Trade.—Money, a begging.—The Future bright.—Surplus Funds in Europe.—Wauke condition of Italy and Turkey.—its effects on Finance.—Congress.—Slavery.—The Presidential Question.—Quincy Appropriation Bill.—Information Speech of Hon. Charles Sumner.—His contrast with that of Mr. Adams' Speech.—Extra Session of the State Legislature.—Pleuro Pneumonia Laws.

We are probably at the top round of the ladder for dulness in trade and money; the latter of which goes begging at five per cent, on first class paper or stocks—and not a few of the banks have been letting out the strings on calls at four and a half per cent, for considerable sums. But with all this haze, the prospect is bright for reaction, and a large and smart business. Financially, we are more independent of the rest of the world, than for many years past; all arising from the sound condition of our export and import trade, and for a nice probability for all our domestic products, North and South that can be spared. The crops look well, and the net earnings of the railroads, the mighty manufacturing profits, and the increased demand for freight, all are good evidence of growing activity.

The foreign news, while they show the warlike condition of Southern Europe, also show an undisturbed money market in the great European cities, by reason of stagnation; money being as plenty as blackberries. The feverish condition of Italy and Turkey puts a damper on business all over Europe, and admonishes the capitalists to lock up their funds and keep the keys of their coffers in their pockets, until the family quarrel in the Italian Provinces are settled. According to present appearances this will take some time a great way off.

Congress will probably rise about the first proximo, perhaps sooner. The Session has been remarkable for slavery discussion, for the reason that it is to be the strong element in the Presidential election. One party claiming to be non-Extremists, and wishing to legislate slavery out of the Territories, another party growing out of the Dred Scott decision, wishing to carry slavery into the Territories, as property, which Congress should protect; and the Popular Sovereignty party contending for non intervention by Congress on the great question of domestic slavery, leaving it with the people of the States and Territories to settle in their own way. The last are the views of Mr. Douglas, and he is soon to stand or fall by his principles. They are incontrovertible, harmonizing with the genius of our institutions of government, and are the views of the great body of the American people. It remains to be seen whether he gets the nomination at Baltimore next week. If he is the nominee, the contest will be between him and Hon. Abraham Lincoln of Illinois. All other candidates in the field will be as shadows. We have not a word to say against Mr. Lincoln, believing him a strong man for the standard bearer of his party. His views on the tariff—the naturalization laws and State Sovereignty on the slavery question, harmonize with those of Mr. Douglas. They differ in the entire non-intervention of slavery action by Congress in the Territories, and the matter is to be decided forever in November, by that majestic empire, the people, whether Popular Sovereignty shall triumph or not. Whether the people of the Territories have municipal rights in common with the States to manage their domestic affairs in their own way, independent of Congressional legislation, or whether the poor devils have no local rights except at the will and caprice of the Federal Government, who can whip slavery in or out of their borders, noles or tolens on the part of the people.

We are happy to learn that the Civil Appropriation Bill was taken up by Congress on Monday. $150,000 were added to the Charleston Custom House; $300,000 for the New Orleans Custom House; $500,000 for the extension of the Treasury Building—the same for the Washington Aqueduct; $500,000 for the Capitol extension; $250,000 on the new Jail at Washington, &c.; all like to pass immediately. They will have a favorable influence on the Granite business.

By the telegraphic despatches from Washington, of yesterday, it appears Mr. Sumner is threatened with bodily injury in consequence of his extraordinary address made last week in the Senate. This every good citizen must deplore; although the speech was in very bad taste, a direct appeal to the worst passions of the South, and cannot fail to do more harm than good for the cause of freedom and humanity. There was a marked contrast, between the speeches of Mr. Adams and Sumner. The former meeting the question of slavery on Constitutional grounds, arguing in plain but courteous terms, with his political opponents, and avoiding all personalities. While Mr. Sumner, in his great efforts to make slave discussion in Congress both a political and moral subject, was personal in the extreme, bitter as gall in his remarks to the South, using the worst language imaginable to stir up the bad passions of the Southerner, and showing that with all his great qualities of intellect, he is destitute of charity towards others.

Our State Legislature, who has held an extra Session since 30th ult., has about drawn its arduous labors to a close. The main subject before it, has been the Pleuro Pneumonia or cattle disease. A Bill has passed of fourteen sections. The Governor to appoint two additional Commissioners—who shall make and publish regulations concerning the extirpation, cure or treatment of cattle affected. The Selectmen of towns to carry out and enforce all orders and directions of said Commissioners. Commissioners to have power to provide for the establishment of hospitals, &c., for sick and exposed cattle, such as the Commissioners shall deem fit to kill; shall be appraised, one fifth to be paid by the towns where the cattle are kept, and the remainder by the Commonwealth. Persons driving cattle from any portion of the State east of Connecticut river to any part west of said river, before the first day of April next, without the consent of the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in jail not exceeding one year. The same penalty if cattle is transported out of the State without the consent of the Commissioners.

Timely Hints—June Roses.

June is the month for roses; and you will now receive your reward for the care which you have bestowed upon them.

The rose is the queen, the empress, or rather the most perfect—the true woman of all flowers. No care that can be bestowed on it will be a fair recompense for its matchless beauty and loveliness.

The June roses should now have a special treatment. As soon as the first flowers begin to fade, they should be cut off several buds below the flower; from the shoots which will then be encouraged to push from the remaining buds, a very free bloom will be received some weeks afterwards.

Keep down the weeds by all means, and keep the surface soil well pulverized, which will then admit the air freely and preserve the soil from drying; thus avoiding the necessity of frequent watering, which, though it cannot at times be avoided, has always attendant disadvantages.

Look out for insects. Sin must have been very sinful or there never would have been so many pests let loose on this lovely flower. Destroy them. House plants may be planged into hot water at 125 degrees, which is a sure remedy and not so offensive to the ladies as the fumes of tobacco. This may be done by putting your hand, or anything you please, over the pot to prevent the earth from falling out, then invert the pot and plunge the plant into the water, removing it as soon as possible.

One pound of whale-oil soap to four gallons of water makes a good wash; but as the soap is not all of the same strength, some caution is necessary in preparing it.

Sidewalks.

MR. EDITOR: I was much pleased on Sunday last, while promouncing Hancock street, to behold the improvement that was made in the sidewalk in front of the premises of Lemuel Brackett, Esq., by the use of a few edge-stones, which are so cheap and plenty in our good old granite town. I think they were much needed, and hope more of our citizens, in that neighborhood, on both sides of the road, will follow the good example set them by the aged sire. Our Selectmen will, undoubtedly, see to it that in front of the Hancock Lot, as well as to lay the edge-stone for those who furnish them.

Sunday Services.

MR. EDITOR: Allow me to suggest to the different societies in town, through your columns, the propriety of changing the afternoon services, during the month of July and August, from 2 1/4 o'clock to 4; this plan has been adopted in Boston and most of the neighboring towns to great advantage; the attendance having much increased; it does away with the necessity of a walk or ride in the hottest part of the day, and is favorable to man and beast; besides, it enables those accustomed to sleep in church, to repose quietly at home and then enjoy the services.

AN AFTERNOON ATTENDANT.
P. S. Since writing the above I am informed that the Society of Christ Church have voted to hold their services until September, at 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.

THE RICHMOND CONVENTION. The recorders from the Democratic Convention at Charleston, (S.C.) met at Richmond, (Va.) on Monday last, and organized, when they adjourned on Tuesday, to meet at the same place, on the 21st inst. Their action, of course, will depend upon what is done at Baltimore.

THE CATTLE DISEASE. The Trustees of the Norfolk Agricultural Society, at their meeting at Dedham, last week, voted unanimously that no neat cattle shall be exhibited in their September exhibition. This action is induced by a dread of Pleuro pneumonia.

EARLY PEAS. A pod, plucked from the garden of a friend in this neighborhood, gave us some idea of the rapidity with which things are approaching maturity. It was plump and well-filled, and we were assured, that with a few more days of sunshine, a fine mess might be gathered. Nature never stands still; her march is onward; while we sleep, she is at work. By the 14th, they will be plenty—and then, with other condiments, a banquet may be furnished worthy of a President.

ICE CREAM. The season has arrived to enjoy this cooling preparation, and our friend Veazie, in Johnson's Building, makes it of excellent quality, fully equal to any obtained in the city. Call and see him these pleasant evenings, and partake of a glass at his quiet saloon.

THE LATE TRAGEDY. From testimony received through Coroner Bass, we gather the following particulars in relation to the late melancholy affair, which was enacted at the house of the deceased, Peter O'Neil, on Mt. Pleasant St., in this town, the 27th April last. It appears that a man, by the name of Michael Stanton, a resident of Washington village, was on a visit at the house of O'Neil on the above evening; that Mr. N. and wife had retired for the night, leaving Stanton with other company below; but being disturbed by the noise they made, he arose, descended, and accosted Stanton, ordering him to leave the premises; which being refused, a struggle ensued, when O'Neil was struck a violent blow on the left frontal bone, by some weapon, to the jury unknown, in the opinion of his physician; in his death, on Thursday last. Stanton was arrested at the time, but succeeded in making his escape. A reward has since been offered for his apprehension.

Mr. Henry Stone, of Cambridge, will preach in the Stone Temple to-morrow.

AWARDED. We understand that the contract for the stone work in the proposed alterations at the Dedham Court House, has been awarded to Nelson Curtis, of Roxbury.

C. G. Gill & Co. have a good assortment of boys' and youths' congress boots, ties and brogans, suitable for the season.

A CARD.

The Engineers of Quincy take this opportunity to present their thanks to the citizens of Neponset with their Engine, Independence; also, to the Hydrant Engine Company, of Milton, for their timely and efficient aid at the recent fire at North Quincy.

And in presenting the above permit us to assure you that we have not forgotten your former services, at the burning of Christ Church.

Per vote of Engineers,
C. A. CUMMINGS, Clerk.

Special Notices.

NOTICE. The Statute concerning Dogs requires all dogs to be registered, described, numbered and licensed, and wear a collar with the owner's name and registered number on it.

"That any person may, and every Constable shall kill or caused to be destroyed all dogs going at large not so registered and collared."

"Whoever keeps a dog not so registered, described, numbered and licensed shall forfeit Ten Dollars, to be recovered to the use of the Town wherein such dog is kept."

"The Selectmen of each town shall require all dogs not so licensed and collared to be destroyed and shall enforce all the penalties of this act."

Whereas complaints are made that the provisions of said Statute are not complied with, the Selectmen hereby give notice that they shall cause the same to be carried into effect.

GEO. L. GILL, Town Clerk.

NOTICE. The Ladies of Christ Church propose holding a Fair on the 27th and 28th of June, the proceeds to be devoted to furnishing their Church now erecting, and the patronage of all interested is desired.

The Fair will be held in the Town Hall, and will be open on Wednesday, from 3 to 10 P. M., and on Thursday, from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M. The Quincy Band has generously volunteered their services for the last evening.

Through the kindness of the President of the Old Colony Railroad, an extra train of cars will leave Quincy for Boston and Way stations at 10 o'clock on both evenings.

Contributions of useful and fancy articles, fruit, flowers and refreshments, will be gratefully received by the Ladies and may be sent to the Hall on the days of the Fair.

Should the weather be stormy the Fair will be continued through Friday.
Quincy, June 16.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females. One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the 'first ladies' of New London," who has used them says, she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they will tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Mrs. E. Hayden, sole agent for Quincy.

London by sending her $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail.

REPAIRS ON LONG WHARF. Submarine operations for the raising of the heavy granite blocks at the end of Long wharf, Boston, that sunk in the fall, are now in successful operation, and the work is prosecuted by a gang of men under the direction of Capt. George Clapp, of Dorchester, formerly of this town, a gentleman experienced in operations of this nature.

HOT WEATHER. The warm days during the present week has reminded us of the many conveniences and comforts there are in connection with a good refrigerator. Still there is always some ill with the good, and this is particularly the case with the old-fashioned ice-chest, where you are obliged to remove the estates before the ice is put in,—to say nothing of the confined air which gives a bad taste to the good things stowed therein. But the new style furnished by Caleb Packard removes all these difficulties.

NEW BUTTER. A nice article of this kind almost every one admires; and we are creditably informed that Howard Vinal has made arrangements to receive, regularly, a choice supply of new made butter from several dairies in an adjoining town. Samples prove its sweetness and excellence. Try it.

They had a tornado at Aurora, Canada West, last week, which did a great deal of damage, destroying several buildings and much woodland. Pine and oak trees, from one to four feet in diameter, were broken off at the stumps like pipe stems.

An Iowa paper reports the case of a liquor dealer who was prosecuted for violating the liquor law. He changed the venue to every justice in three townships, and finally ran into the hole he started out at, by getting before the first justice. The result was his liquor cask was emptied by the constable with a hatchet.

MLANE'S VERMIFUGE.—Fleming Bros. Sole Proprietors. No remedy ever invented has been so successful as the great worm medicine of Dr. M'Lane, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. All who have used it have been equally astonished and delighted at its wonderful energy and efficacy. To publish all the testimonials in its favor would fill volumes; we must therefore content ourselves with a brief abstract of a few of them.

Japhet C. Allen, of Amboy, gave a dose to a child six years old, and it brought away 83 worms. He soon after gave another dose to the same child, which brought away 50 more making 133 worms in about twelve hours.

Andrew Downing, of Cranbury township, Vermont county, gave his child one teaspoonful and she passed 177 worms. Next morning, on repetition of the dose, she passed 113 more.

Jonathan Houghman, of West Union, Park County, Ia. writes that he is unable to supply the demand, as the people in his neighborhood say, after a trial of the others, that none is equal to Dr. M'Lane Vermifuge.

Messrs. D. & J. W. Colton, of Winchester, Ind., happened last spring to get some of this Vermifuge. After selling a few bottles, the demand became so great for it that their stock was soon exhausted. They state that it has produced the best effect wherever used, and is very popular among the people.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

ing, that the men who are most successful in business are those who begin the world in their shirt sleeves: while those who begin with fortunes generally lose them. Necessity is always the first stimulus to industry; and those who conduct it with prudence, perseverance and energy, will rarely fail. Viewed in this light, the necessity of labor is not a chastisement, but a blessing,—the very root and spring of what is called progress in individuals and civilization in nations. It may, indeed, be questioned whether a heavier curse could be imposed on man than a complete gratification of all his wishes, without effort on his part, leaving nothing for his hopes, desires, or struggles. The feeling that life is destitute of any motive or necessity for action must be, of all others, the most distressing and insupportable to a rational being.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SET ARE WE.

PERSONAL. We were highly gratified in taking once more by the hand, our esteemed friend, Julius C. Chandler, after years of long absence. Mr. Chandler left this place in the year 1853, for the Great West, and selected Wisconsin for his home—where, like a true genius as he is, and an honorable representative of the craft, he "hung out his shingle," commenced the publication of a paper, and laid the foundation for a lucrative and prosperous establishment. It is now in the full tide of success. An editor out West, is a kind of a "Fidolium," a man of all parts; he must know every thing, and do every thing; he is the intellectual pendulum of the body politic; in truth, the "Bell-wether" of the flock.

Mr. C. brought with him his young wife, and two blooming children, agile and graceful as the young Fawns of their forest home.

In friend Chandler, we see the true type of a Western man; bold and adventurous; open and generous to a fault; and with a heart ever alive to the holiest impulses of our nature. He thinks the West is the place for our young men; where "No pent up Urica contracts the powers,"—but where the mind has free scope to range, untrammelled by academic rules or scholastic discipline; where mother earth makes grateful returns for the labors of the husbandman, and where Nature, in her primitive grandeur, opens a vast field for study and contemplation.

MORRISON. The estate belonging to the Rev. Dr. Morrison, on Milton Hill, was consumed by fire, (supposed to be incendiary) on Thursday evening last. The mansion house within a few feet of the burnt premises, was saved from destruction by the exertions of those present.

Dog Law. The law in reference to dogs is to be enforced on the 5th of next month. Our Constables are entrusted with the duty of seeing it executed. The requirements of the law are very easy; it simply imposes the necessity on the owners of dogs to have them registered and collared, with the name inscribed thereon,—and to pay a fine of one dollar for a male dog, or five for a female. Any dog not thus entered, after that date, will have a very bad name.

DROWNED. On Wednesday last, by falling into the basin, at Brackett's wharf, from the sloop Almyra, William James, son of Mr. Stephen Pratt, of South Braintree, aged eleven years. The sloop at the time was taking in stone,—and the men being busily engaged in loading her, (among whom was the father of young Pratt, who belonged to the vessel,) they did not particularly observe his movements. The last time they recollect seeing him, he was attempting to pass off the painter of a small boat attached to the sloop, and it is supposed that he lost his balance—fell into the river and sank to rest no more. The accident was soon discovered, and the body recovered—when Dr. Saville was summoned, and every means used to restore animation; but it was of no avail; the vital spark had flown.

BIBLES. Mr. J. Hersey, "Distributing Agent of the Massachusetts Bible Society," is in our village, with a large assortment of Bibles and Testaments, which he offers for sale at the Bible House or wholesale prices. Some are in beautiful Morocco, others in cheaper binding—and varying in prices, from ten cents to five dollars. This is a good chance for those who are not troubled with but little of that corruptible material so anxiously sought after by the Yankee—gold. And in fact, those who have none of this metal can receive a good Bible without cost or price.

THE SOVEREIGN REMEDY.—Every one acknowledges that Redding's Russia Salve is a Sovereign Remedy for all kinds of wounds, cuts, burns, scalds, corns, bunions, chilblains, chapped hands, erysipelas, etc.—Sold every where at 25 cents a box.

Mr. W. H. Savary, of Cambridge, will preach in the Stone Temple to-morrow, and Rev. Mr. Tyler, of Worcester will preach in the Universalist Church.

For the Patriot.
Concerning "Ye Mother."

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—Your shockingly progressive correspondent "L. S. R." last week entertained your readers with 14 columns of physiological twaddle concerning a certain much-neglected topic of conversation in public and private social circles. To accuse your correspondent of any intended obscenity, would perhaps be uncharitable; to give him a credit-mark for any specific quantity of originality of thought, or pungency of expression of the true thoughts of others, would belie the just public sentiment in that behalf, and perhaps encourage the visionary reformer, like Alfrey in Little Dorrit, to "go on dreaming" in print.

"L. S. R." will doubtless deem it incumbent on whosoever differs with his obstetric theory of "true modesty," to express themselves as he hath done—"freely and fairly," and "dress their thoughts in plain language." 'Tis well. It shall be done.—His respondent doth hereby vouch that what shall be said herein, shall be eminently respectful, and are the sentiments of a large majority of the public, relative to "L. S. R.'s" impudic method of advertising the people that there is a prospective increase of population at his household.

Be informed then, O sapient Physiologist, that it would have been greatly to the benefit of your reputation, had you never waxed so reformatory in your mind as to write Wright's "Mothers' Relief" doctrine, concerning which you evidently know such a little. Every "idea" you have attempted to promulgate, has been a thousand times better argued by a thousand men and "women of both sexes," of a thousand times your physiological calibre, and are now possessed by all well-regulated families in the United States and Canada. Verily the volumes on Midwifery are not made parlor manuals, and you and your children's children will never write enough newspaper articles to so change the popular etiquette as to make them so. Even if you had the ability to write logically, instead of yanking a jargon of naked ideas lewdly by the tail before the public gaze, you never could so change the popular taste as to render your last communication fit family reading. Take a practical view of matters, thou prodigy—thou oracle! go now to a social assembly of the elite of Quincy, and there venture to relate tales concerning—"where the child is marked after (I shew!) what syntax!" birth, and jeopardize thy person by indulging in the kind of conversation recommended in your puerile communication. "See ye not," "be ye not," and only consider that instead of being "looked up to" with feelings of hatred, (deuce of a look-up!) you are almost universally pitied for your plentiful lack of common sense!—What boots it to the people, whose mother was frightened by a rat? Can the writers of Wright's doctrine ever prevent such misfortunes? How will L. S. R.'s writings ever conduce to "barn mankind aright?" Every one knows instances of monstrous births and bad conceptions, and none but fools and free-lovers expect the course of human events in that behalf will ever be different; so what's the use of philosophizing on "circumstances ever which we have no control?"—as Mr. Guppy hath it. Your respondent might tell another deplorable tale of an enclave mother who was frightened by a quail, instead of a rat, and who was delivered of a son with so goosy an intellect that he hath recently attempted to force the vulgar Henry C. Wright nonsense on our people; but to revert to the indecible fact could benefit no one except the delectable L. S. R. himself, so the respondent doth refrain from so doing, and doth petition the relator L. S. R. to plod his weary way Wrightward in print no more until he takes unto himself a balance-wheel!

PL. G. RIM.
P. S.—If anybody charges that the above is more bawdy than argumentative, the respondent will not take the responsibility of differing with that idea, but will merely justify himself by pleading that he hath endeavored to write in accordance with the ancient maxim which saith, "answer a fool according to his folly."

P. G. R.
STRAWBERRIES. The cultivation of this plant, has received unusual attention of late, by some of our most enterprising citizens, particularly Mr. Prescott, who has a fine bed, at the east side of Presidents Hill. They look remarkably well and thrifty. The Strawberry, is the earliest of our summer fruit, and usually, on that account, commands a high price. They are not difficult to or expensive, we believe, to raise; all they require, as we have been informed, is a suitable soil, a slight covering of some kind in the fall, to protect the roots from the hard frosts of winter, and a little attention in the spring to preserve the vines and keep them in good bearing order. The fruit is gathered by hand (which is the most laborious part of the business,) and put up in boxes, of about one quart each, which readily sell here, and in Boston, at twenty-five cents.

At Farmington, Iowa, a little girl four years old was carried by a sudden gust of wind and lodged in a cherry tree a few rods distant, her clothes having caught in the branches of the tree, where she remained unhurt.

For the Patriot.
Cold-footed Rats.

Who can read all the mysteries of Nature? Who can fathom the depths of the Creator's power? Why is it that rats have cold feet? How curious that this fact should not be referred to in private circles, and why should a person be avoided that walks boldly up to the question and discusses it freely in assemblies of both sexes. It is not simply a question of skin milk, a rat immersed in warm skin-milk would have warm feet; hence, these about to be mothers should always keep the milk warm lest a rat should jump out of the milk pan when they are removing the skum from the lacteal fluid. If the liquid is tepid the babe might have two hands, yet there is a strong probability it would have a milk leg. The celebrated philosopher and surgeon, Sir Richard Darnpool, alludes to the case of a lady, while in delicate condition, who heard the bray of a jackass and at or nearly the same time, the shrill scream of the crane, at which she was very much terrified, and the consequence was that her offspring had in his physical form, long thin legs and in his intellect all the characteristics of a donkey.—Has the case ever been duplicated is a question that may well be inquired into. Reason tells us that such a state of things is possible. Facts—stubborn facts—that it is probable.—These arenas of Nature demand our serious consideration and should be discussed firmly, freely, and with a desire to clemente the truth. Who does not remember the case of the white lady that produced the black child after she had been chased by a negro.—It was a sad event, for though scandal said he caught her as she did not run very fleetly, yet in the contemplation of this strange freak of Nature we must set aside and reject all such gross insinuations. I have been led to these remarks by reading a chaste and refined article in your last number and so much was I impressed with it that I have insensibly adopted the delicate sentiments and the peculiarly proper style of your gifted correspondent.

L. S. R.
For the Patriot.
The Town Clock.
Mr. Editor: I should be gratified to learn the reason why the Clock, on the Stone Temple has not, before this, been put in striking order. I am impressed with the opinion, that the principal objection raised against the "Old Bell," was its uselessness, on account of its damaged state, to produce a vibration of sufficient strength, to be heard even at a small distance. It was, then, a new one, of enlarged powers, that no steps have been taken to carry out the views and wishes of the town. If there are obstacles in the way, would it not be advisable for the Committee or those who have the Clock in charge, to confer with the Selectmen, and see what can be done in the matter? All are not fortunate enough to repose under the shadow of the dial; in justice, therefore, to those whose homes and places of business are distant, it is expected the clock will be kept in such a condition, as to proclaim audibly the hour of the day.

We have heard many complaints of late, and we think there will be others, unless something is done soon.

Q. R.
PORTABLE FOLDING CLOTHES DRYER.—We have seen it and like it much; so does our family, who have had one on trial for a number of weeks past. In fact, they say, if it could not be replaced, they would not part with it for love or money. Drying clothes is now reduced to a science; economy in time as well as labor has entered largely into the design of the inventor. The "Portable Clothes Dryer" is very simple in its construction; it opens and shuts like an umbrella; and when its arms are extended, looks like the wings of a wind-mill in motion; it occupies but little space, and may be tented in any remote corner. After the socket is placed, on which it rests, it can be put up or taken down at a moment's notice. In bad weather it may be removed into the house. In our judgment, it is a decided hit—a great improvement over the old practice, of barricading the entire passage-way to a dwelling, with a net work like a spider's web, to attempt to thread which, (especially if the wind is blowing fresh,) is usually attended with the loss of a hat, a bruised nose, or the danger of being smothered alive amidst a forest of wet linen.

With a single trial we are satisfied no family would be without one.

THE LONGEST DAY. Wednesday last was the longest day of the season. The sun then rose at twenty-three minutes past four, and set forty minutes past seven; being over six hours longer than the shortest day in December; for the sun on the twentieth of that month, rises at twenty-six minutes past seven and sets at thirty-one minutes past four. The earth has now taken a new angle towards the sun; she has entered her last course for this year; and is carrying us rapidly into colder regions. We may enjoy for a short season our iced juleps, but Nature has those in store for us, which we shall soon have to imbibe, under a thermometer, perhaps, twenty degrees below zero.

FIRST FRUITS OF THE SEASON. We have been made the recipient, through the kindness of our neighbor, Eli Hayden, Esq., with as fine a box of strawberries, as we ever laid eyes on. They were fresh from that gentleman's garden. Some of them were nearly as large as pullet's eggs. They were very acceptable. Friend H. will please accept our grateful acknowledgments for his generous remembrance of us.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The fourth national exhibition of horses will be held in Springfield, (Mass.) the first week in September.

A vast aquarium is being made in Philadelphia for the Continental Hotel. Its area is twenty feet square, its depth ten feet. It is to be divided into two compartments, and its object is to afford a receptacle in which turtles, lobsters, terrapins, et cetera genus can be fattened for the table. It is the biggest affair of the kind now extant.

There are six or seven generations of gnats in a summer, and each lays two hundred and fifty eggs.

The Cuban Messenger states that there are now finished and in the course of construction throughout the island of Cuba twenty-seven railroads, comprising an aggregate of about eight hundred and eighteen miles.

A machine for making button holes is said to be the latest thing in the way of inventions. It will work, it is reported, ten button holes a minute. The next thing will be a machine to sew on buttons, then "Hurrah for the bachelor!"

A highly respected citizen of Toledo, (Ill.) said to be worth thirty thousand dollars, and did not owe a dime, committed suicide by drowning himself through fear that he should come to want.

The heavy rains in the West are a god-send to lumbermen. Upon Belle river alone, in Michigan, fifty thousand logs were released by the rise of water. So also of all the smaller streams.

Forty French girls, direct from Canada, have arrived in Lowell. Only one out of the number can speak English. They are to be employed in the Lawrence Mills.

Lorenzo Dow once said of a grasping farmer, that if he had the whole world enclosed in a single field, he would not be content without a patch of ground outside for potatoes.

The fine ship "Massachusetts," which has been fitted up with great care and completeness for the purposes of a nautical school, in which to educate boys to become accomplished seamen, has been dedicated by appropriate services.

The Ohio Journal of Education quotes an account of a school where, out of thirty-five pupils, only two were boys, and the rest were girls were smokers.

The Queen of Spain, says the Madrid journals, made a distribution of fifty thousand cigars among the troops on their arrival at the Capital.

In Washington County, (Va.) a man who is worth upwards of one hundred thousand dollars, was convicted of hog stealing and sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary.

The Gloucester (Mass.) Advertiser says that vessels fitting away for the Bay find much difficulty in getting a suitable complement of men. This is unusual, as there is generally an overplus of seamen who are waiting for a chance.

Deaths.

In Braintree, on the 12th ult., Mrs. Charlotte, wife of Mr. Jonathan French, 2d, aged 53 years.

In the death of Mrs. French, her husband, the Church, and the community have met an irreparable loss. She was a woman of rare accomplishments. Kind and affectionate in her disposition, she loved all whom she knew and was beloved by all who knew her. Her benevolence was universal. The poor ever found a friend in her, and many a tear will fall from the eye of the needy over the grave of her they so much loved. Her heart was always open to the calls of charity, and benevolent objects ever found in her a firm friend. The Church of which she was a member has lost one of its brightest gems—her consistent Christian character shone with the greatest lustre where she was best known. The house of God—the social circle—the weekly Prayer Meeting and Sabbath School, were places at which she delighted to be, and seldom was her seat vacant unless necessarily detained. Her loss is deeply felt by the Sabbath School, of which she was long an efficient and successful teacher. The members of her class will not soon forget her many faithful admonitions; the earnest entreaties she gave them to submit their hearts to the Saviour, and those who had done so to live the Christian's life. But her work on earth is done. She sleeps in Jesus. He has called, she has obeyed the summons. Methinks I hear the angelic throng saying,

"Sister Spirit come away."
Blessed are the dead who live in the Lord.

MICHAEL DOHERTY.
Quincy, June 23d.

THE FLOWER QUEEN. The personification of this Canto, (in two parts) by a class of young ladies and Misses under the direction of Miss H. F. Pierce, of Weymouth, comprising about twenty-five members, came off at the Town Hall, on Thursday evening last, before an audience of about two hundred. The characters were well sustained.—Miss Pierce acquitted herself admirably. It was a novel treat, which was well received. The piece is intended to represent a meeting of the flowers to choose a queen; hill and dale, mountain and valley, send their representatives. The merits of the aspiring candidates for the honor, are discussed in the language of song, and the effect was most pleasing and gratifying.

No less than seventy professional pick-pockets were spotted by the New York police in the first train of cars which arrived at the Union race course. They were admonished to go back again and save themselves trouble, which most of them did.

LIVER COMPLAINT. This dangerous and often fatal disease had long baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians, when the discovery of Dr. M. Lane's Liver Pills solved the difficulty, and presented to the world the great specific, which has attained such wide-spread celebrity for its certainty of cure. This successful remedy was the result of many years' study, in which the symptoms were narrowly observed, and are thus described by the Doctor himself—

"Symptoms of a diseased Liver.—Pain in the right side, and sometimes in the left, under the edge of the ribs—the patient being rarely able to lie on the left; pain sometimes under the shoulder-blade, frequently extending to the top of the shoulder—often mistaken for rheumatism in the arm; sickness of stomach, and loss of appetite; bowels mostly costive, but sometimes alternated with lax; dull, heavy sensation in the back part of the head; loss of memory, with uneasiness of having neglected something; sometimes dry cough; weariness and debility; nervous irritation; feet cold or burning; and pricking sensation of skin; low spirits, lassitude, with disinclination to exercise, although satisfied it would be beneficial. In fact, patient distrusts every remedy."

Have you any, or all of these symptoms? If so, you will find a certain remedy in M. Lane's Pills. Prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh. Dr. Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M. Lane's celebrated Liver Pills manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Liver Pills in comparison are worthless. Dr. M. Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Notice is hereby given, to "All Owners of Dogs," that on and after July 5th, 1860, the "Dog Law" will be rigorously enforced in the town of Quincy. By order of the Constables of Quincy. Quincy, June 23.

NOTICE. The Statute concerning Dogs requires all dogs to be registered, described, numbered and licensed, and wear a collar with the owner's name and registered number on it. "That any person may, and every Constable shall kill or cause to be destroyed all dogs going at large not so registered and collared."

Whereas complaints are made that the provisions of said Statute are not complied with, the Selectmen hereby give notice that they shall cause the same to be carried into effect. GEO. L. GILL, Town Clerk. Quincy, June 16.

NOTICE. The Ladies of Christ Church propose holding a Fair on the 27th and 28th of June, the proceeds to be devoted to furnishing their Church now erecting, and the patronage of all interested is desired. The Fair will be held in the Town Hall, and will be open on Wednesday, from 3 to 10 p. m., and on Thursday, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. The Quincy Band has generously volunteered their services for the last evening. Through the kindness of the President of the Old Colony Railroad, an extra train of cars will leave Quincy for Boston and Waystations at 10 o'clock on both evenings. Contributions of useful and fancy articles, fruit, flowers and refreshments, will be gratefully received by the Ladies and may be sent to the Hall on the days of the Fair. Should the weather be stormy the Fair will be continued through Friday. Quincy, June 16.

A CARD TO THE LADIES. Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females. One of the most successful remedies ever discovered for female complaints. "One of the 'first ladies' of New London," who has used them says, she considers them of so much value she would not be without them, and would cheerfully pay five dollars a box for them if she could get them no less. The ingredients of these Pills are made known to every agent, and they will tell you it is the best female medicine ever sold, at the same time perfectly harmless. Price $1 per box. Sold by Mrs. E. Hayden, sole agent for Quincy.

Ladies by sending her $1 through the Quincy P. O., can have the Pills sent to any part of the country confidentially by mail. WEEKS & POTTER, 154 Washington Street, Boston, wholesale agents. S. D. HOWE, Proprietor, N. Y. Quincy, Nov. 19th, 1859.

Doors, Blinds, Sashes, &c.

THE Undersigned, manufacturers, at Augusta, Me., would respectfully inform their former customers and the public generally, that they have opened an establishment on

CHARLESTOWN ST., NO. 21,

(corner of Sullivan St.) where they will keep constantly on hand a large and complete assortment of DOORS, BLINDS, SASHES, &c. As they manufacture their own articles (mostly from St. John lumber), and in large quantities, they are satisfied that they can sell at such prices as to defy competition, and offer strong inducements to all in want of the above articles, either at WHOLESALE or RETAIL.

N. B.—Particular attention paid to orders by mail or express.

Paper Hangings, 1860.

CALEB GILL & CO. take pleasure in informing the citizens of Quincy and adjacent towns that they have received their

New Stock of

PAPER HANGINGS, BORDERS,

CURTAINS, and FIREBOARDS, which have all been selected with care, and are of the best workmanship, and of superior style, finish and beauty.

Making this branch in its season a leading article of trade, they are now able to exhibit 200 PATTERNS, covering a stock of

6000 ROLLS OF PAPER suitable for PARLORS, CHAMBERS, DINING AND SITTING

ROOMS, KITCHENS, HALLS, AND PUBLIC ROOMS.

They have also to match the Paper, 100

PATTERNS OF BORDERING, in every variety of Color and Style.

50 PATTERNS FOR

WINDOW CURTAINS & FIREBOARDS.

The style of Papers and Borders sold by us is of a kind sure to suit, and were sold last year in Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Milton and Randolph, and every where gave perfect satisfaction, and we can safely warrant the same pleasing results from our large assortment the present season.

Poetry.

Man's Mission.

Human lives are silent teaching—
Be they earnest, mild and true—
Noblest deeds are noblest preaching
From the consecrated Few.
Poet-Preachers their anthem singing,
Hero-sword or corselet ringing.
When Truth's banner is unfurled;
Youthful preachers, genius gifted,
Pouring forth their souls uplifted,
Till their preaching stars the world.

Each must work as God has given,
Here hands or poet souls—
Work is duty while we live in This world of sin and dole.
Gentle spirits, lowly kneeling,
Lift their white hands up appealing
To the Throne of Heaven's King—Stronger actions, culminating,
In great actions incarnating
What another can but sing.

Pure and meek-eyed as an angel,
We must strive—must agonize;
We must preach the saint's evangel
Ere we claim the saint's prize—
Work for all—for work is holy—E'en if paid so very poorly—
When, like Heaven's arch above,
Blood our souls in one emblazon,
And the social dispensation
Sounds the perfect chord of love.

Life is combat, life is striving,
Such our destiny below—
Like a scythed chariot driving Through an onward pressing foe.
Deepest sorrow, scorn, and trial
Will but teach us self-denial;
Like the Archangels of old,
Pass the ere through cleansing fire,
If our spirits would aspire
To be God's refined gold.

We are struggling in the morning
With the spirit of the night
But we triumph on its coming—
So! the eastern sky is bright,
We must watch. The day is breaking;
Soon, like Memnon's statue waking
With the sunrise into sound,
We shall raise our voice to Heaven,
Chant a hymn for conquest given,
Seize the palm, nor heed the wound.

We must bend our thoughts to earnest,
Would we stride the Id is down;
With the purpose of the sternest
Take the Cross, and leave the Crown.
Suffering human life can follow,
Suffering lead to God's Valhalla—Meekly bear, but nobly try,
Like a man with soft tears flowing,
Like a God with conquest glowing,
So to love, and work and die!

The Saxon Heart.

The Saxon heart be not control;
Like stately steams upon their course,
The tide sweeps on within the soul,
Overpowering every adverse force.
The brave good heart, that takes its stand,
Resisting wrong, abhorring shame,
Is like a prince to take command,
Regardless still of praise or blame.
The matchless heart, in bold embrace,
The conquering heart, the heart so strong,
The heart of heroes, brave or wise,
The heart that always rights the wrong.
The race that erst in forest dread,
The deadly arrow swiftly sped,
Hath dropt the winged shaft and spear,
And wields the winged thought instead.
The race that once went bravely forth,
To heed the wild war in his den,
Now meets the Titan in his wrath,
And boldly claims the rights of men.
As in those Saxon wilds of old,
The howling roared far and wide,
The words of truth ring out like gold,
The same old spirit sanctified.

The Whistler's Tune.

Supper was over, the boy went out,
He passed thro' the yard and over the stile,
The big dog barked as he went along by,
And followed him nearly a mile.
And he sat down on a hickory log,
And whistled a lively tune, this boy,
Which took the ear of the barking dog,
And he wagged his tail for joy!

The beetle stopped from pinching the fly,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,
And the toad in his hole stood still,

Anecdotes.

A druggist sent his Irish porter into a dark cellar. Soon after, hearing a noise, he went to the opening and called out:—
Patrick, keep your eyes skinned!—
Och! divil an eye, roared Pat, but it's me nose that skint intirely!

A man once asked another who he liked best to hear preach.
Why, said he, I like to hear Mr. A. best, because, said he, I don't like to hear any preaching, and his is the nearest to nothing of anything I ever heard.

Why, Doctor, said a lady, you talk as though a horse were better than a man!
He is, said the doctor, he never deceives a lady—his tongue is bridled—and he hates hoofs.

An Irish drummer, whose round and rosy cheeks gave notice that he now and then indulged in a noggin of right good poteen, was accosted by the inspecting general.
What makes your face so red, sir?
Plaze your honour, replied Pat, I always blushes when I spake to a general officer.

I have a fresh cold, said a gentlemen to his acquaintance.
Why do you have a fresh one? Why don't you have it cured!

When Socrates was asked why he had built for himself so small a house.
Small as it is, he replied, I wish I could fill it with friends.

Let them sing all day—like the birds—at all proper times. Have them mutually interested in the same things, amusements, and occupations, having specified times for each, so that their habits will be orderly. Let them work together in the garden—boys and girls—both need out-of-door work. Together let them enjoy their games, riddles, &c.—all their plays, books, and work—while the parents eyes direct and sympathize, and their loud voices blend in loving accord.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

* BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SOCIETY WE *

PAINFUL ACCIDENT. On Wednesday last, as Otis M. Pope, of this town, was leaving his home in a one horse wagon, the horse succeeded in clearing his mouth of the bit, set off at the top of his speed, and being thus unmanageable, in turning the corner to the entrance of Mr. Josiah Baxter's premises, near Wyman Abernethy's store, on Washington street, threw Mr. Pope out heavily on the ground, fracturing the back part of his head, and injuring him severely otherwise. He was taken up insensible, and conveyed to his home, in which situation he has remained ever since. It is thought he cannot recover. Drs. Woodward and Weston are in attendance.

Mr. Pope was an estimable citizen, and our community, generally, sympathize in his misfortune.

Since writing the above, we are happy to learn that Mr. Pope is now considered more comfortable. His physicians say, that his chances of recovery have greatly improved within the last forty-eight hours.

FATAL ACCIDENT. On Saturday afternoon last, Burton Wales, about twenty-three years of age, son of Asa B. Wales, Esq., of the Weymouth Landing Hotel, drove out in a team accompanied by a friend, but the horse became restive and uncontrollable and started off at a high rate of speed. While passing through East Braintree the occupants of the carriage were thrown violently to the earth, Wales receiving a fatal fracture of the skull, which he survived about half an hour, while the other gentleman was but slightly injured.

THE FOURTH. Never within our remembrance, do we recollect so quiet and still an eve of the "Nation's Birthday." In other times, on its advent, all was preparation and bustle. Now, even "Young America" has not made a demonstration; the whole patriotic art has been busily engaged for their amusement—yet their wares lay on the shelf uncalled for. What does it mean? Do they lack the usual enthusiasm? or is it for the want of means to bring it out? Perhaps the latter; or it may be that they are holding back intending to take part in the celebrated scrub race to come off in November next. They must be careful; there is but one that can win, with three chances against them. The Southern tag leads off gallantly—but then, it is not improbable that some one of his Western competitors may eventually take the prize. Such thoughts, however, should be laid aside on this occasion. And if it is to be, as some of our political savants will have it, that this is the last National jubilee, we shall enjoy under the broad banners of the Union, let it be a hearty one—that shall long be remembered.

Notwithstanding appearances are unfavorable, we are of the opinion that it will be a lively time next week, and hope to be able to render a good account in our next.

CLERICAL. Rev. Albert Tyler, of Worcester, in this State, has accepted an unanimous call to become the pastor of the Universalist society of this town. Mr. Tyler, in his youth, served an apprenticeship in the printing office of the Worcester Spy, where he was much beloved and esteemed by his brother typers. After becoming master of the "Art Preservative," he became the proprietor of a rich and racy newspaper in Connecticut, in which position he achieved a justly eminent celebrity as an editor of rare abilities and honesty of purposes. His pastoral engagement with us will commence tomorrow; and if, as appearances indicate, he prove as able and popular a minister as he was editor, the society will rejoice at their fortunate selection.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT. We should have acknowledged in our last, the receipt of a very acceptable present from our generous and esteemed friend, R. B. Leuchars, Esq., but by mistake, it was overlooked, among other similar favors. The omission, in the plenitude of his generous feelings, we are sure, will be attributed to the right cause. The fruit was most delicious—we do not recollect a season when the strawberry crop was so plenty and fair. Mr. L. will please accept our thanks for this last token of his esteem, and those of our family, for the free invitation to visit his grounds, and help themselves.

Mr. Benjamin H. Bailey of Cambridge, will preach in the Stone Temple tomorrow.

Boston Correspondence.

THE NATIONAL ELECTION OF 1860.

Well, the fierce struggle is over at Baltimore, and Judge Douglas is nominated by the regular Democratic Convention for the Presidency, as we have always predicted. How he stands before the people, or rather what his peculiar views are from the three other candidates, Bell, Lincoln and Breckinridge we give in his own language in a letter to the Baltimore Convention of Wednesday last, as follows:

"I firmly and conscientiously believe that there is no safety for the country, no hope for the preservation of the Union, except by the faithful and rigid adherence to the principles of non-intervention by Congress with slavery in the Territories. Intervention means disunion—there is no difference of principle between Northern and Southern intervention. The one intervenes for slavery, and the other against slavery, but each appeals to the passions and prejudices of his own section against the peace of the whole country and the right of self-government by the people of the Territories; hence the doctrine of non-intervention must be maintained at all hazards; but while I can never sacrifice the principle, even to obtain the Presidency, I will cheerfully and joyfully sacrifice myself to maintain the principle."

With these views clearly enunciated to the American freemen, he goes into this fearful conflict, as the standard-bearer of State Rights Doctrine, of Popular Sovereignty in their widest interpretation. There is no back track for his Democratic supporters—they seek none. Believing him willing to import equal and exact justice to all in governmental matters; to the North, South, East and West—one country, "however bounded." They go into the approaching contest, with the fervent aspiration "that God would speed the right." The political horizon now is like a cloudy morning; the glorious orb of day, seen but obscurely through the vapors that arise about us. But the dark vista will soon be illumined. The second sober thought of the people will follow; and their verdict on the Presidential election will be just and patriotic. The campaign is now opened with four candidates in the field. Mr. Lincoln, as the leader of the Republican party; a man well spoken of by his countrymen for honesty and integrity. He subscribed to the Chicago platform, that with a single alteration would have been acceptable to Northern Democrats; and that exception is non-intervention by Congress on slavery in the Territories. The Republicans go forth to battle with their Chicago Resolutions; condemning the John Brown Raid in Virginia; acknowledging State Sovereignty in slavery matters; disapproving the Two Year's Amendment of Massachusetts to the Naturalization Laws, and advocating a protective Tariff. Without these declarations the foreign vote of the West, never could be expected for the Republican party. The advocates of Judge Douglas go further. They contend that Congress has no right to legislate on slavery in the Territories; that it is a municipal matter, legitimately within Territorial control as it is in the States, and here is the issue taken by Judge Douglas. The views of the Bell party are more indefinite and aim at conciliation between the North and the South, by taking for their guide the Constitution. Among the friends of the Bell and Everett ticket are found some of the soundest men of our country, and the disruption of the Democratic party will give large accessions to their number. Vice President Breckinridge may be said to endorse extreme Southern views on the power of Congress to protect slavery wherever it goes. It is for the people to choose between these four candidates, "All honorable men." The contest is to be bitter and recriminating; but there is no need of such a spirit. Every man has the right to vote as he pleases, and should yield that right to others. Little is gained by personal vituperation. As a criterion to the results of the coming National election, a recurrence to the Presidential vote of 1856 would not be now inappropriate. Then there were three, now there are four regular candidates. The popular vote on Mr. Buchanan was 1,838,232; Col. Fremont 1,341,514; Mr. Fillmore 874,767. In several of the States now claimed by the friends of Mr. Lincoln and Douglas, or acknowledged by many of them as uncertain States, the vote was as follows:

Illinois, Buchanan received 105,348 votes; Fremont 96,189; Fillmore 37,444. Pennsylvania 230,772 for Buchanan; 147,963 for Fillmore; 82,202 for Lincoln. New Jersey, Buchanan 46,943; Fremont 28,338; Fillmore 24,115. Connecticut a majority of over five thousand votes for Col. Fremont. The immense vote in New York, always an uncertain State in Presidential elections, was as follows: Col. Fremont 276,004; Buchanan 195,878; Mr. Fillmore 124,604. Fremont falling short of 44,778 votes majority in the Empire State. Fremont led his competitors in New Hampshire over five thousand votes, Mr. Fillmore receiving but four hundred and twenty-two in the whole State. California for Buchanan 53,365; Fillmore 36,165; Fremont 20,691. Maryland gave 281 votes and Delaware 308 votes for Fremont. Missouri none. The Presidential vote in Massachusetts was for Fremont 108,190; Buchanan 39,240; Fillmore 19,626. Maryland gave her electoral vote for Mr. Fillmore by some 8000 majority. Ohio failed by 10,000 in giving a majority for the Republican candidate. The whole number of votes of the electoral college, is now 303; necessary for a choice 152. Not counting the votes of the slave States for Lincoln (120 in number.) If he obtains every vote of the Free States, except Pennsylvania, California and Oregon, he would not be elected. The loss of New Jersey, Illinois, and Indiana would defeat the Republican candidate. So "that there is no telling whose going to be Governor until after the election." If no choice is made by the people, the House of Representatives shall select from the three persons having the highest number of votes, and choose by States. If no choice is made by the fourth of March, the Vice President becomes President. If no person have a majority for Vice President, then from the two highest candidates on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice President.

THANKS. Our heart has been made glad, in numerous instances of late, by the kindness of our friends, for their generous bequests, of the early productions of their gardens, particularly Mr. Wm. Gardner Prescott. His present, a fine box, of that delicious fruit, the strawberry—was very acceptable.

Mr. Prescott, as we have before intimated, has given much attention to the cultivation of this plant; he has one of the finest and most extensive strawberry fields in the vicinity; his garden, in other respects, is a model of its kind—where the earliest and most choice vegetables of the season may be found. The sample sent us, as assured by Mr. P., were gathered from vines of only two years growth, raised from the seed; the method practised by modern horticulturists to improve the quality. The seed rarely produces any of the original stock, but every other variety imaginable. From these, the best is selected, for new experiments, and in this way, the species may be multiplied ad infinitum.

INDEPENDENCE DAY. The Union Meeting of the friends of Temperance in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties, will be held in Island Grove, Abington, on Wednesday, July 4, commencing at 10 o'clock, A. M. The different Divisions of the Sons of Temperance, Temperance Alliances, Good Templars, Bands of Hope, Cadets of Temperance, etc., are invited to be present.

ECONOMY. We would call the attention of our readers to an article, which commends itself particularly to heads of families, as being the cheapest and best article in the market for making soap. One box, costing only twenty-five cents, of the Keystone State Saponifier, or Concentrated Lye, will make Twenty-five Gallons of good Soft Soap—Elbridge Clapp has it for sale.

ASPARAGUS. Nathaniel White, Esq., kindly remembered us, a few days ago, by a good supply of his fresh and tender asparagus.

SCHOOL HOUSES. We learn that a building committee from West Cambridge—Hon. Wm. E. Parmenter, with Messrs Samuel Butterfield, W. J. Lane and Josiah Crosby—visited a few days since the model school-house at Quincy Point, and after an inspection decided to adopt the plan of this unrivalled edifice for a new structure to be erected in their town.

GREAT SALE OF FINE CARPETS. See the advertisement of the New England Carpet Company, of Boston, in to-day's paper.

TEAS. An excellent article may be found at the Family Grocery Store of Joseph Arey, Jr. What is more refreshing than a good cup of finely flavored tea?

ICE CREAM. Warren Veazie, at his saloon, serves to his many patrons, every day, evening, this delicious preparation, and it is really cooling and refreshing to partake of them these sultry evenings.

DR. McLANE'S PILLS. Another resident of New York City testifies to the good effects of Dr. McLANE's celebrated Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros.

This is to certify that I have had the Liver Complaint for five years, during which time I have tried almost all known remedies, but to no purpose. Hearing of Dr. McLANE's Celebrated Liver Pills, I concluded to try a box. I did so, and am now almost cured. I think one box more will effect a permanent cure. I can recommend these Pills to all who may suffer from liver complaint. I have also known them used with the most happy results in cases of sick-headache, or dyspepsia.

Mr. Swift, No. 116 Attorney street. Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. McLANE's celebrated Liver Pills manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Liver Pills in comparison are worthless. Dr. McLANE's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of Fleming Bros.

One of the census marshals in Franklin County (Tenn.) made the acquaintance of a lady seventy-five years old, who built three hundred yards of good rock fence within the last year, with her own hands; and what is more, she gathered and carried in her arms all the materials of which the fence was built.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A citizen of Worcester, (Mass.) has in his possession one of the ancient ball cartridges made for the "Minute Men," just before their march for Lexington in 1775.

Illinois and Iowa have been visited by some terrible tornadoes recently, destroying many lives and much property. Some of the accounts are very distressing, surpassing anything of the kind ever before known in this country.

The Connecticut Legislature has repealed the act prohibiting circus exhibitions in that State.

Common glass may be drilled with an ordinary blow-drill, by keeping one or two drops of spirits of turpentine on the glass at the point of the drill.

The New Hampshire Legislature have agreed not to disturb the old naturalization laws of that State.

The Artesian well at Columbus, (Ohio,) has already reached the unprecedented depth of twenty-four hundred feet, or nearly half a mile. It is the deepest well in the world, but as yet discharges no water, nor exhibits any signs of it.

Stop mouse holes with plugs of common hard soap, and you will do it effectually. Rats, roaches and ants won't disregard it.

Definite arrangements have been made for the final departure of the Japan Embassy in the Niagara, from New York city on the 30th inst.

Stone bullets were used until the year 1514, when iron was adopted. It was near the close of the sixteenth century before leaden bullets came into general use. Stone cannon balls are yet employed in the East.

The National Monument Committee have recommended a granite monument in the centre of Independence Square, Philadelphia, to commemorate the Declaration of Independence, the cost not to exceed 150,000.

Agriculturists through the country are becoming alarmed at the rapid increase of obnoxious weeds, until recently were unknown in America. The weeds are brought over in the straw used in packing grocery crates, and in the soil around fruit trees, shrubs and plants.

A chasm nearly a mile long, and several feet wide, has been opened in the ground at some distance from the city of Lun by the recent earthquakes.

Major General Thomas S. Jessup, whose death occurred at Washington city, June 10th, was an officer of much experience and of decided merit; he was born in Virginia, and at the time of his death was seventy-two years of age.

It is estimated there are forty-five thousand runaway slaves in Canada West, at the present time. Property depreciates fifty per cent, in the neighborhood of their settlements.

It is said to have been ascertained by experiment in Germany, so says a writer, that an acre of buckwheat in full bloom will yield fourteen pounds of honey per day.

A number of Indians of the Six Nations have enlisted in one of the English regiments in Canada, in which they acquire themselves as regular soldiers with much credit. This is probably the first instance of North American Indians appearing in the ranks of the British army as regular uniformed soldiers.

A new whiskey, called "Tangle-leg," has been invented. It is said to be made of diluted alcohol, nitric acid, boot-leg and tobacco, and will upset a man at the distance of four hundred yards from the demijohn.

In Fall River, (R. I.) there are sixty-one families, in which there may be found fifty-eight dogs and ninety-three cats.

In Chicago, (Ill.) recently, a girl fourteen years old, was struck by lightning and killed; her steel spring hoops were melted, and her clothes set on fire.

The new crop of coffee in Brazil, is larger than ever before known; the limbs of the trees having to be propped up to prevent their breaking beneath the weight of the growing berries.

A big clam was dug the other day at Provincetown, (Mass.) which measured fourteen inches around its centre latitudinally, and nineteen inches longitudinally, and weighed about four pounds.

A member of a military company of Jersey City, during a parade, ate twenty hard-boiled eggs, and drank several glasses of lager beer, after which he laid down upon the grass and tried to sleep, but could not succeed. The result of the matter was that the eggs formed into a hard, indigestible lump in his stomach, and he died very suddenly the next evening.

John B. Gough, the temperance orator, who has been lecturing for three years in England, is to return to this country in July.

Great men never swell. It is only three cent individuals who are salaried at the rate of two hundred dollars a year and dine on potatoes and dried herring, who put on airs, flashy waistcoats, swell, blow, and endeavor to give themselves a consequential appearance.

The province of Canada is more than one third larger than France—nearly three times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and more than three times as large as Prussia. The population at present amounts to three millions.

The Batavia (N. Y.) Advocate alleges that a man in that town, a short time since, ate one hundred and three clams, of average size, within twenty-five minutes.

Hon. William H. English of Indiana (of "English bill" memory) has declined a re-nomination for Congress.

For the Patriot.

Professor Grimes.

MR. EDITOR: I was both amused and instructed, at Professor Grimes' entertainment on Thursday evening; but the Professor made one statement which some of his hearers did not comprehend. He stated that Garibaldi went to Sicily in two ships; will the Professor inform his admirers how long Garibaldi's legs might be?

Q IN A CORNER.

PERSONAL. We have the pleasure to announce the arrival from Washington on Tuesday last of our distinguished townsman the Hon. Charles F. Adams at his residence in this town, looking in good health. As the faithful and energetic member of Congress from this district, he has won the esteem and respect of his whole community.

CHESTNUT GROVE WHISKY

THE enterprise proprietors of CHESTNUT GROVE WHISKY, (The purest Medical Agent ever known,) has furnished the community a Stimulant, Pure, Healthful and Invigorating, at the same time a mild and delicious beverage. It is calculated to do away with the vile drugged stuff that is palmed off on the community, and which is injurious to body and mind. In addition to the certificates beneath, he has received a Diploma from the State Agricultural Society, and additional testimony from Dr. JACKSON, of Boston, who testifies under oath to its absolute purity.

CERTIFICATES.

Philadelphia, Sept. 9th, 1858.

We have carefully tested the sample of Chestnut Grove Whisky which you sent us, and find that it contains none of the poisonous substances known as Fossil Oil, which is the characteristic and injurious ingredient of the whiskies in general use.

BOOTH, GARRET & CHASE,

Analytical Chemists.

New York, Sept. 24, 1857.

I have analyzed a sample of Chestnut Grove Whisky, received from Mr. Charles Wharton, Jr., of Philadelphia, and having carefully tested it, I am pleased to state that it is entirely free from poisonous or deleterious substances. It is an unusually pure and fine flavored quality of whisky.

JAS. R. CHILTON, Analytical Chemist.

Boston, March 7th, 1859.

I have made a chemical analysis of commercial samples of Chestnut Grove Whisky, which proves to be free from the heavy Fossil Oils, and perfectly pure and unadulterated. The fine flavor of this Whisky is derived from the Grain used in manufacturing it. Respectfully,

A. A. HAYNES, M.D., State Assayer,

No 16, Boylston street.

9-TREMONT ROW—9

SILK & SHAWL STORE.

NAY & McCLURE

ARE now prepared to exhibit to purchasers one of the largest and best assortments of

DRY GOODS

ever offered in this city, comprising all the NEWEST AND MOST FASHIONABLE

Styles for 1860;

Together with many Auction Bargains, which can be sold at about one half the cost of importation!

It is unnecessary for us to enter into a long schedule of our assortment, but will merely say, that in addition to our large stock of

SILKS, SHAWLS,

Capes and Mantillas, of all kinds, we have a large variety of all kinds of

DRESS GOODS,

—ALSO—

HOUSE-KEEPING GOODS,

And always at Lowest Prices.

Our extensive facilities will enable us to offer

INDUCEMENTS TO PURCHASE,

which cannot be found elsewhere. At any rate, we pledge ourselves to continue the system of Large Sales—Small Profits.

By giving our exclusive attention to the

RETAIL TRADE

We are able to know the want of Customers, and to supply them; and, on examination, the candid judgment will be convinced that the most

ADVANTAGEOUS PLACE

TO SELECT

Silks, Shawls and Dress Goods,

IS AT

NO. 9 TREMONT ROW.

We give some REASONS WHY it will be to your advantage to purchase of us:—

1st—We do an immense business, and can afford to sell at a small advance over the cost.

2d—We can purchase, ourselves, cheaper in consequence of buying in large quantities.

3d—Our expenses are smaller, in proportion to our business, than any other store in New England.

4th—We close off, at the end of every business season, all the old stock on hand; this enables us to take advantage of the market, and always offer new goods.

5th—We sell for CASH, so that we are not obliged to overcharge our paying customers to make up losses on bad debts.

Finally, our Stock is selected with special reference to the fashionable retail trade, and comprises the plainest and cheapest fabrics, as well as the richest and best.
